City's Spokesmen Oppose Plan Of District Engineers

A proposal to run a rapid transit line through Mill Valley's Project 17 recreation area, with its depot on East Blithedale avenue, met nothing but objections at a public meeting in Mill Valley last night.

Under the plan, advanced by engineers making a route study for the Bay Area Rapid Transit District, four acres of the depot parking lot would be in the marshlands recreation area.

The line, along the old Northwestern Pacific railroad bed, would run through the Project 17 baseball diamond. The station would be placed under an overpass on East Blithedale avenue and, with parking lots on either side of the rail line, would take up about eight acres.

ENGINEER QUESTIONED

City council, planning commission and parks and recreation commission members asked questions of Louis Riggs of Tudor Engineering Co., the firm hired to map proposed routes for the five-county transit system.

Riggs said his firm is interested in Mill Valley's ideas and opinions about the system and hopes to see where they could be meshed with the overall aim of regional rapid transit.

G. W. (Bob) Robertson of the parks and recreation commission said the commission opposes the location. He said that Recco, the organization sponsoring Project 17, is also opposed to this site. Robertson said the route would "take about half the baseball diamond."

Charles Guichard, chairman of the parks and recreation commission, asked if there had been any study of the possible decrease in value of the projected developments in the marshland due to the rapid transit train tracks. Riggs said the reverse would be true.

STUDY SHOWED GAINS

Riggs said a study showed commercial property such as this gains value, sometimes 10 to one.

Asked if any alternate routes had been considered, Riggs said that a route parallel to the freeway had been considered but had been ruled out because the service to Mill Valley and the Tiburon Peninsula would not be so good and the cost would be much greater.

City Councilman Peter H. Behr suggested the Mill Valley station be located on the commercial property adjacent to Tamalpais High School, for closer access and better service. Riggs said this was a good proposal and that there are arguments for the route shifting to the south or moving slightly to the north, but what is needed

MUMPS STARTS TAPERING OFF IN N. MARIN

All are back in school this week, Supt. Phillip W. Schneider reported today.

Four or five pupils from each of the four schools in the district are out this week with the disease. The cases are said to be light, said the superintendent.

TV Triumphs Over Nature: Poles To Stay

Television triumphed over the beauties of nature in a reluctant decision to let Woodacre's new television poles to remain, reached yesterday by the Marin County Board of Supervisors.

The eventually unanimous verdict carried a proviso that whenever possible it shall be required that TV lines be carried on Pacific Gas and Electric Co. poles. It took into consideration:

1. A feeling that television is now an essential factor in the Marin way of life, especially for older persons.

2. Belief that property values are adversely affected if TV isn't available.

3. First-hand observation through which the board concluded that aesthetics of the disputed area aren't hurt too much by more poles.

Two communications on this subject were added yesterday to a file started a week ago with a petition by 55 Woodacre residents protesting installation of 28 poles — with two more to come— by Bob's TV Service under permit from the county public works department.

The board of the San Geronimo Valley Assn. wrote briefly to ask that the poles be removed from Central avenue and Railroad and Park streets. Sixteen Woodacre residents signed a letter saying that they were pro-pole because without poles no TV signals could be received, without TV property would depreciate in value, and "reception of TV should not be denied us."

Seeking an out, Supervisor William A. Gnoss asked Leland H. Jordan, county counsel, whether after giving permission for the poles to go up the county could order their re-

State To Skip School Board Voting In 1960

Trustees To Serve Extra Year Under New Legislation

There will be no school board elections next May in Marin County or anywhere else in California. State Att. Gen. Stanley Mosk has ruled that board members whose terms expire in 1960 and 1962 are entitled to an extra year of service, because of an act of the 1959 Legislature.

The Legislature, in amending the Education Code to extend school board membership from a three-year term to a four-year term, placed elections in odd-numbered years, with no elections provided in 1960 and 1962. This, in Mosk's opinion, is an "obvious oversight."

MERGED ELECTION

Simultaneously Mosk ruled that county boards of education elections should be consolidated with the June primary elections.

This means that school trustees will be elected in May during odd years and that members of county board of education will be elected in June instead of May.

Twenty-eight Marin County school trustees, who normally would have ended their terms of office next May, have been given an extra year. They are:

Radio Station Poison Try By Reds Told

Scheme Aimed Against Free Europe Employees

MUNICH, Germany (AP) — Radio Free Europe said today agents of a "foreign Communist power" have attempted a mass poisoning of its employees.

Most of the employees of this privately financed, American station are refugees from Iron Curtain countries.

Erik Hazelhoff, of Mount Kisco, N. Y., Radio Free Europe's European director, said a poison was found Nov. 21 in a number of saltshakers at the station's cafeteria. The cafeteria is frequented by 1,200 employees, who often bring their families.

The director said the substance was analyzed by U. S. Army medical authorities and was found to be a poisonous drug derived from the deadly nightshade plant.

TELLS OF ATTEMPT

Hazelhoff said the poisoning attempt was disclosed by a Radio Free Europe employee "who although ostensibly used by a foreign Communist power for sabotage purposes" has been cooperating with American authorities from the time he was first contacted by the Reds.

"He also revealed the identity of the person who planned these acts and ordered them executed, including this latest one, as being a Communist diplomat stationed in Western Europe acting on the instructions of his government," Hazelhoff continued.

MOSTLY REFUGEES

Radio Free Europe's employees are mostly East European refugees.

The cafeteria was closed.

"The delay in the issuance of this announcement has been due to the necessities of the investigation which are proceeding in close cooperation between RFE management and the proper authorities," he said.

Fairfax Plans Another Vote On School Tax

Fairfax School District will try again for a tax limit increase at a special election in March, district trustees decided unanimously last night.

Residents of the district will be asked to vote on a general tax limit of $2 per $100 assessed valuation, effective for five years.

Present limit is $1.25, which is effective indefinitely. A proposal for a $2 limit for five years was rejected last October by 594 votes to 457.

Trustees set no date last night for the March election.

The reasons cited for the increase were the same as previously stated, said Harold R. DePue, superintendent of the Fairfax-San Anselmo-Kentfield Confederated School Districts:

1. To improve the seventh and eighth grade program by creation of semi-departmentalized programs that best utilize teachers' skills, school facilties and an extended school day.

2. To hire an additional principal. Two principals now serve the three schools of the district.

3. To restore the curtailed music program. In 1949 an enrollment of 400 pupils had the services of a music teacher one day a week. The enrollment of 870 has the same service now.

4. To use $17,000 of the tax money to raise teacher salaries

President Eisenhower worked on his State of the Union message while cruising on the sunny Mediterranean today and received a 21-gun salute from the flagship of the British Mediterranean Fleet.

The President, aboard the cruiser Des Moines, was sailing on a westerly course between Malta and Sicily when the HMS Tiger, flagship of Adm. Sir Alexander Bingley, rendered passing honors.

Bingley is commander in chief of the British Mediterranean Fleet and of NATO's Mediterranean forces.

The President will resume talks on world problems tomorrow at a conference with Tunisia's President Habib Bourguiba ashore in Tunis. Then Eisenhower will return to the Des Moines, flagship of the U. Eisenhower sailed from Athens yesterday afternoon.

Hayden Tells Sausalito Kids Of South Seas

Hayden talked to the children of Bayside and Richardson Bay Schools for more than half an hour at an assembly on a sunny schoolground.

He told them that one of the greatest mistakes he ever made was setting up in Hollywood to make money. And he told them he was sorry he did not bring a film to show them as he originally had planned, but hoped that some day they would see his pictures of his recent trip on television.

Hayden and his four children, Christian, 11; Thor, 10; Gretchen, 9, and Matthew, 7 sailed for Tahiti last January. They returned to Sausalito last month. Hayden said he is now living in Tiburon, and not on the yacht Wanderer that he sailed to the South Seas.

He said one of the best things about the trip was that his children did not get to see television.

Hayden traced his love for the sea from the time when as a boy of 9 he watched sailing ships in Maine. Later, he said, during the depression of the 1930s, he worked on ships, and sailed all over the world.

"Then I went to Hollywood and made my biggest mistake. I went there to make money. I always had an idea

It's doubtful whether Juno can ever be "eyes" again for Franklin G. Fleming Jr. or his wife, Lucille, but Guide Dogs for the Blind held out hope today that one of the couple may get new "eyes" with the San Rafael school's January class.

At Tenth avenue and Geary street, man and dog alighted from a bus and started to cross the intersection. The bus turned right. Juno was run over.

Dr. Ernest A. Siegel of the Avenues Pet Hospital said the dog's right front leg was so badly mangled it should have been amputated. But on Fleming's fervent pleas, the doctor mended the broken leg as best he could and put it in a cast.

"There's a good chance the dog will pull through," said Dr. Siegel today. "But I don't know yet whether we can save the leg. And if we do, it will probably have a bad limp.

Well-Placed Kick Drives Off Assailant

A prowler, waiting in ambush for a woman clerk who worked late for Macy's department store in San Rafael, tried to grab her Monday night but fled when she kicked him in the neck with her high heels, police reported today.

Police said several women who got off late from work have been approached by a man in a similar way during the past few days.

The latest victim was Mrs. Jewel Florence Barkow of 114 Central avenue, Sausalito. She said she finished work at Macy's about 9:15 p.m. and walked to her car parked at Laurel and Nye streets.

As she put the key into the door, a man approached and asked: "Having trouble with the car? May I help you?" She said "No thanks," and entered her car. As she got behind the wheel, the man grabbed her arms, pinning her.

She kicked him, her pointed heels catching him in the neck. This and her screams frightened him off.

Mrs. Barkow described the man as about five feet eight or nine inches tall. He had a soft voice, and wore a dark suit or sport coat.

IRON IN THE WATER

Marin Housewives Can Resign Themselves To Dingy Washes

Marin housewives (and commercial laundry operators) were warned today not to expect snowy white washes until plenty of rain has fallen.

And bleach won't make the laundry whiter. In fact, it will turn the clothes brown.

Chemical tests made in Marin Municipal Water District's laboratory show the iron content of the water has increased to the point where, if bleach is added, the iron oxidizes out and leaves a brown stain on clothes washed in the water, said William R. Seeger, district manager.

This is so, said Seeger, because water in the district's reservoirs is at such low levels. It picks up iron from the soil. When bleach is added to the water, this iron is released.

Seeger recommended against use of bleaces "until the winter rains cause an appreciable gain in stored water."

The clothes won't get snowy white without bleach, said Seeger—but at least they won't turn brown.

"An appreciable gain in stored water" won't occur until perhaps five inches more of rain has fallen, in the water district manager's belief. The first five inches or so will soak into the ground before there is appreciable runoff to add to reservoir storage, he estimated.

The iron content of Marin Municipal District's water is not above the U. S. Public Health Department limit, Seeger said. It will cause no damage to health, he assured. But it won't make the wash look pretty.

Prospects for improvement received no encouragement from the U. S. Weather Bureau today. The forecast was for at least five more days of fair weather in the Bay Area.

And bleach won't make the laundry whiter. In fact, it will turn the clothes brown.

Chemical tests made in Marin Municipal Water District's laboratory show the iron content of the water has increased to the point where, if bleach is added, the iron oxidizes out and leaves a brown stain on clothes washed in the water, said William R. Seeger, district manager.

This is so, said Seeger, because water in the district's reservoirs is at such low levels. It picks up iron from the soil. When bleach is added to the water, this iron is released.

Seeger recommended against use of bleaces "until the winter rains cause an appreciable gain in stored water."

The clothes won't get snowy white without bleach, said Seeger—but at least they won't turn brown.

"An appreciable gain in stored water" won't occur until perhaps five inches more of rain has fallen, in the water district manager's belief. The first five inches or so will soak into the ground before there is appreciable runoff to add to reservoir storage, he estimated.

The iron content of Marin Municipal District's water is not above the U. S. Public Health Department limit, Seeger said. It will cause no damage to health, he assured. But it won't make the wash look pretty.

Prospects for improvement received no encouragement from the U. S. Weather Bureau today. The forecast was for at least five more days of fair weather in the Bay Area.

Well-Placed Kick Drives Off Assailant

A prowler, waiting in ambush for a woman clerk who worked late for Macy's department store in San Rafael, tried to grab her Monday night but fled when she kicked him in the neck with her high heels, police reported today.

Police said several women who got off late from work have been approached by a man in a similar way during the past few days.

The latest victim was Mrs. Jewel Florence Barkow of 114 Central avenue, Sausalito. She said she finished work at Macy's about 9:15 p.m. and walked to her car parked at Laurel and Nye streets.

As she put the key into the door, a man approached and asked: "Having trouble with the car? May I help you?" She said "No thanks," and entered her car. As she got behind the wheel, the man grabbed her arms, pinning her.

She kicked him, her pointed heels catching him in the neck. This and her screams frightened him off.

Mrs. Barkow described the man as about five feet eight or nine inches tall. He had a soft voice, and wore a dark suit or sport coat.

'CHUTE MISSING, TOO

Lost: One Balloon, Skyscraper-Size

RAPID CITY, S. D. (UPI)—"It should have been a gorgeous sight," the Navy spokesman mused.

And it probably was, if anybody saw it—a brilliant orange and white parachute, 64 feet in diameter, placidly floating earthward from where the world's largest balloon was placidly lost.

At least everybody thinks the parachute floated earthward with a payload of cosmic ray measuring equipment yesterday. Somewhere in Texas, or Louisiana, or Alabama, or even Mississippi.

Monday—Launched: One balloon, taller than 31-story RKO building in New York, from Rapid City. Mission: To go up to 120,000 feet and come back down yesterday without getting lost.

Lost: One balloon, 411 feet long and 300 feet in diameter, carrying 1,800-pound load of ballast and scientific equipment. Location: Over Nebraska. Loser: One Navy tracking plane forced down in bad weather.

Yesterday—Balloon, made of plastic one one-thousandth of an inch thick, believed drifting over Julesburg, Colo. Navy plane gets into air again at North Platte, Neb., searches for anything resembling New York's RKO building. No luck.

Result: Plane unable to trigger a mechanism to release balloon payload, radar technicians unable keep track of balloon without plane contact. Therefore, balloon lost. Sighs, recriminations.

At 1 p.m. yesterday: Gorgeous parachute floats earthward somewhere in Gulf states, while world's largest balloon silently folds up its plastic bag and sneaks earthward, or so officials believe.

A spokesman for Winzen Research Co., Minneapolis, Minn., designers of the balloon, said the balloon contained automatic devices which would have cut the payload loose at 1 p.m. yesterday.

The balloon would have landed about 30 miles from the payload.

"It's more than likely in a remote spot," said the Navy spokesman.

"It's not critical we get the payload back," he added, "but we would like it to fill the blank spots in our data."

Nike-Hercules Missile Test Proves Fizzle

FAIRBANKS, Alaska (UPI)—The test firing of a Nike-Hercules missile, the first such shot from an actual defense site in the United States, ended in failure yesterday.

The 27-foot missile blew up 20 seconds after roaring off a snow-crusted launching pad 20 miles southeast of here. It destroyed itself in a clear arctic sky with temperatures about 20 degrees below zero.

About 50 top Army officials and newsmen watched as the Nike gracefully lifted off its launching pad, then roared skyward leaving behind a cloud of smoke and snow. An Army spokesman said "The missile destroyed itself either because it lost contact with an F84 Saberjet target or because it had started to veer off course."

College Faculty Cool Toward Hiring Ex-Nazi

BROOKVILLE, N. Y. (AP)—The faculty of a troubled Long Island college has refused to endorse the hiring of a professor who once renounced his American citizenship to serve Nazi Germany.

But the school says it will retain Dr. Edward V. Sittler nonetheless.

The administration at Long Island University's C. W. Post College asked the teachers Tuesday to endorse hiring Sittler last September as assistant professor of English and German.

Sittler, 43, renounced his citizenship in 1939 to become a member of the Nazi party in Germany and eventually an enemy broadcaster during World War II.

After questioning him in a closed-door session, the teachers erased his name from a resolution offered by the administration and endorsed only the school's right to hire its own teachers. The vote was 26 for, 3 against and 18 abstentions. Eighteen other teachers neither voted nor abstained.

Sittler, who has been fighting for 13 years to stay in this country, to regain his citizenship and to hold a university job, spoke in his own defense.

Under close questioning by his fellow teachers he denied that he ever swore allegiance to Hitler, that he was aware of Germany's concentration camps or that he had acted traitorously.

GOP Hails Iowa Win

Industry Gain Slight

WASHINGTON (AP)—Still suffering from after-effects of the steel strike, the nation's mines, mills and factories made only slight production gains last month.

The index of industrial production rose only one point to a rate 48 per cent above the 1947-49 average, although the strikers went back to work under a Taft-Hartley Act injunction early in November. The index was issued yesterday by the Federal Reserve Board.

Bitten By 'Rope'

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—A deckhand who reached for a rope and picked up a rattlesnake has sued his former employers for $77,000 damages.

Troy Beeson, 38, said in his court petition yesterday that the rope bit him Sept. 18 when in the darkness he was helping land an empty barge.

News Ban Lifted

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—Maj. Donald N. Yates, who ordered newsmen barred from missile launchings because of a news service story, lifted the ban yesterday.

The commander of the missile test center said his action—in effect 24 hours—was based on a misunderstanding.

Rescinding of the ban by Yates came after a strongly worded telegram from Lyle Wilson, vice president of United Press International in Washington, denying Yates' charges that a UPI story Saturday violated an agreement not to pinpoint the date of a future space probe.

Drama Critic To Retire

NEW YORK (UPI)—Brooks Atkinson, drama critic for the New York Times, will retire as an active critic at the end of the current theatrical season, the Times said today. Atkinson has served 20 years as theater critic for the Times.

Atkinson will remain a member of the Times staff, Turner Catledge, managing editor, said. Catledge said Atkinson retired as critic at his own request.

Marines Buy Missiles

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Marine Corps is purchasing 100 German missiles weighing only 20 pounds each for evaluation as an anti-tank weapon.

The development contract is with Daystrom, Inc., of Murray Hill, N. J. The missile is known as the Cobra, and is wire-guided like a powered model airplane. The announcement said the missiles, so light that one man can carry two of them along with launching and guidance equipment, are "capable of knocking out any tank in existence today." The missile already has been adopted by the West German army as an anti-tank device.

Iranian Navy Alerted

TEHRAN (UPI)—The commander in chief of the Iranian navy said today naval units in the Persian Gulf have been put on the alert for "trouble and emergencies" because of tension between Iran and neighboring Iraq.

At the same time government sources said the Iranian ambassador to Iraq would not return to Baghdad until tension between the two countries has eased.

Tots Die In Fire

TEMPE, Ariz. (AP)—A kerosene bottle fell on a stove Tuesday night and its fiery contents sprayed four children, aged 1 to 5, sleeping on a nearby bed.

They were burned to death but four others escaped the inferno that engulfed a four-room frame house in Tempe.

Cigarette Sales Record

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Americans bought a record 455 billion cigarettes this year, 20 billion more than the previous 1958 high, despite new government cancer warnings.

The Tobacco Institute, which announced the figures yesterday, predicted that Americans would purchase 527 billion cigarettes next year and 690 billion annually by 1968.

Shelter Test To End

PARKS AIR FORCE BASE (UPI)—One hundred volunteers who have been cramped in a nuclear fallout shelter for almost two weeks have listed a hot bath on top of their "want most" list.

The men, including civil defense personnel and 92 inmates of the Santa Rita Rehabilitation Center, will emerge tomorrow after participating in a 14 day test designed to test the reactions of humans to a confinement such as would be needed after an atomic blast.

Nixon Gains Backer

CONCORD, N. H. (UPI)—Gov. Wesley Powell, last major uncommitted Republican state official, today accepted the chairmanship of the state committee backing Vice President Richard M. Nixon in the nation's coming first presidential primary.

Shah To Wed Monday

TEHRAN (UPI)—A formal court communique announced today the wedding of Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlavi to 21-year-old Farah Diba will take place at 3:30 p.m. Monday. The announcement set in motion a series of ancient and colorful rites attendant upon the wedding of a shah-in-shah.

Growers Favor Quotas

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Cotton, rice and peanut growers have voted overwhelmingly to continue strict federal marketing quotas on their crops instead of accepting reduced government price supports.

The farmers made the decision in an agriculture department referendum yesterday. The majority for all three crops exceeded by far the two-thirds vote needed to extend the controls.

Youth Admits Stabbing

TRACY (AP)—A youth admitted yesterday that he fatally stabbed 17-year-old Peter Mayo last week at Deuel Vocational Institute.

Richard L. Fernandes, 20, said his attack was in retribution for cuts Mayo inflicted on him during a fight in Half Moon Bay two years ago.

Snowstorm Buries Southwest While Floods Hit Washington

Second Heaviest Fall In History At Albuquerque

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

A two-pronged snowstorm tapered off into showers today, leaving highways between mid-New Mexico and the Texas-Oklahoma Panhandle clogged with up to two feet of snow.

The storm struck Albuquerque, N.M., first, raced through the Panhandle, slackened, then roared back with winds up to 60 miles an hour to close schools, isolate towns and strand hundreds of travelers.

Albuquerque received 10 inches of snow—the second heavies fall in its history—another 10 inches fell at Las Vegas, N.M., and Santa Rosa, N.M., was covered with two-foot drifts.

RAIN ALONG FRINGE

Rain covered the edge of the storm and moved into Louisiana and southern Arkansas, with more than an inch recorded at Lufkin, Tex., Shreveport, La., and El Dorado, Ark.

Steady rains melted mountain snows, which moved into the Snohomish, Snoqualmie and Green Rivers, flooding thousands of acres of rich farmland and marooning scores of famalies in their farm homes.

The flooding closed Snoqualmie Pass, the state's main east-west route, to all but one-way traffic and the Stevens Pass Highway, another major east-west artery, was washed out.

HIT LAST MONTH

The flooding appeared to be a repeat of the million-dollar floods which hit western Washington last month, causing one death and chasing hundreds from their homes.

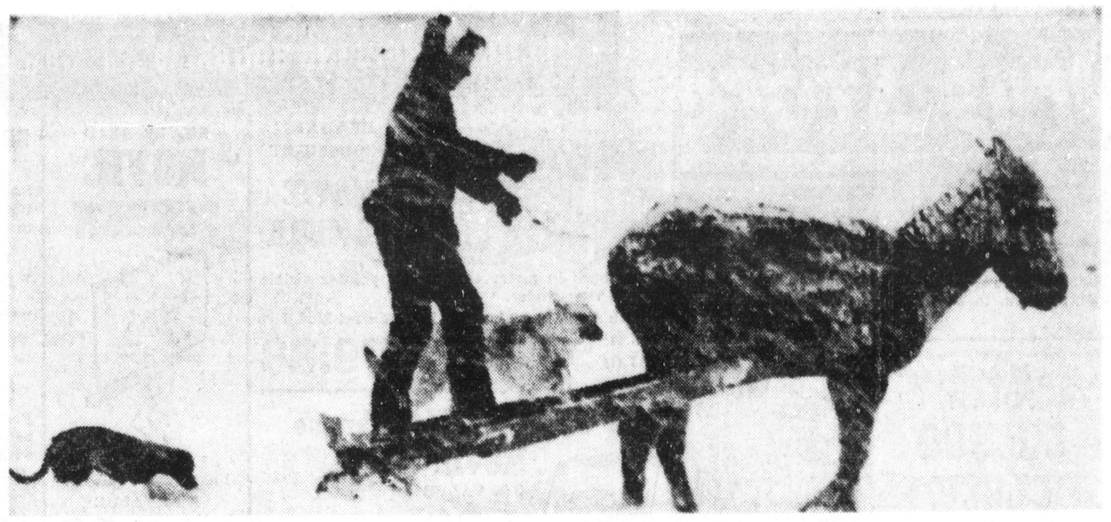
Schools were closed in Hondo, Ridoso and Capitan, N.M., and the storm blocked eastern approaches to Alamogordo, home of Holloman Air Force Base and upper air and space research.



THE MAIL GOES THROUGH — Jimmy Forrest, 13, of Albuquerque, N. M., braves the blizzard which dumped more than 10 inches of snow on central New Mexico to bring in the mail. Jimmy improvised a sled and put his donkey, Pete, to work to get to the mailbox two miles from his rural home. (AP Wirephoto)

GOP To Request Recount Of Votes

The official canvass, including tabulation of absentee ballots, shows Democrat Tom Carrell ahead of Republican Willard Cross by 239 votes on the final count, 17,920 to 17,681. Carrell is a San Fernando auto dealer. Cross is mayor of San Fernando.

Chairman Alphonzo Bell Jr. of the County Republican Central Committee said the result was so close that "discovery of even a few mistakes might reverse the situation." He said members of his committee intend to seek a recount.

Wisconsin's Reaction To Rockefeller Mixed

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP)—Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller started his second round of political probing in Wisconsin today, after running into a very mixed reception on his first day in the state.

Reactions ranged from studied coolness to admiring applause.

Milwaukee Republican officials made it crystal clear that they want Vice President Richard M. Nixon as the party's candidate for president.

Other Wisconsin Republicans, however, indicated they might support Rockefeller for the nomination.

For the first time on this tour of the Middle West, Rockefeller failed to draw capacity crowds for his appearance. There were empty seats in the Marquette University auditorium and in the meeting of the World Affairs Council.

"Some Democrats say you are as reactionary as Nixon," said a man, "and other people call you a Democrat in Republican clothing. Which are you?"

During the question-and-answer period at the World Affairs Council meeting last night, a man prefaced his question by describing Rockefeller as "a new arrival, and a very brilliant one, on the political scene."

The audience exploded with applause and cheering.

So it went all day, the cool and the warm, a day wholly unlike any others Rockefeller has had as he moved through Indiana, Missouri and Minnesota, before coming into Wisconsin.

Snowstorm Buries Southwest While Floods Hit Washington

Second Heaviest Fall In History At Albuquerque

HIGHWAY BECOMES SPILLWAY — Floodwater from the Snoqualmie River races across a highway near Fall City, Wash., with a roar as it spreads over rich farmland. For the second time within a month heavy rains and melting snow from the nearby Cascade Mountains have caused widespread flooding in western Washington. A stalled truck can be seen in the background. AWARDS TO EX-HAMILTON FLIERS — Vice President Richard M. Nixon posed with two former Hamilton Air Force Base pilots—both of whom set world records flying F104 Starfighters — during aviation award ceremonies yesterday in Washington. With the vice president are Maj. Walter W. Irwin (left), who received the Harmon Trophy for setting an official world speed record of 1,404.9 miles per hour while a captain in 83rd Fighter Interceptor Squadron at Hamilton, and Lt. Col. Howard C. Johnson, winner of the Collier Trophy for setting a world altitude record of 91,429 feet while a major in the 83rd. Both records have lately been eclipsed. (AP Wirephoto)

Delta Dart Sets New Speed Mark

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Air Force announced today that one of its F106 Delta Dart all-weather interceptors set a new official world speed record of 1,520.9 miles an hour yesterday at Edwards Air Force Base in California.

The record was nearly 38 miles an hour faster than the speed of 1,483 miles an hour claimed Oct. 1 by the Soviet Union for its new E66 delta wing fighter. It was 116 miles an hour faster than the previous official record of 1,404.9 miles an hour set by an Air Force F104 on May 16, 1958 by Maj. Walter W. Irwin, then stationed at Hamilton Air Force Base.

The announcement said the new record was set by Maj. Joseph W. Rogers of Worthington, Ohio, veteran Air Defense Command pilot, over a straight-away, 18-kilometer (about 11-mile) course.

Rogers, using a production model of the interceptor built by Convair in San Diego, climbed to an altitude of 40,000 feet above the Southern California desert flight test center. He then touched off the afterburner and flew twice over the course.

The Air Force said the run was made twice to meet official record requirements of the Federation Aeronautique Internationale. The speed, an average of the two runs, was more than 2.3 times the speed of sound.

Sixteen National Aeronautics Assn. officials timed and observed the record-breaking dashes. The association officials said they would submit the speed to the international group for certification as the offical world record.

Observation planes and ground radar were used to check the speed figures. Rogers was clocked at 1,535 miles an hour on his east-to-west run at 1,505 miles an hour on return.

The F106 is the Air Defense Command's newest interceptor. Five squadrons are in service so far. They can be armed with the MB1 Genie atomic warhead rocket.

The Air Force said the interceptors can destroy bombers at altitudes of more than 50,000 feet either with the Genie or the super Falcon air-to-air guided missile.

The record was the second set by the Air Force this week.

On Monday, Capt. Joe B. Jordan of Huntsville, Tex., flew an F104 Starfighter to a record altitude of 103,395 feet.

Up 20 Miles, Pilot Had Little Time To Look

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The man who has soared higher than any other human can't give much of a description of how it looks nearly 20 miles above the earth.

"It was still blue—but perceptibly darker," said Capt. Joe B. Jordan yesterday. He piloted an Air Force Starfighter to a world altitude record of 103,395.5 feet Monday.

Jordan said he got one fast look out of the cockpit at the peak of his flight. He said he could see the Gulf of California, 300 miles to the south.

Jordan shut off the turbojet engine of his Lockheed F104C at 92,000 feet and coasted the rest of the way up. He said it was "a real thrill going over the top."

The record is subject to confirmation by the Federation Aeronautique Internationale. It exceeds by 4,835.5 feet an altitude mark claimed Dec. 6 by a Navy fighter which in turn had bettered a Soviet record.

The Starfighter also claims a world time-to-climb record for 30,000 meters. It took the jet 15 minutes, 4.92 seconds to reach 98,424-foot mark, after break release on the runway at Edwards Air Force Base, 100 miles north of Los Angeles.

Jordan, of Sweeney, Tex., found radar men on the ground couldn't track him because he went so high.

"One of them wanted to see how far I could really go on the screen," he said. "I flew right off the top."

Investigators Unit Elects Marin Man

Inspector Bowen Bridges of the Marin sheriff's office will head the Northern California division of the California Check Investigators Assn. for 1960.

Bridges was elected to the top post last week during a conference held in San Francisco. He succeeds Walter H. Garratt of Berkeley.

The association voted to send a letter of congratulation to Sheriff Louis P. Mountanos, complimenting him and his staff for the way they handled the Lorna Lax murder investigation.

Wholesale Food Prices In Drop

NEW YORK (AP)—Wholesale food prices this week dropped to their lowest levels in more than nine and one-half years, Dun and Bradstreet Inc. reported today.

The organization's food index declined from $5.88 last week to $5.79, lowest since $5.73 in the week ended April 18, 1950—before the Korean War. A sudden, steep drop in butter prices plus lower livestock quotations brought the index its sharpest week-to-week drop since early this year.

AWARDS TO EX-HAMILTON FLIERS — Vice President Richard M. Nixon posed with two former Hamilton Air Force Base pilots—both of whom set world records flying F104 Starfighters — during aviation award ceremonies yesterday in Washington. With the vice president are Maj. Walter W. Irwin (left), who received the Harmon Trophy for setting an official world speed record of 1,404.9 miles per hour while a captain in 83rd Fighter Interceptor Squadron at Hamilton, and Lt. Col. Howard C. Johnson, winner of the Collier Trophy for setting a world altitude record of 91,429 feet while a major in the 83rd. Both records have lately been eclipsed. (AP Wirephoto)

Delta Dart Sets New Speed Mark

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Air Force announced today that one of its F106 Delta Dart all-weather interceptors set a new official world speed record of 1,520.9 miles an hour yesterday at Edwards Air Force Base in California.

The record was nearly 38 miles an hour faster than the speed of 1,483 miles an hour claimed Oct. 1 by the Soviet Union for its new E66 delta wing fighter. It was 116 miles an hour faster than the previous official record of 1,404.9 miles an hour set by an Air Force F104 on May 16, 1958 by Maj. Walter W. Irwin, then stationed at Hamilton Air Force Base.

The announcement said the new record was set by Maj. Joseph W. Rogers of Worthington, Ohio, veteran Air Defense Command pilot, over a straight-away, 18-kilometer (about 11-mile) course.

Rogers, using a production model of the interceptor built by Convair in San Diego, climbed to an altitude of 40,000 feet above the Southern California desert flight test center. He then touched off the afterburner and flew twice over the course.

The Air Force said the run was made twice to meet official record requirements of the Federation Aeronautique Internationale. The speed, an average of the two runs, was more than 2.3 times the speed of sound.

Sixteen National Aeronautics Assn. officials timed and observed the record-breaking dashes. The association officials said they would submit the speed to the international group for certification as the offical world record.

Observation planes and ground radar were used to check the speed figures. Rogers was clocked at 1,535 miles an hour on his east-to-west run at 1,505 miles an hour on return.

The F106 is the Air Defense Command's newest interceptor. Five squadrons are in service so far. They can be armed with the MB1 Genie atomic warhead rocket.

The Air Force said the interceptors can destroy bombers at altitudes of more than 50,000 feet either with the Genie or the super Falcon air-to-air guided missile.

U.S. Tells NATO It Needs Help To Keep Up Defenses

Twining Accusation That French Have Shirked Wins Endorsement

PARIS (AP)—The NATO nations received today a report of a Soviet buildup in rockets and a new U. S. charge that France is not meeting her defense pledges to cope with Soviet threats.

U. S. Secretary of Defense Thomas S. Gates Jr. told the North Atlantic Alliance that the United States needs more help in keeping Western defenses modernized, and endorses the military substance of a recent speech by Gen. Nathan F. Twining.

Twining, chairman of the U. S. Joint Chiefs of Staff, sharply attacked France last week in a secret NATO military meeting for refusing to go along with integration of its forces. Secretary of State Christian A. Herter yesterday insisted that integration is a vital part of NATO, and in effect supported Twining.

Gates spoke today after French Defense Minister Pierre Guillaumat officially protested the American charge that France is shirking and the fact that Twining's speech reached the press. He charged that Twining overstepped military bounds and got into political matters.

Gates said he felt that the United States is within "the competence, right and responsibility of its military to comment on the military effects of political decisions."

Adm. Walter F. Boone, U. S. member of NATO's top-level standing military group, gave the session an intelligence estimate that the Soviet Union has had intercontinental rockets in service for 17 months and has 100 missile bases.

The report on growing Soviet nuclear and rocket power struck closely to figures given out Dec. 2 by the Institute of Strategic Studies, an unofficial British group sponsored by the Ford Foundation. This unofficial report said bases manned by 200,000 men were located in the Soviet Baltic coast, in East Germany, the southern Ukraine and the Carpathian Mountains.

The Soviet Union also was reported to have operational missiles of relatively short range which can be fired from submerged submarines, and to have ordered large quantities of them.

Gates told the meeting, however, that the United States is confident of its present nuclear superiority, both with respect to nuclear weapons and to the means of their delivery.

Informed diplomats reported meanwhile that West Germany has won approval from her allies to build warships up to 5,000 tons and submarines up to 1,000 tons. These sources said the tonnage ceiling on West Germany's growing navy was raised at a secret session last summer of the Western European Union, a seven-nation group set up in 1953 to "contain" a rearmed Germany.

The sources said, however, that Britain vetoed a West German bid to make acoustic mines because they were regarded as offensive weapons, which the Germans are not supposed to manufacture.

West Germany's present tonnage limits are 3,000 for surface warships and 350 for submarines. The bigger ships are needed to mount naval rockets and to fill the larger role assigned the Germans in the defense of the Baltic.

High Japanese Court Upholds U.S. Troops

TOKYO (AP) — The Japanese Supreme Court ruled today that the "no-war" clause in Japan's constitution does not prevent the stationing of American troops here. The court also said Japan's own armed forces are constitutional.

The unanimous decision by the 15-man court was a blow to left-wing hopes of forcing the U.S. troops out of Japan, disarming the nation and neutralizing Japan in the cold war.

At issue was Article Nine of Japan's constitution. Written under the postwar American occupation, this "no-war" section declares that Japan forever renounces the possession of all war potential.

But the high court, in reversing a Tokyo district court ruling made last March, declared: "There are no stipulations in the constitution that deny Japan as a sovereign nation the right of inherent self-defense. The principle of peace in our constitution does not stipulate in any way complete defenselessness or non-resistance."

Castro Expecting Cuban Invasion; Military Courts In Full Swing Again

HAVANA (AP)—With his military courts again in full swing, Prime Minister Fidel Castro expressed belief today that there will be an invasion of Cuba in 1960.

"Next year we will have to defend the revolution with weapons in hand," Castro declared in a televised, four and one-half-hour speech. "It will come because there is a great campaign outside and here. I hope I am wrong, but they will come. I am sure we will annihilate them."

He didn't say who they would be.

The bearded prime minister jibed at labor and racial conflicts in the United States to cheers from his immediate audience, about 1,200 delegates of the Congress of Sugar Workers.

He complained that the recent U. S. steel strike slowed the agrarian reform program of this island nation—which depends chiefly on the United States for its steel products—by halting tractor production.

Castro's military courts meanwhile picked up speed.

A tribunal in Havana sentenced Maj. Hubert Matos, who resigned as commander of Camaguey province troops last October 19 with a blast against communism, to 20 years in prison for sedition. Castro had a star witness against his old comrade in arms. Twenty-one officers who defected with Matos drew terms of two to seven years. Thirteen others were acquitted.

Two Cubans were condemned in Pinar del Rio to death before a firing squad. Luis Lara, corporal in the old Batista army, and Jose Antonio Morffi Reyes were accused of leading an anti-Castro band in west Cuba.

John V. Martino, 49, an ailing businessman from Miami Beach, Fla., heard ap rosecutor demand a 20-year sentence at the windup of his swift trial in La Cabana fortress for alleged counter-revolutionary activities. Martino, an American citizen arrested an hour after he arrived here last July 23, denied all charges.

President Osvaldo Dorticos rejected an appeal by William H. Cowles, president of the Inter-American Press Assn. for release of Miami Herald reporter James Buchanan.

Buchanan is charged with being involved in the escape of Frank Austin Young, 38-year-old soldier-of-fortune from Miami who broke jail two days after being sentenced to 30 years in prison as the leader of an anti-Castro band. He was recaptured.

Wife Who Clubbed Ex-Husband Guilty

Ellen Joyce McNinch, 25, who clubbed her ex-husband over the head with a revolver Monday morning, pleaded guilty before Judge Harold J. Haley in Marin Municipal Court yesterday to a charge of disturbing the peace.

The judge fined her $50 and ordered her to behave.

The incident occurred in her apartment at 873-B Fourth street, San Rafael. She works as cocktail waitress.

Her former husband, Michael Alan McNinch, 25, is also accused of disturbing the peace. He told the judge he wants a lawyer, and won a continuance until Dec. 22 to enter his plea.

Castro Expecting Cuban Invasion; Military Courts In Full Swing Again

HAVANA (AP)—With his military courts again in full swing, Prime Minister Fidel Castro expressed belief today that there will be an invasion of Cuba in 1960.

"Next year we will have to defend the revolution with weapons in hand," Castro declared in a televised, four and one-half-hour speech. "It will come because there is a great campaign outside and here. I hope I am wrong, but they will come. I am sure we will annihilate them."

He didn't say who they would be.

The bearded prime minister jibed at labor and racial conflicts in the United States to cheers from his immediate audience, about 1,200 delegates of the Congress of Sugar Workers.

He complained that the recent U. S. steel strike slowed the agrarian reform program of this island nation—which depends chiefly on the United States for its steel products—by halting tractor production.

Castro's military courts meanwhile picked up speed.

A tribunal in Havana sentenced Maj. Hubert Matos, who resigned as commander of Camaguey province troops last October 19 with a blast against communism, to 20 years in prison for sedition. Castro had a star witness against his old comrade in arms. Twenty-one officers who defected with Matos drew terms of two to seven years. Thirteen others were acquitted.

Two Cubans were condemned in Pinar del Rio to death before a firing squad. Luis Lara, corporal in the old Batista army, and Jose Antonio Morffi Reyes were accused of leading an anti-Castro band in west Cuba.

John V. Martino, 49, an ailing businessman from Miami Beach, Fla., heard ap rosecutor demand a 20-year sentence at the windup of his swift trial in La Cabana fortress for alleged counter-revolutionary activities. Martino, an American citizen arrested an hour after he arrived here last July 23, denied all charges.

President Osvaldo Dorticos rejected an appeal by William H. Cowles, president of the Inter-American Press Assn. for release of Miami Herald reporter James Buchanan.

Buchanan is charged with being involved in the escape of Frank Austin Young, 38-year-old soldier-of-fortune from Miami who broke jail two days after being sentenced to 30 years in prison as the leader of an anti-Castro band. He was recaptured.

Wife Who Clubbed Ex-Husband Guilty

Ellen Joyce McNinch, 25, who clubbed her ex-husband over the head with a revolver Monday morning, pleaded guilty before Judge Harold J. Haley in Marin Municipal Court yesterday to a charge of disturbing the peace.

The judge fined her $50 and ordered her to behave.

The incident occurred in her apartment at 873-B Fourth street, San Rafael. She works as cocktail waitress.

Her former husband, Michael Alan McNinch, 25, is also accused of disturbing the peace. He told the judge he wants a lawyer, and won a continuance until Dec. 22 to enter his plea.

NORTH POLE HERE . . . WHO'S THERE?

Santa's helpers, members of junior chambers of commerce, accepted calls for the North Pole last night in an office of the Independent-Journal in San Rafael. CAT SUSPECT IN INDIANA JEWEL 'THEFT'

The ring disappeared. Mrs. Frazee looked in her jewelry box and failed to find it. A check by the sheriff's office indicated the house had not been burglarized.

Frazee then remembered that the table where he laid the ring holds small favors and food tidbits for a pet cat. He concluded that the cat might have swallowed the ring.

The animal is under close surveillance.

Terra Linda To Hear Report On Its Future

William R. Zion, East Bay civic analyst, will present a report on Terra Linda's future with special reference to the problem of annexation as against incorporation at a special meeting of the Terra Linda Community Services District set last night by its board for 8 p.m. Jan 7 at Hoffman School.

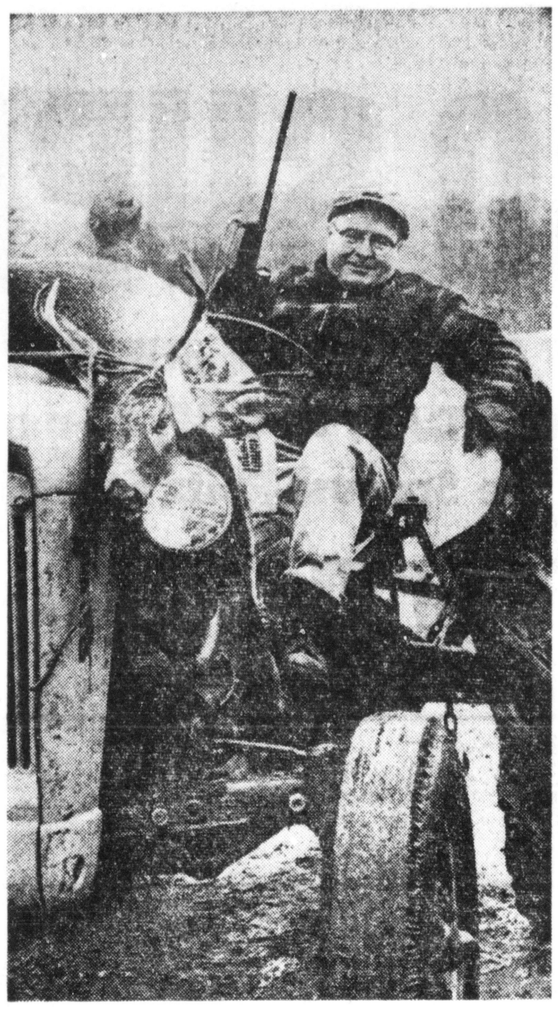
Zion has been working on an analysis of Terra Linda since the third week in November. The report will incorporate all his findings, according to John P. Namle, board president.

Namle told his four fellow members of the board that he will not be a candidate to succeed himself at an election of president and vice president at the board's first regular meeting next year, Jan. 5.

Three members of the five-member board will be voted on at an election next June.

Namle last night reviewed achievements during the year which included purchase of a second fire engine for Terra Linda, construction of a firehouse, and a big Terra Linda parade last spring at dedication of the firehouse.

He said the district had ended its first fiscal year with a surplus of about $4,000.



HE'S ACTIVE WITHOUT LEGS

Farmer Henry Ferguson of Springfield, Vt., rolls out of the woods on his tractor with a deer he shot during the recent hunting season there. Ferguson lost both legs in a farm accident last year. Now he performs his farm chores from the tractor. And he expects to be walking on his artificial legs, without crutches, by Christmas. (AP Wirephoto)

Bank Promotes Official To Vice President Post

John V. Bacigalupi, manager of the San Rafael branch of the Bank of America, has been promoted to vice president of the bank, it was announced today by president S. Clark Beise.

Bacigalupi has been a banker in San Rafael for 23 years and is a veteran of more than 40 years with the Bank of America. He will continue as manager of the local office, Beise said, with the title of vice president and manager, San Rafael branch.

The San Francisco-born banker began his career in 1912 when as a newsboy selling newspapers at two for five cents. He was introduced to the late A. P. Giannini, founder of the Bank of Italy (now the Bank of America), who immediately hired him.

Ill health forced Bacigalupi in 1918 to take up outdoor work. The next year, however, a position was found in the bank's school savings department that enabled Bacigalupi to resume his banking career and still be out-of-doors. He traveled from school to school in the Central and Imperial valleys.

He returned to indoor banking in 1924, serving in various San Francisco branches and advanced to assistant cashier in 1926 and manager of the Union-Webster branch in 1928.

He held positions at the head office from 1930 to 1933, and during the following three years was a real estate loan adjuster at the French-American branch in San Francisco. Bacigalupi was appointed assistant manager of the San Rafael office in 1936, filling that position until 1955, when he was named manager.

The Marin banker is a past president of the Lions Club, a member of the Marin County Employees Retirement Board, a director of the Marin Boy Scout Council, a former director of the San Rafael Chamber of Commerce, Marin County director of the Redwood Empire Assn., and a member of several professional and lodge organizations.

Still an out-of-doors man, Bacigalupi is an avid gardener, sharing his love of the yard and flowers with his wife, Ruby. They live at 108 Bella avenue, San Rafael.

Off Duty Police Officer Nabs Two Tire Thieves

An off-duty San Rafael police officer, sitting quietly in his parked car at the Country Club Bowl last night, trapped two youths in the act of stealing a tire from an adjacent car.

Chief Charles J. Chiesa commended his officer, Earl Woodrow Christensen, for an efficient job of police work.

About 8:50 p.m. Officer Christensen was sitting in his car in the parking lot next to the bowling alley at Vivian and Belvedere streets. He noticed two youths enter the lot and start trying the trunks on various cars. Christensen slid low in his seat and waited as the boys worked down the row of cars toward his.

The prowlers found the trunk open on the car next to the officer's. "If that had been locked, they would probably have tried mine next," said Officer Christensen.

Officer Christensen jumped out and arrested Dennis Keith Smith, 18, of 28 Holstein road, San Anselmo, who said he is on parole from California Youth Authority. Smith named a 17-year-old Fairfax youth and blamed him for the theft.

Police jailed Smith on a charge of petty theft and contacted the 17-year-old boy by telephone, instructing him to appear for questioning today. The car from which the tire was taken is owned by Jeanne Maxine Blumenfeld of 150 Montecito road, San Rafael. She got her tire back.

Injured Woman Better

Prints Studied In Kidnap Case

SANTA CRUZ (UPI)—Fingerprints left in a lonely mountain cabin and in a stolen car may help identify the gang that kidnapped and robbed an elderly couple near here Sunday.

Sheriff's Lt. Gary Smith said the prints have been sent to the state Bureau of Criminal Investigation and Identification.

Smith said his investigators now doubt that Jimmy Kendrick, an escaped San Quentin convict, was a member of the gang.

Mrs. Clara Hoeller, 78, and Peter Trimborn, 74, both of San Jose, were shown pictures of Kendrick and were unable to identify him as a gang member.

The elderly couple was left bound in the cabin by the gang, two men and a woman. Previously Mrs. Hoeller was forced to cash $200 in checks. The gang also stole her Cadillac.

Senators Eye AF Check On Men Off Duty

WASHINGTON (AP) — Three senators say they'll look into a "buddy system" at a Kansas Air Force base, in which squad leaders are designated to keep tabs on the off-duty life of their fellow airmen.

"I think this is carrying the spirit of togetherness a little bit too far," said Sen. Mike Mansfield (D.-Mont.) last night. "This would tend to lower morale, which is not too high as it is."

The buddy system was disclosed at Forbes Air Force Base, Topeka, Kan. The Strategic Air Command headquarters at Omaha said the system has improved morale, reduced unfavorable incidents and boosted re-enlistment rates.

At Forbes, Brig. Gen. Ariel W. Nielsen had each squadron divided into smaller groups headed by a non-commissioned officer. These leaders, he said, should learn details of each man's family history, his financial status, whether he owns a car and his driving habits, what he does with off-duty time, and with whom he associates.

Novato Residents Urged To Conserve On Water

Novato residents last night were cautioned by North Marin Water District directors that water must be conserved, but were assured there is no immediate danger of a serious shortage.

"We are using the normal winter rate of 50 or 60 million gallons a month," Jerome P. Gilbert district manager and chief engineer, said "Our present storage supply is about 400 million gallons." The summer rate of consumption is about double the winter rate, he said.

The present supply is good for approximately eight months, Gilbert said, assuming normal winter rains. In the event of a winter without rain, the supply would be insufficient.

Water district directors also heard a report on the current negotiations for purchase of Russian River water which would be brought to Novato by way of Santa Rosa and Petaluma.

A meeting was held last week with the Sonoma Flood Control and Water Conservation District and the Petaluma City Council. At that meeting, negotiations for the purchase of the water were continued and preliminary plans for contracts were drawn up, Gilbert reported.

At the request of E. Donald King, president of the Monte Maria Community Services District, the directors agreed to extend credit to the community services district until July, when it will receive tax money. Water used by the district is for irrigation of the planter strips in the subdivision.

Pope Hints Of Increase In Cardinals

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope John XXIII, who has set aside a 400-year-old tradition that limited the College of Cardinals to 70, indicated today he may increase the college even more.

"We have reached 79," the Pope said, speaking informally at a general audience. "In the future we will go ahead—we will see."

The ruler of the Roman Catholic Church pointed out that since the limit of 70 was set, the church has grown tremendously.

"If we need more, we will elect more," he said.

The limit of 70 cardinals was set by Pope Sixtus IV in 1586, when Roman Catholics totaled far less than the present membership of nearly half a billion.

Victim Of Gun Mishap Improving In Hospital

Mrs. Anna Bihr, 39, who was shot by her husband's .38 caliber revolver in their home at 12 Allyn avenue, San Anselmo, Monday night, was reported still in fair condition and improving today at Marin General Hospital.

The gun discharged as Mrs. Bihr's husband, Joseph, was cleaning it only six feet away from where she stood. The bullet lodged in her hip.

Paralytic Polio Victim Still On Critical List

Mrs. Joseph Hendricks, 53, Marin County's first victim this year of paralytic polio, remained on the critical list today at Children's Hospital in San Francisco.

Mrs. Hendricks' condition has become complicated with pneumonia. She is the wife of Glenn A. Hendricks of 75 Camino de Herrera, San Anselmo.

NEW YORK—The stock market failed again to break into record high territory today.

It attempted its new shot early in the session much the same as it did yesterday, except that this one lacked vigor. Late in the day profit-taking increased, but overall volume ran well below the previous session.

Volume for the day was estimated at 3,300,000 shares compared with 3,450,000 yesterday.

Gains and losses of fractions to about a point prevailed among pivotal issues.

The industrial average was bolstered by gains of a point or so by DuPont and Westinghouse Electric.

CAT SUSPECT IN INDIANA JEWEL 'THEFT'

The ring disappeared. Mrs. Frazee looked in her jewelry box and failed to find it. A check by the sheriff's office indicated the house had not been burglarized.

Frazee then remembered that the table where he laid the ring holds small favors and food tidbits for a pet cat. He concluded that the cat might have swallowed the ring.

The animal is under close surveillance.

Terra Linda To Hear Report On Its Future

William R. Zion, East Bay civic analyst, will present a report on Terra Linda's future with special reference to the problem of annexation as against incorporation at a special meeting of the Terra Linda Community Services District set last night by its board for 8 p.m. Jan 7 at Hoffman School.

Zion has been working on an analysis of Terra Linda since the third week in November. The report will incorporate all his findings, according to John P. Namle, board president.

Namle told his four fellow members of the board that he will not be a candidate to succeed himself at an election of president and vice president at the board's first regular meeting next year, Jan. 5.

Three members of the five-member board will be voted on at an election next June.

Namle last night reviewed achievements during the year which included purchase of a second fire engine for Terra Linda, construction of a firehouse, and a big Terra Linda parade last spring at dedication of the firehouse.

He said the district had ended its first fiscal year with a surplus of about $4,000.

Bank Promotes Official To Vice President Post

John V. Bacigalupi, manager of the San Rafael branch of the Bank of America, has been promoted to vice president of the bank, it was announced today by president S. Clark Beise.

Bacigalupi has been a banker in San Rafael for 23 years and is a veteran of more than 40 years with the Bank of America. He will continue as manager of the local office, Beise said, with the title of vice president and manager, San Rafael branch.

The San Francisco-born banker began his career in 1912 when as a newsboy selling newspapers at two for five cents. He was introduced to the late A. P. Giannini, founder of the Bank of Italy (now the Bank of America), who immediately hired him.

Ill health forced Bacigalupi in 1918 to take up outdoor work. The next year, however, a position was found in the bank's school savings department that enabled Bacigalupi to resume his banking career and still be out-of-doors. He traveled from school to school in the Central and Imperial valleys.

He returned to indoor banking in 1924, serving in various San Francisco branches and advanced to assistant cashier in 1926 and manager of the Union-Webster branch in 1928.

He held positions at the head office from 1930 to 1933, and during the following three years was a real estate loan adjuster at the French-American branch in San Francisco. Bacigalupi was appointed assistant manager of the San Rafael office in 1936, filling that position until 1955, when he was named manager.

The Marin banker is a past president of the Lions Club, a member of the Marin County Employees Retirement Board, a director of the Marin Boy Scout Council, a former director of the San Rafael Chamber of Commerce, Marin County director of the Redwood Empire Assn., and a member of several professional and lodge organizations.

Still an out-of-doors man, Bacigalupi is an avid gardener, sharing his love of the yard and flowers with his wife, Ruby. They live at 108 Belle avenue, San Rafael.

TODAY'S EDITORIAL

Clyde Edmondson Built REA Strong Enough To Last

The news that Clyde Edmondson intends to step out as general manager of the Redwood Empire Assn. comes as something of a shock. Edmondson has always been so much a part of the Redwood Empire Assn. -- and vice versa -- that it is difficult to think of one without the other.

For 34 years since Edmondson first became associated with the R.E.A., he has personally overseen all and every detail of association operations. In recent years as the extent of activities has widened, the work load has pyramided.

Edmondson's tireless, selfless efforts finally caught up with him. The doctors say he must take it easier. The very idea of Clyde Edmondson "coasting" on the job is inimical to his way of doing things. There was no alternative but to quit. And that is what he intends to do as soon as a successor can be selected.

As is the case with any forceful individual giving his all toward a goal, Edmondson has had his share of critics. But we don't know anybody who would deny that Redwood Empire counties have benefitted mightily from the efforts of the Redwood Empire Assn. — which cannot be separated from Clyde Edmondson's personal efforts.

The Redwood Highway itself, from the Golden Gate bridge all the way to Grants Pass, Oregon, is in a sense a monument to Edmondson and the R.E.A.

While taking leave of co-workers is a sad matter, Edmondson can take satisfaction in hearing eulogies such as this editorial while he is still on hand to appreciate them.

We are sure that all the people who have worked with him over the years will join us in wishing Edmondson success in whatever new, less-strenuous venture he decides to undertake.

But what of the R.E.A.? Can it survive without Clyde Edmondson?

We think so. We are confident that he built it strong enough so it will endure after he (and we, too) are gone.

The need for all nine counties to pull together is no less now than it was 34 years ago when Edmondson appeared on the scene. In fact it is greater now.

The organization then was nearly defunct. Now it is healthy with an energetic, young president named Don Emerson. It has good workers and supporters in each of the counties.

As we say, Edmondson built it strong enough so it will endure and continue to benefit all of us who live in the Redwood Empire.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Thank You, Highway Patrol

EDITOR,
Independent-Journal:

I have appointed myself as a committee of one to thank the California Highway Patrol for their pre-Christmas Christmas present.

I refer to the boys in grey who have straightened out the traffic maelstrom at the intersection of US 101, the Blackpoint cutoff and South Novato Boulevard.

This situation, sir, between 7 and 8 a.m. is, to coin a phrase, a mess. Those two lanes from the east come swarming across us poor souls who only have one lane to drive on, and snow us under when the light turns green. But now . . . all is different . . . the boys in grey have the situation under control . . . instead of taking 30 minutes for me to get to work (I only have three miles to go from Lynwood Park to Hamilton Air Force Base) . . . now it takes only 10!

Can I count on them from here on out? — Even during the rainy season — (if it ever gets here)? — I hope so!

Merry Christmas to all those who decided it was time the traffic hassle at this corner was due for correction.

Selinger Given Tiburon's Thanks

EDITOR,
Independetnt-Journal:

Everyone attending the recent "Town Hall on Recall" in Tiburon was in agreement on at least one thing — the outstanding job (in a ticklish situation) done by Julius Selinger as moderator.

After the meeting, Mr. Selinger was heard to compliment the people of Tiburon for their exemplary behavior. Tiburon would like to return the compliment, Mr. Selinger. Much of the credit for this stimulating and informative evening goes to you for setting the tenor of the meeting, for being admirably impartial in your judgments, and for lending just the right touch of levity to dispell any incipient tension.

Thank you, Mr. Selinger, for your generosity and talent in moderating Tiburon's "Town Hall on Recall."

THREE MINUTES A DAY

BOY GOES DOWN DRAIN

The boy lost his balance and was swept into the 6-foot sewer filled by steady rains. He could scarcely keep his head above the swirling waters in the 6-inch airspace at the top of the pipes.

As he was being swept along he prayed to be delivered from a watery death. He had been dragged about a half a mile when he bumped into a log caught up in a bunch of trash. By gripping onto it, he was able to brace himself against the sides of the sewer and shout for help.

A bicyclist who heard his cries got some construction workers to help in the rescue.

This youngster's plight is a sample in miniature of that of mankind in these fast-moving times. No matter what your circumstances, work and pray to see that truth and justice will prevail at all times.

"None that trust in Him, shall fail in strength." (I Machabees 2:61)

Deepen my faith in You, O Lord of hosts, so that I will place full trust in You in every situation.

NO EARLY BREAK

Primaries Won't Select Demo Nominee

By Congressional Quarterly

WASHINGTON — Leading Democratic politicians now discount the possibility of a decisive early break in the race for their party's presidential nomination.

Instead, they believe the "crucial" stage of the contest will not be reached until after the National Convention begins in Los Angeles July 11.

The prevailing view is that the presidential primaries beginning in March will not make or break any of the prospective candidates.

Some of the "old pros" in the party believe that, realistically, not more than two to five men have even a chance of winning the presidential nomination. But most of them agree with former President Harry S. Truman that the ambitions of a dozen or more "hopefuls" will have to be taken into consideration in Los Angeles.

THE NAMES OF at least that many serious contenders, dark horses and favorite sons are now expected to be placed in nomination. The real pattern of the fight will emerge only when the weaker of these dozen or more hopefuls begin to trade off votes and the large blocs of favorite son and uncommitted delegates go up for auction.

The top-level Democrats who gathered in New York 10 days ago for meetings of the Democratic Advisory Council cited two reasons for expecting no early break in the nomination struggle:

1. Key state and national leaders are withholding their endorsements from the frontrunners.

2. There will be few, if any, showdown tests in the primaries.

THE MEETINGS in New York produced no spectacular gains for any of the hopefuls. The potential "kingmakers" in the party seemed united only in their determination to hold off giving firm commitments to any candidate.

Truman declared he would not announce his choice for the nomination until the day before the convention opens.

Adlai E. Stevenson pledged himself to a policy of "vertical neutrality," meaning that he will not, if he can help it, give any evidence of his leanings. Stevenson's action and his reception in New York did nothing to discourage his backers' hopes that he himself would be available for a third presidential race.

The policy of neutrality also was embraced by the leaders of such powerful and uncommitted states as New York, Pennsylvania and Illinois.

At the same time, soundings in the 16 states with presidential primaries convinced the party leaders that no decisive trend is likely to emerge from them.

MANY OF THE leaders said they discerned an apparent shift in the strategy of Sen. John F. Kennedy (Mass.), who once hoped to demolish all his rivals in a series of smashing primary triumphs. Now, the party leaders feel, Kennedy is inclined to avoid picking fights in the backyards of other contenders. They think he will run only in states where he is a strong public favorite and in states where he suspects the favorite son is in league with anti-Kennedy forces.

Even the "showdown primary in Oregon next May 20 may have the edge taken off it by the favorite son candidacy of Sen. Wayne Morse, according to reports from Oregon leaders and others who have visited the state in the past three weeks.

UNUSUAL INTEREST has attached to the Oregon contest because of a unique new primary law that virtually requires all serious contenders to let their names go on the ballot. It was thought that Oregon, at least, would give a clear indication of how the candidates stand.

But the situation has now been complicated by the apparent determination of Morse's backers to place his name on the ballot by petition, despite his stated desire to stay out.

Oregon observers predicted that Morse might well win the preference poll against the big field of outside candidates. In fact, they said, there are already indications that some of the national candidates may not even campaign in the state if Morse's name goes on the ballot.

Puppy Love Apparently No Longer As Serious As In Writer's Youth

NEW YORK (AP) — Can you remember your first grammar school love affair?

Did you keep it a secret from prying outsiders? When it blew up, did it leave you desperate and soul-scarred for life?

Well, if it was that way then, it isn't that way now. Love is pretty casual today in the younger set.

At least it is on our apartment house floor. My daughter, Tracy Ann, who is 6 and in the first grade, has fallen in love with an older fellow who lives down the hall.

His name is Mark. He is tall (half an inch taller than my daughter), blond and handsome. He is 7 years old, going on 8, and is in the second grade.

Mark is terribly fond of Tracy. He would rather stay indoors and draw pictures with her than go out roller skating with the boys. But he is quite content merely to be near Tracy. He isn't interested in shouldering any further responsibilities. He wants things to drift along as they are.

This doesn't suit Tracy at all. Like any girl after a carefree bachelor, she wants to nail him down for keeps — right now.

The other day Tracy, whose other interest in life is learning to read and write, had been silent for a long time.

"What are you up to now?" I asked her.

"I'm writing a love letter," she said.

"Who's it to?"

"To Mark. Do you want me to read it to you?"

"I am all ears."

Tracy cleared her throat and chanted aloud in her best first grade English:

"I love. I kiss. I will love, I will kiss. I will love you forever and ever and ever and ever."

She held up the letter which was brilliant in half a dozen crayon colors.

"It's a beautiful letter," I told her. "The meaning is absolutely clear."

Half an hour later Mark came visiting. Tracy immediately cornered him and chanted the contents of her letter to him.

"Uh huh," said Mark.

"WE WILL GET married," announced Tracy firmly, "and we will have five children."

There was a long silence.

"U-m-m-m-m-m-m-m," said Mark.

TRACY CARELESSLY tossed her love letter on the floor and got out her box of crayons. Five minutes later both were busy drawing, and quarreling happily over the crayons as if they had been wed 40 years.

REMEMBER WHEN

10 YEARS AGO

A list of 27 suggested improvements in the conduct of Marin Assessor George Hall's office was recommended by the state Board of Equalization, which two years previously investigated Hall's office at the request of the Marin County Board of Supervisors. Hall said he had "gained a point" in that the report didn't recommend that a reappraisal program be conducted by an independent commission.

I-J REPORTER'S NOTEBOOK

By CARLETON WILLIAMS

Beethoven, Who Wrote Nine Symphonies, Never Had It This Good

Well, here it is Beethoven's birthday again, and how time does fly.

And, I hasten to add to my birthday greetings, that Ludwig has a pretty rough time of it around our house.

His Eroica Symphony stands little or no chance, competing as it does with "Houn' Dog Man," a la Fabian, ad "Go, Jimmy, Go!" as turned in by Jimmy Clanton.

When I think of the months Beethover spent writing the piece, and the futile hours I put in trying to hear the fruit of his labors, the future of culture looks black indeed.

THIS, HOWEVER, is the price one pays for the proud ownership of a pair of teenagers, each fully equipped with a record-player and radio

Nor is culture, as such, the only thing at stake. My own nervous system is also taking quite a beating.

The is, for example, the matter of left-over fried chicken.

If you think there is a chance of hiding a small drum stick for a late snack or a lunch tidbit the following day, then you either work in a restaurant or are fortunate enough to have a vegetarian for a roommate.

ANOTHER OF my ulcers is the direct result of clogged-up drain pipes.

"But, Daddy, I DIDN'T put the garbage down the sink," my eldest dishwasher insists.

This I am told while under the house pulling two peanut butter sandwiches, four yards of spinach and an even dozen bubble gum wrappers out of the sanitary system.

Then, there are the bicycle fenders.

I am informed shortly after midnight one evening that it is strictly square to have fenders on the three-speed racer we use for transportation to and from the candy store.

"But, Dad, ALL the fellows are taking off their fenders," my Barney Oldfield assures me.

"At this time of night?" I ask with what I consider a certain logic.

THE FUNERAL march in the second movement of the Eroica was never designed to compete with the clatter of pliers, nuts, bolts and handlebars on the living room floor. Not to mention Fabian coming in loud and clear from the next room.

I am also blessed with a future veterinarian who "owns" two famished dogs. That is, they are famished whenever I see them.

"Please feed the dogs for me tonight, Daddy," the animals' best friend will plead. "I PROMISED Melinda I would phone her. Please, Daddy."

BETWEEN THE sweet-talk from the light of my life and the mute pleading of the pair of drooling hounds, I am sunk. All three of us know if we waited for the telephone conversation to end, they would both be dead from malnutrition.

I must admit, though, that the picture is not totally bleak. We do have our moments.

As a matter of fact, even though I didn't write nine symphonies, I did have a hand in the production of a pair of shining stars.

Beethoven never had it so good.

ROSCOE DRUMMOND

President In No Mood To Leave 'The Mess In Television' As It Is

Specifically he is considering the creation of a national citizens' advisory board on radio and television.

The purpose of the new advisory board would be to re-examine, from the national viewpoint, the whole set-up and conduct of the industry and whether it is adequately serving the public interest in its licensed use of the public airwaves — and, if not, how it could better do so.

The proposed board would be advisory to the President, to Congress, and to the Federal Communications Commission. While it would have a small operating staff, it would have no duty other than to issue its annual review and recommendations.

MY INFORMATION is that the President had begun to turn this project over in his mind before he had to start concentrating on preparations for his trip aboard and that the decision as to whether the White House will take the initiative will be made when he returns near the end of the month.

In light of the quiz scandals in light of the voluminous shows devoted to crime and violence (one witness before the F. C. C. testified that an average American youth sees "the violent destruction of 13,000 human beings on TV" between the ages of 5 and 14) and in light of the paucity of educational fare during prime viewing time, it seems to me inescapably necessary to ask:

ISN'T IT TIME to re-examine whether radio and television are doing the job they agreed to do when the government turned over the channels for their use? The administration took a "new look" at the military. Shouldn't the administration help the country take a new look at radio and TV in light of experience?

Have the radio and television industries developed and matured and are they being operated in accordance with the ground rules laid down by Congress?

Since the airwaves belong to all of us and are only leased to the industry, are radio and TV providing a fair balance between public service and entertainment or, like bad money driving out good, is shoddy entertainment driving nearly everything else off the airways?

Isn't this the best possible time to find out?

I KNOW THAT some people are anxious lest, in our annoyance over the "mess in TV," we simply throw up our hands and decide to turn everything over to the government. For myself I would be disposed to search long and well before turning to government operation of television.

But I think we should realize that conserving the national resources and making sure they are used in the national interest are first responsibilities of government. The airwaves are a national resource.

A national citizens' advisory board on radio and television is urgently needed. We must hope the Persident will urge this upon Congress.

TRY AND STOP ME

BENNETT CERF

In Israel, they tell of a young man who strode into a recruiting office and asked to be sworn into the navy forthwith. "My girl is waiting for me outside," he explained, "and I want to rejoin her in uniform." But when he asked for size 9 shoes, they were all out of size 9; when he asked for a size 40 suit, they were all out of size 40; when he wanted a hat, they were out of hats altogether.

Finally, the recruiting officer interrupted, "there's one question I have to ask you: Can you swim?"

"What's the matter? asked the exasperated recruit. "Boats you don't have either?"

"I will describe that Williams boy I was out with last night in one sentence," volunteered the pert junior from Smith College. "He's a perfect gentleman from the word 'Stop.'"

TODAY'S EDITORIAL

Clyde Edmondson Built REA Strong Enough To Last

The news that Clyde Edmondson intends to step out as general manager of the Redwood Empire Assn. comes as something of a shock. Edmondson has always been so much a part of the Redwood Empire Assn. -- and vice versa -- that it is difficult to think of one without the other.

For 34 years since Edmondson first became associated with the R.E.A., he has personally overseen all and every detail of association operations. In recent years as the extent of activities has widened, the work load has pyramided.

Edmondson's tireless, selfless efforts finally caught up with him. The doctors say he must take it easier. The very idea of Clyde Edmondson "coasting" on the job is inimical to his way of doing things. There was no alternative but to quit. And that is what he intends to do as soon as a successor can be selected.

As is the case with any forceful individual giving his all toward a goal, Edmondson has had his share of critics. But we don't know anybody who would deny that Redwood Empire counties have benefitted mightily from the efforts of the Redwood Empire Assn. -- which cannot be separated from Clyde Edmondson's personal efforts.

While taking leave of co-workers is a sad matter, Edmondson can take satisfaction in hearing eulogies such as this editorial while he is still on hand to appreciate them.

We are sure that all the people who have worked with him over the years will join us in wishing Edmondson success in whatever new, less-strenuous venture he decides to undertake.

But what of the R.E.A.? Can it survive without Clyde Edmondson?

We think so. We are confident that he built it strong enough so it will endure after he (and we, too) are gone.

The need for all nine counties to pull together is no less now than it was 34 years ago when Edmondson appeared on the scene. In fact it is greater now.

The organization then was nearly defunct. Now it is healthy with an energetic, young president named Don Emerson. It has good workers and supporters in each of the counties.

As we say, Edmondson built it strong enough so it will endure and continue to benefit all of us who live in the Redwood Empire.

BOY GOES DOWN DRAIN

The boy lost his balance and was swept into the 6-foot sewer filled by steady rains. He could scarcely keep his head above the swirling waters in the 6-inch airspace at the top of the pipes.

As he was being swept along he prayed to be delivered from a watery death. He had been dragged about a half a mile when he bumped into a log caught up in a bunch of trash. By gripping onto it, he was able to brace himself against the sides of the sewer and shout for help.

A bicyclist who heard his cries got some construction workers to help in the rescue.

This youngster's plight is a sample in miniature of that of mankind in these fast-moving times. No matter what your circumstances, work and pray to see that truth and justice will prevail at all times.

Puppy Love Apparently No Longer As Serious As In Writer's Youth

NEW YORK (AP) — Can you remember your first grammar school love affair?

Did you keep it a secret from prying outsiders? When it blew up, did it leave you desperate and soul-scarred for life?

Well, if it was that way then, it isn't that way now. Love is pretty casual today in the younger set.

At least it is on our apartment house floor. My daughter, Tracy Ann, who is 6 and in the first grade, has fallen in love with an older fellow who lives down the hall.

His name is Mark. He is tall (half an inch taller than my daughter), blond and handsome. He is 7 years old, going on 8, and is in the second grade.

Mark is terribly fond of Tracy. He would rather stay indoors and draw pictures with her than go out roller skating with the boys. But he is quite content merely to be near Tracy. He isn't interested in shouldering any further responsibilities. He wants things to drift along as they are.

This doesn't suit Tracy at all. Like any girl after a carefree bachelor, she wants to nail him down for keeps — right now.

The other day Tracy, whose other interest in life is learning to read and write, had been silent for a long time.

"What are you up to now?" I asked her.

"I'm writing a love letter," she said.

"Who's it to?"

"To Mark. Do you want me to read it to you?"

"I am all ears."

Tracy cleared her throat and chanted aloud in her best first grade English:

"I love. I kiss. I will love, I will kiss. I will love you forever and ever and ever and ever."

She held up the letter which was brilliant in half a dozen crayon colors.

"It's a beautiful letter," I told her. "The meaning is absolutely clear."

Half an hour later Mark came visiting. Tracy immediately cornered him and chanted the contents of her letter to him.

"Uh huh," said Mark.

"WE WILL GET married," announced Tracy firmly, "and we will have five children."

There was a long silence.

"U-m-m-m-m-m-m-m," said Mark.

TRACY CARELESSLY tossed her love letter on the floor and got out her box of crayons. Five minutes later both were busy drawing, and quarreling happily over the crayons as if they had been wed 40 years.

A list of 27 suggested improvements in the conduct of Marin Assessor George Hall's office was recommended by the state Board of Equalization, which two years previously investigated Hall's office at the request of the Marin County Board of Supervisors. WHAT OUR READERS SAY

EDITOR,
Independent-Journal:

I have appointed myself as a committee of one to thank the California Highway Patrol for their pre-Christmas Christmas present.

I refer to the boys in grey who have straightened out the traffic maelstrom at the intersection of US 101, the Blackpoint cutoff and South Novato Boulevard.

This situation, sir, between 7 and 8 a.m. is, to coin a phrase, a mess. Those two lanes from the east come swarming across us poor souls who only have one lane to drive on, and snow us under when the light turns green. But now . . . all is different . . . the boys in grey have the situation under control . . . instead of taking 30 minutes for me to get to work (I only have three miles to go from Lynwood Park to Hamilton Air Force Base) . . . now it takes only 10!

Can I count on them from here on out? — Even during the rainy season — (if it ever gets here)? — I hope so!

Merry Christmas to all those who decided it was time the traffic hassle at this corner was due for correction.

Selinger Given Tiburon's Thanks

EDITOR,
Independetnt-Journal:

Everyone attending the recent "Town Hall on Recall" in Tiburon was in agreement on at least one thing — the outstanding job (in a ticklish situation) done by Julius Selinger as moderator.

After the meeting, Mr. Selinger was heard to compliment the people of Tiburon for their exemplary behavior. Tiburon would like to return the compliment, Mr. Selinger. Much of the credit for this stimulating and informative evening goes to you for setting the tenor of the meeting, for being admirably impartial in your judgments, and for lending just the right touch of levity to dispell any incipient tension.

Thank you, Mr. Selinger, for your generosity and talent in moderating Tiburon's "Town Hall on Recall."

NO EARLY BREAK

Primaries Won't Select Demo Nominee

By Congressional Quarterly

Instead, they believe the "crucial" stage of the contest will not be reached until after the National Convention begins in Los Angeles July 11.

The prevailing view is that the presidential primaries beginning in March will not make or break any of the prospective candidates.

Some of the "old pros" in the party believe that, realistically, not more than two to five men have even a chance of winning the presidential nomination. But most of them agree with former President Harry S. Truman that the ambitions of a dozen or more "hopefuls" will have to be taken into consideration in Los Angeles.

THE NAMES OF at least that many serious contenders, dark horses and favorite sons are now expected to be placed in nomination. The real pattern of the fight will emerge only when the weaker of these dozen or more hopefuls begin to trade off votes and the large blocs of favorite son and uncommitted delegates go up for auction.

The top-level Democrats who gathered in New York 10 days ago for meetings of the Democratic Advisory Council cited two reasons for expecting no early break in the nomination struggle:

1. Key state and national leaders are withholding their endorsements from the front-runners.

2. There will be few, if any, showdown tests in the primaries.

THE MEETINGS in New York produced no spectacular gains for any of the hopefuls. The potential "kingmakers" in the party seemed united only in their determination to hold off giving firm commitments to any candidate.

Truman declared he would not announce his choice for the nomination until the day before the convention opens.

Adlai E. Stevenson pledged himself to a policy of "vertical neutrality," meaning that he will not, if he can help it, give any evidence of his leanings. Stevenson's action and his reception in New York did nothing to discourage his backers' hopes that he himself would be available for a third presidential race.

The policy of neutrality also was embraced by the leaders of such powerful and uncommitted states as New York, Pennsylvania and Illinois.

At the same time, soundings in the 16 states with presidential primaries convinced the party leaders that no decisive trend is likely to emerge from them.

MANY OF THE leaders said they discerned an apparent shift in the strategy of Sen. John F. Kennedy (Mass.), who once hoped to demolish all his rivals in a series of smashing primary triumphs. Now, the party leaders feel, Kennedy is inclined to avoid picking fights in the backyards of other contenders. They think he will run only in states where he is a strong public favorite and in states where he suspects the favorite son is in league with anti-Kennedy forces.

Even the "showdown primary in Oregon next May 20 may have the edge taken off it by the favorite son candidacy of Sen. Wayne Morse, according to reports from Oregon leaders and others who have visited the state in the past three weeks.

UNUSUAL INTEREST has attached to the Oregon contest because of a unique new primary law that virtually requires all serious contenders to let their names go on the ballot. It was thought that Oregon, at least, would give a clear indication of how the candidates stand.

But the situation has now been complicated by the apparent determination of Morse's backers to place his name on the ballot by petition, despite his stated desire to stay out.

Oregon observers predicted that Morse might well win the preference poll against the big field of outside candidates. In fact, they said, there are already indications that some of the national candidates may not even campaign in the state if Morse's name goes on the ballot.

TRY AND STOP ME

In Israel, they tell of a young man who strode into a recruiting office and asked to be sworn into the navy forthwith. "My girl is waiting for me outside," he explained, "and I want to rejoin her in uniform." Beethoven, Who Wrote Nine Symphonies, Never Had It This Good

Well, here it is Beethoven's birthday again, and how time does fly.

And, I hasten to add to my birthday greetings, that Ludwig has a pretty rough time of it around our house.

His Eroica Symphony stands little or no chance, competing as it does with "Houn' Dog Man," a la Fabian, ad "Go, Jimmy, Go!" as turned in by Jimmy Clanton.

When I think of the months Beethover spent writing the piece, and the futile hours I put in trying to hear the fruit of his labors, the future of culture looks black indeed.

THIS, HOWEVER, is the price one pays for the proud ownership of a pair of teenagers, each fully equipped with a record-player and radio

Nor is culture, as such, the only thing at stake. My own nervous system is also taking quite a beating.

The is, for example, the matter of left-over fried chicken.

If you think there is a chance of hiding a small drum stick for a late snack or a lunch tidbit the following day, then you either work in a restaurant or are fortunate enough to have a vegetarian for a roommate.

ANOTHER OF my ulcers is the direct result of clogged-up drain pipes.

"But, Daddy, I DIDN'T put the garbage down the sink," my eldest dishwasher insists.

This I am told while under the house pulling two peanut butter sandwiches, four yards of spinach and an even dozen bubble gum wrappers out of the sanitary system.

Then, there are the bicycle fenders.

I am informed shortly after midnight one evening that it is strictly square to have fenders on the three-speed racer we use for transportation to and from the candy store.

"But, Dad, ALL the fellows are taking off their fenders," my Barney Oldfield assures me.

"At this time of night?" I ask with what I consider a certain logic.

THE FUNERAL march in the second movement of the Eroica was never designed to compete with the clatter of pliers, nuts, bolts and handlebars on the living room floor. Not to mention Fabian coming in loud and clear from the next room.

I am also blessed with a future veterinarian who "owns" two famished dogs. That is, they are famished whenever I see them.

"Please feed the dogs for me tonight, Daddy," the animals' best friend will plead. "I PROMISED Melinda I would phone her. Please, Daddy."

BETWEEN THE sweet-talk from the light of my life and the mute pleading of the pair of drooling hounds, I am sunk. All three of us know if we waited for the telephone conversation to end, they would both be dead from malnutrition.

I must admit, though, that the picture is not totally bleak. We do have our moments.

As a matter of fact, even though I didn't write nine symphonies, I did have a hand in the production of a pair of shining stars.

Beethoven never had it so good.

ROSCOE DRUMMOND

President In No Mood To Leave 'The Mess In Television' As It Is

Specifically he is considering the creation of a national citizens' advisory board on radio and television.

The purpose of the new advisory board would be to re-examine, from the national viewpoint, the whole set-up and conduct of the industry and whether it is adequately serving the public interest in its licensed use of the public airwaves — and, if not, how it could better do so.

The proposed board would be advisory to the President, to Congress, and to the Federal Communications Commission. While it would have a small operating staff, it would have no duty other than to issue its annual review and recommendations.

MY INFORMATION is that the President had begun to turn this project over in his mind before he had to start concentrating on preparations for his trip aboard and that the decision as to whether the White House will take the initiative will be made when he returns near the end of the month.

In light of the quiz scandals in light of the voluminous shows devoted to crime and violence (one witness before the F. C. C. testified that an average American youth sees "the violent destruction of 13,000 human beings on TV" between the ages of 5 and 14) and in light of the paucity of educational fare during prime viewing time, it seems to me inescapably necessary to ask:

ISN'T IT TIME to re-examine whether radio and television are doing the job they agreed to do when the government turned over the channels for their use? The administration took a "new look" at the military. Shouldn't the administration help the country take a new look at radio and TV in light of experience?

Have the radio and television industries developed and matured and are they being operated in accordance with the ground rules laid down by Congress?

Since the airwaves belong to all of us and are only leased to the industry, are radio and TV providing a fair balance between public service and entertainment or, like bad money driving out good, is shoddy entertainment driving nearly everything else off the airways?

Isn't this the best possible time to find out?

I KNOW THAT some people are anxious lest, in our annoyance over the "mess in TV," we simply throw up our hands and decide to turn everything over to the government. For myself I would be disposed to search long and well before turning to government operation of television.

But I think we should realize that conserving the national resources and making sure they are used in the national interest are first responsibilities of government. The airwaves are a national resource.

A national citizens' advisory board on radio and television is urgently needed. We must hope the Persident will urge this upon Congress.

New Chessman Move Will Win More Time

Caryl Chessman, still fighting a battle of time against the San Quentin Prison gas chamber, will win a little more by a legal maneuver announced yesterday.

George T. Davis, one of Chessman's attorneys, announced he will file with the U.S. Supreme Court a petition for reconsideration of its turndown of a hearing on the "red light bandit's" contention that the transcript of his Los Angeles trial is so faulty as to preclude justice.

The top court turned down a rehearing request Monday. But the new application will win Chessman an additional 25 days before a new date for his execution can be set.

Asst. State Atty. Gen. Clarence Linn said that, with the other legal requirements for setting Chessman's eighth death date taken into account, he estimates the earliest possible new execution date in San Quentin's gas chamber to be about mid-March.

During that time, Linn said, Chessman's counsel can make one more bid in San Francisco's Federal District Court, and appeal any adverse ruling to the U.S. Court of Appeals. If that fails, one last request can be filed with the Supreme Court.

If all these result in rejections, said Linn, Chessman's decade-long fight against execution will be ended.

moval without paying the expense.

Jordan wasn't a bit of help, saying that "what you feel fair is up to you." Legally any permit is revocable on five days' notice, however, he said: "We have the right to revoke the encroachment permit without liability."

Supervisor Vera L. Schultz then asked whether utility poles could be used to carry TV cables. Jordan said that this could be done with consent of the utility company, but the cost had been found to exceed even that of putting the cables underground.

"There is also the question of space on the utility poles," said Robert D. Lewis, operator of the TV firm. The Woodacre utility poles are already carrying a full load, he reported.

"TV is a great pleasure for people, especially older people," said Gnoss. "If we deny the poles we are denying the people their enjoyment of television. It might be selfish to do this, and TV visibility has bearing on the price of property."

Supervisor William D. Fusselman agreed with Gnoss about the need for TV though he thought aesthetics would be a consideration if there were no other poles in the area.

"I feel we shouldn't encourage more and more poles," said Supervisor Vera Schultz. "They detract from the appearance of the community."

Chairman Walter R. Castro mentioned seeing other places where there had been above-ground installation without objection.

Marvin W. Brigham, director of public works, said he'd investigated and found no other course feasible on the Woodacre streets.

"We all enjoy TV and I don't think we have the right to deny it," said Supervisor James A. Marshall.

Gnoss moved that the already installed poles remain "but where possible other ways should be considered". The motion passed unanimously, although Mrs. Schultz voted "yes" with obvious reluctance and remarked that she approved only because of the attached condition.

tragedy. It was particularly tragic because Fleming was not supposed to have been out with Juno.

When Mrs. Fleming took the Guide Dogs course with Juno seven years ago, she signed a contract that no else would be allowed to use the dog. That is required by Guide Dogs because, officials explained, each person signals the dog a little differently and, if more than one sightless person uses him as guide, the dog becomes somewhat confused and unreliable.

But Mrs. Fleming, blind since babyhood, had been injured in an accident, and could not walk. Somebody had to do the shopping.

So he took Juno shopping.

A Guide Dogs spokesman said the school's admissions committee might be willing to overlook the contract infraction because of the circumstances. And former students needing new dogs got priority in class assignments. So one of the Flemings might be admitted next month.

Dr. Siegel said many persons called his veterinary hospital this morning wanting to contribute to help the sightless couple. He would refer them all to Guide Dogs for the Blind, he said.

Couple To Get $21,750 For House, Lot

Mr. and Mrs. John Drury of 7 Reed Court, Strawberry, should be paid $21,750 for their home and lot needed for widening of Tiburon boulevard, a Marin Superior Court jury decided by a 9-3 vote last night.

Irving Sugarman of Richmond, attorney for the Drurys, said they had asked for $27,500, and the state had offered them $18,500.

The jurors heard evidence for five days before Judge Jordan L. Martinelli then deliberated for four and one-half hours. Nine jurors said they agreed with the $21,750 price, but three others held out for a lesser amount.

there was something more in life than speaking and waving and doing of things that don't make sense in front of a camera. I guess I just don't have a high regard for those things."

Hayden reviewed his troubles in lining up a crew and a teacher for the South Seas trip, but, finally with those problems ironed out, they sailed last Jan. 18.

His figeting audience, standing and kneeling at the edge of an asphalt playyard, learned that school went on as usual aboard the wanderer.

The teacher set up a classroom for Hayden's four youngsters and the three children of his mate, Philip Africa.

"They had classes from 7 to 11 in the morning and then from 2 to 4 in the afternoon," Hayden said. There were giggles in the audience as two of the Africa children, who attend Richardson Bay School, were spotted and pointed out.

There were classes again after the Wanderer reached Tahiti. Hayden rented a house for the classroom, and studies continued until the summer.

Then it was time to come home, and all of the original crew already had left. Hayden hired two Germans, another crew member from North Ireland and a Tahatian cook. During the voyage home there was no school — for 42 days.

Now the children are in school again. Hayden hopes after the Christmas holidays to bring his four to Marin and enroll them in Reed District around Jan. 4. The following day he is scheduled to appear in Los Angeles Superior Court to answer contempt of court charges that he took his children on the voyage against the orders of a judge in a legal battle Hayden has had with his ex-wife, Betty de Noon.

As the assembly ended many students rushed forward to obtain autographs, but they were quickly dispersed.

BROWN SAYS HE'LL PROPOSE NO NEW TAXES

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—Gov. Edmund G. Brown said today he will propose no new taxes to the 1960 budget session of the Legislature.

Brown said a preliminary review of the budget with the state's top fiscal experts yesterday convinced him that the state is in "sound financial position" and no new taxes would be necessary.

Crabs From North Go On Sale Here

Northern California crabs went on sale in Marin today, after arrival of trucks last night with the first catch of the season which opened yesterday northward from Pt. Arena.

"Their appearance indicates that we're in for a season of somewhat better crabs than those caught locally this year," commented Cass Gidley of San Rafael's Lighthouse Crab Co.

"But the truth is that they don't seem quite up to what came in last year when there were many fine jumbos."

Crab trapping season opened Nov. 15 in both local waters and in Oregon, but the season north of Point Reyes started yesterday, traps having gone into the water Monday. Most of the local Marin fishermen went to northern ports late last week, disappointed with their southern season because crabs have proved both small and increasingly scarce.

Christmas Tree Lights Stolen At Kentfield

Inn Damaged By Airmen During Brawl

Two groups of airmen nearly wrecked Black Point Inn last night in a free-for-all battle, but the owner declined to sign a complaint.

Giles Leroy Franklin, 26, bartender and part owner, told sheriff's deputies the men responsible had agreed to pay for all damages.

Tables were overturned, chairs and glasses broken, and blood spattered on the floor. Franklin said he tried to stop the fight but was knocked down twice in the process.

Air Police arrested three airmen at the Hamilton Air Force Base main gate: A/2c Joseph T. Malloy, 20, of 78th Installations Squadron; A/3c Herbert K. Pendleton, 20, of 84th Fighter Interceptor Squadron, and A/3c Leonard L. Jared, 21, of 78th Installations Squadron. All three admitted they were in a brawl, but said other airmen had started the fight. They were not held.

Franklin called the sheriff for help about 11:40 p.m. Deputies Gerald Fries and Harold Goerndt found all suspects gone when they arrived.

On the county board of education, the terms of OB Cavanaugh of Stinson Beach and Lyman B. McBride of San Anselmo expire next year. Election to these posts, which under past practice would have been part of the May school board elections, will be included in the June 7 primary elections.

DePue read his resignation last night.

TRANSIT

now is an alignment for cost and total overall picture of the five Bay Area counties.

It was argued that about 75 per cent of the traffic is on Miller avenue now and that, if the station were located as proposed, the traffic would shift to East Blithedale, which would require widening of that street to eight lanes. Behr said that East Blithedale could never be widened and this would definitely be a problem.

BASED ON BRIDGE

The whole route in Marin, said John C. Beckett, a Marin member of the Rapid Transit District board, is based on use of the Golden Gate Bridge to carry the rail lines. "If we can't use the Golden Gate Bridge, you can't possibly justify another crossing, unless it is well in the future," Beckett declared.

Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District directors have authorized a study of engineering feasibility of placing rails on the bridge, but have expressed doubt it would be feasible either from an enginering or financial standpoint.

A Mill Valley Greyhound bus commuter said that with the new system commuters would not be picked up at the door as they are now. Riggs said that pickup would still be available with jitney buses to the station and that on the San Francisco side there would be many more delivery points than are now available with Greyhound.

Beckett said that too few people are now using Greyhound and that it is too slow. "We are trying to devise a system that can be used by more people and trying to look ahead five or ten years at a situation with which Greyhound will not be able to cope," he declared.

TRAFFIC REDUCTION

Guichard said that it might be that the best break for Mill Valley, from the new system, would be that people to the north would be taken off the roads.

"It is obvious," he said, "that to people in San Rafael, rapid transit means more than to people in Mill Valley."

Beckett agreed. But, he said San Francisco wants to eliminate all downtown parking because of traffic congestion.

Group To Look Into Flood Project Cost

After twice considering a "startling $114,000 increase in estimated cost to Marin County of the Tamalpais Valley federal flood control project yesterday, the Marin County Board of Supervisors wound up by deciding on informal discussions with the Army Corps of Engineers.

Consideration by the full board was postponed until Jan. 5.

The subject had been on the board's agenda for next Tuesday. It was indicated that conference with the engineers will be sought next Monday by a Marin group composed of Leland H. Jordan, county counsel; Marvin W. Brigham, director of public works, and Supervisor Vera L. Schultz of Mill Valley.

Uneasy over county liability, Jordan brought the matter up with a letter presented during the supervisors' morning session. He again raised it late in the afternoon with a verbal warning that "we should tell them, not that we've withdrawn, but that they should not rely on our previous assurances."

Jordan's letter served warning that some sort of prompt action should be taken, because the expected county contribution of $127,000, indicated in a new army total estimate of $527,000 received a week before, "is so far beyond the original estimate as to warrant reconsideration and, if deemed advisable, recision by the county of its previous assurances."

Jordan said that if the board after re-examination finds that it can't get up the suddenly swollen sum, then a letter should so advise the engineers.

"A decision should be made immediately," the letter concluded,

"There is a possibility that somebody goofed over there," said Supervisor William D. Fusselman. To this Jordan responded, "Somebody did goof for sure."

"We need an explanation," said Mrs. Schultz. "This is a very serious thing. It's a terrific jump. The cost of materials has increased only 4½ per cent and there is now a 35 to 40 per cent increase."

Mrs. Schultz at that time moved and the board approved an invitation to the engineers to appear before the supervisors next Tuesday. But during the day Jordan began to worry and finally he proposed faster action.

So the board decided that since a lot of discussion was evidently bound to be necessary and a small group might deal with it quicker, the best thing would be to have county representatives act as soon as possible while the board as a whole held off until Jan. 5.

Seaman Hurt Aboard Ship Wins Damages

A Sausalito seaman was awarded $58,000 yesterday by the U. S. District Court in San Francisco for injuries suffered in an accident aboard the SS Mariposa last year.

Hans Randrupp, 51, suffered a ruptured disc and head injuries when a lifeboat aboard the liner broke loose and he plunged 55 feet into the Pacific Ocean near Honolulu.

Next week he will return to his home at 74 Waterlee street to spend Christmas with his wife and five children. For the past year he has been hospitalized in San Francisco.

After the holidays he must return to the hospital for further treatment.

When asked what their plans were for the future, Mrs. Randrupp replied, "Trying to get my husband well."

Takes WAC Training

Recruit Janet D. Johnson, daughter of Mrs. DeFayne S. Blankenship of Marin City, has completed eight weeks of basic military training at the Women's Army Corps Center, Ft. McClellan, Ala. She is a 1958 graduate of Tamalpais High School in Mill Valley.

FINAL DRAFTS

Board To Get Novato Airport Pact Dec. 22

Final drafts of the agreement with William Q. Wright Jr. for purchase of 10 acres of Novato Airport property will come before the Marin County Board of Supervisors Dec. 22, it was decided by the board yesterday.

Wright has asked that the sale be consummated before the end of the year for tax reasons. He's to get $10,000.

County Counsel Leland H. Jordan reported that Wright desired certain changes in the original arrangements and that the airport committee had recommended revisions in priority of work to be done, putting the east-west runway first, then parking area, construction from Highway 101, access road from 101, and north-south runway.

Because of lack of county funds for construction of the access road from Highway 101, Jordan told the board, Wright has agreed to permit use to be made of the existing road for the time being.

When Marvin W. Brigham, public works director, suggested "indefinite extension of option (to use Wright's easement for building the road) till funds are available from gas tax money," Wright rose to say, "I just don't want you to go on forever."

He said other suggestions of detailed revisions are "things that will save you money."

Jordan's letter suggested safeguards for Wright to repurchase on a basis of $20,000 plus cost of improvements if the county ever decides to discontinue airport use of the property.

Supervisor William Gnoss moved and the board approved this proposal.

Prison Brutality Charges Being Probed In Florida

RAIFORD, Fla. (UPI)—State penal director H. G. Cochran, Jr., began a personal investigation today of brutality at Raiford State Prison where inmates allegedly were chained to bars or inflicted with the fire hose treatment.

Cochran talked with reporters and then went into a closed conference with prison Superintendent Dewitt Sinclair, who blamed all the trouble on Cochran's predecessor.

The investigation was precipitated by federal grand jury indictments against 14 guards. They were charged with acts of cruelty including the chaining of inmates to cell bars for as long as 10 days with little or no food.

House Without Required Setback Puzzles Board

Just what to do with a Bolinas house which has been completed, but permission to build part of it has been denied, left the Marin County Board of Supervisors in an apparently frustrated frame of mind yesterday.

After fretting over explanations by B. D. Dobbs of the planning commission staff, and indicating a reluctance to adopt proposed punitive measures, the board set the matter over for further consideration Jan. 5 on motion of Supervisor Vera L. Schultz.

The case involves a home built by Glenn L. Morning in Bolinas Beach subdivision, where 25-foot setback is required. His house, by mistake in the course of construction, is set back only 22 feet.

Dobbs outlined the sequence of events, which included a warning during construction which was ignored. The Marin County Planning Commission tried to reach a solution by changing to a 20-foot setback rule, but protests of other residents caused this plan to be abandoned. The commission then felt impelled to deny a variance.

Unless it reversed the planning group the supervisors are up against these choices, Dobbs indicated: Require that the house be moved, or order prosecution with assumption that the court would levy a fine while allowing the house to remain.

"Continuance of the 25-foot setback rule was felt necessary to protect the values of the public," Dobbs explained.

The board indicated that such a complex problem required further meditation.

Three actions were taken by the board on behalf of the Mariner Oaks 10-acre subdivision on the Tiburon Peninsula near Red Hill with Mar West street as one boundary. It adopted a resolution to amend the master plan, received the development plan, and accepted a tentative map.

The supervisors also:

1. Were visited by Charles C. Crawford's "Problems of American Democracy" class of Tamalpais High School seniors.
2. Put off for 30 days, at the request of both agricultural and construction representatives, further consideration of a county housing code.
3. Authorized a study of the traffic problems at Vendola and Las Pasada streets in Santa Venetia.
4. Delayed for one week a decision on a proposal by the County Supervisors Assn. that the board endorse the state water bond proposal on next November's ballot.
5. Signed a new mutual aid fire protection agreement with Hamilton Air Force Base.
6. Appointed Jean A. Rogers, senior stenographer clerk, administrator's office, $376 per month, and Joseph Ross, intermediate account clerk, tax collector's office, $341.
7. Cleared the way for state-paid workers in the office of the county superintendent of schools (about 20 possibly affected) to come under federal Social Security with the county acting as their agent.
8. Referred to the parks and recreation commission and the planning commission a suggestion by Donald A. Jensen, county administrator, to give 12 minor properties to local public entities and improvement clubs.
9. Approved a rezoning of Hutchinson Co. quarry property just east of Highway 101 and adjacent to the Northwestern Pacific railroad, from agricultural to light industrial, as a point for loading quarry products.

Smoke Awakens Hub City Couple

A San Anselmo couple was aroused from sleep early today by a living room fire that caused damage estimated at $500.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth L. Edes of 155 Spring Grove avenue were awakened about 4:20 a.m. by smoke issuing from a smouldering chair and rug. San Anselmo firemen were summoned to put out the blaze, which Chief Nello M. Marcucci estimated to have caused $500 damage.

The fire might have started from a lighted cigarette, said the chief.

Roofer Draws Fine For Drunken Driving

Alexander Frederick Lebel, 51, Mill Valley roofer, drew a $200 fine and restricted driving for 90 days yesterday because of his first drunken driving offense.

Judge Harold J. Haley of Marin Municipal Court also put Lebel on one year probation.

New Chessman Move Will Win More Time

Caryl Chessman, still fighting a battle of time against the San Quentin Prison gas chamber, will win a little more by a legal maneuver announced yesterday.

George T. Davis, one of Chessman's attorneys, announced he will file with the U.S. Supreme Court a petition for reconsideration of its turndown of a hearing on the "red light bandit's" contention that the transcript of his Los Angeles trial is so faulty as to preclude justice.

The top court turned down a rehearing request Monday. But the new application will win Chessman an additional 25 days before a new date for his execution can be set.

Asst. State Atty. Gen. Clarence Linn said that, with the other legal requirements for setting Chessman's eighth death date taken into account, he estimates the earliest possible new execution date in San Quentin's gas chamber to be about mid-March.

During that time, Linn said, Chessman's counsel can make one more bid in San Francisco's Federal District Court, and appeal any adverse ruling to the U.S. Court of Appeals. If that fails, one last request can be filed with the Supreme Court.

If all these result in rejections, said Linn, Chessman's decade-long fight against execution will be ended.

POLES

moval without paying the expense.

Jordan wasn't a bit of help, saying that "what you feel fair is up to you." Legally any permit is revocable on five days' notice, however, he said: "We have the right to revoke the encroachment permit without liability."

Supervisor Vera L. Schultz then asked whether utility poles could be used to carry TV cables, Jordan said that this could be done with consent of the utility company, but the cost had been found to exceed even that of putting the cables underground.

"There is also the question of space on the utility poles," said Robert D. Lewis, operator of the TV firm. The Woodacre utility poles are already carrying a full load, he reported.

"TV is a great pleasure for people, especially older people," said Gnoss. "If we deny the poles we are denying the people their enjoyment of television. It might be selfish to do this, and TV visibility has bearing on the price of property."

Supervisor William D. Fusselman agreed with Gnoss about the need for TV though he thought aesthetics would be a consideration if there were no other poles in the area.

"I feel we shouldn't encourage more and more poles," said Supervisor Vera Schultz. "They detract from the appearance of the community."

Chairman Walter R. Castro mentioned seeing other places where there had been aboveground installation without objection.

Marvin W. Brigham, director of public works, said he'd investigated and found no other course feasible on the Woodacre streets.

"We all enjoy TV and I don't think we have the right to deny it," said Supervisor James A. Marshall.

Gnoss moved that the already installed poles remain "but where possible other ways should be considered". The motion passed unanimously, although Mrs. Schultz voted "yes" with obvious reluctance and remarked that she approved only because of the attached condition.

DOG

tragedy. It was particularly tragic because Fleming was not supposed to have been out with Juno.

When Mrs. Fleming took the Guide Dogs course with Juno seven years ago, she signed a contract that no else would be allowed to use the dog. That is required by Guide Dogs because, officials explained, each person signals the dog a little differently and, if more than one sightless person uses him as guide, the dog becomes somewhat confused and unreliable.

But Mrs. Fleming, blind since babyhood, had been injured in an accident, and could not walk. Somebody had to do the shopping.

So he took Juno shopping.

A Guide Dogs spokesman said the school's admissions committee might be willing to overlook the contract infraction because of the circumstances. And former students needing new dogs got priority in class assignments. So one of the Flemings might be admitted next month.

Dr. Siegel said many persons called his veterinary hospital this morning wanting to contribute to help the sightless couple. He would refer them all to Guide Dogs for the Blind, he said.

Couple To Get $21,750 For House, Lot

Mr. and Mrs. John Drury of 7 Reed Court, Strawberry, should be paid $21,750 for their home and lot needed for widening of Tiburon boulevard, a Marin Superior Court jury decided by a 9-3 vote last night.

Irving Sugarman of Richmond, attorney for the Drurys, said they had asked for $27,500, and the state had offered them $18,500.

The jurors heard evidence for five days before Judge Jordan L. Martinelli then deliberated for four and one-half hours. Nine jurors said they agreed with the $21,750 price, but three others held out for a lesser amount.

there was something more in life than speaking and waving and doing of things that don't make sense in front of a camera. I guess I just don't have a high regard for those things."

Hayden reviewed his troubles in lining up a crew and a teacher for the South Seas trip, but, finally with those problems ironed out, they sailed last Jan. 18.

His figeting audience, standing and kneeling at the edge of an asphalt playyard, learned that school went on as usual aboard the wanderer.

The teacher set up a classroom for Hayden's four youngsters and the three children of his mate, Philip Africa.

"They had classes from 7 to 11 in the morning and then from 2 to 4 in the afternoon," Hayden said. There were giggles in the audience as two of the Africa children, who attend Richardson Bay School, were spotted and pointed out.

There were classes again after the Wanderer reached Tahiti. Hayden rented a house for the classroom, and studies continued until the summer.

Then it was time to come home, and all of the original crew already had left. Hayden hired two Germans, another crew member from North Ireland and a Tahatian cook. During the voyage home there was no school — for 42 days.

Now the children are in school again. Hayden hopes after the Christmas holidays to bring his four to Marin and enroll them in Reed District around Jan. 4. The following day he is scheduled to appear in Los Angeles Superior Court to answer contempt of court charges that he took his children on the voyage against the orders of a judge in a legal battle Hayden has had with his ex-wife, Betty de Noon.

As the assembly ended many students rushed forward to obtain autographs, but they were quickly dispersed.

BROWN SAYS HE'LL PROPOSE NO NEW TAXES

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—Gov. Edmund G. Brown said today he will propose no new taxes to the 1960 budget session of the Legislature.

Brown said a preliminary review of the budget with the state's top fiscal experts yesterday convinced him that the state is in "sound financial position" and no new taxes would be necessary.

Crabs From North Go On Sale Here

Northern California crabs went on sale in Marin today, after arrival of trucks last night with the first catch of the season which opened yesterday northward from Pt. Arena.

"Their appearance indicates that we're in for a season of somewhat better crabs than those caught locally this year," commented Cass Gidley of San Rafael's Lighthouse Crab Co.

"But the truth is that they don't seem quite up to what came in last year when there were many fine jumbos."

Crab trapping season opened Nov. 15 in both local waters and in Oregon, but the season north of Point Reyes started yesterday, traps having gone into the water Monday. Most of the local Marin fishermen went to northern ports late last week, disappointed with their southern season because crabs have proved both small and increasingly scarce.

Christmas Tree Lights Stolen At Kentfield

Inn Damaged By Airmen During Brawl

Two groups of airmen nearly wrecked Black Point Inn last night in a free-for-all battle, but the owner declined to sign a complaint.

Giles Leroy Franklin, 26, bartender and part owner, told sheriff's deputies the men responsible had agreed to pay for all damages.

Tables were overturned, chairs and glasses broken, and blood spattered on the floor. Franklin said he tried to stop the fight but was knocked down twice in the process.

Air Police arrested three airmen at the Hamilton Air Force Base main gate: A/2c Joseph T. Malloy, 20, of 78th Installations Squadron; A/3c Herbert K. Pendleton, 20, of 84th Fighter Interceptor Squadron, and A/3c Leonard L. Jared, 21, of 78th Installations Squadron. All three admitted they were in a brawl, but said other airmen had started the fight. They were not held.

Franklin called the sheriff for help about 11:40 p.m. Deputies Gerald Fries and Harold Goerndt found all suspects gone when they arrived.

Mrs. Fay Jensen, president of the school board, reported seven applicants for the job of superintendent, which will become vacant July 1 when DePue resigns to take over the newly independent Kentfield District. The dead line for filing an application is Jan. 15.

DePue read his resignation last night.

It was argued that about 75 per cent of the traffic is on Miller avenue now and that, if the station were located as proposed, the traffic would shift to East Blithedale, which would require widening of that street to eight lanes. Behr said that East Blithedale could never be widened and this would definitely be a problem.

BASED ON BRIDGE

The whole route in Marin, said John C. Beckett, a Marin member of the Rapid Transit District board, is based on use of the Golden Gate Bridge to carry the rail lines. "If we can't use the Golden Gate Bridge, you can't possibly justify another crossing, unless it is well in the future," Beckett declared.

Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District directors have authorized a study of engineering feasibility of placing rails on the bridge, but have expressed doubt it would be feasible either from an enginering or financial standpoint.

A Mill Valley Greyhound bus commuter said that with the new system commuters would not be picked up at the door as they are now. Riggs said that pickup would still be available with jitney buses to the station and that on the San Francisco side there would be many more delivery points than are now available with Greyhound.

Beckett said that too few people are now using Greyhound and that it is too slow. "We are trying to devise a system that can be used by more people and trying to look ahead five or ten years at a situation with which Greyhound will not be able to cope," he declared.

TRAFFIC REDUCTION

Guichard said that it might be that the best break for Mill Valley, from the new system, would be that people to the north would be taken off the roads.

"It is obvious," he said, "that to people in San Rafael, rapid transit means more than to people in Mill Valley."

Beckett agreed. But, he said San Francisco wants to eliminate all downtown parking because of traffic congestion.

Group To Look Into Flood Project Cost

After twice considering a "startling $114,000 increase in estimated cost to Marin County of the Tamalpais Valley federal flood control project yesterday, the Marin County Board of Supervisors wound up by deciding on informal discussions with the Army Corps of Engineers.

Consideration by the full board was postponed until Jan. 5.

The subject had been on the board's agenda for next Tuesday. It was indicated that conference with the engineers will be sought next Monday by a Marin group composed of Leland H. Jordan, county counsel; Marvin W. Brigham, director of public works, and Supervisor Vera L. Schultz of Mill Valley.

Uneasy over county liability, Jordan brought the matter up with a letter presented during the supervisors' morning session. He again raised it late in the afternoon with a verbal warning that "we should tell them, not that we've withdrawn, but that they should not rely on our previous assurances."

Jordan's letter served warning that some sort of prompt action should be taken, because the expected county contribution of $127,000, indicated in a new army total estimate of $527,000 received a week before, "is so far beyond the original estimate as to warrant reconsideration and, if deemed advisable, recision by the county of its previous assurances."

Jordan said that if the board after re-examination finds that it can't get up the suddenly swollen sum, then a letter should so advise the engineers.

"A decision should be made immediately," the letter concluded,

"There is a possibility that somebody goofed over there," said Supervisor William D. Fusselman. To this Jordan responded, "Somebody did goof for sure."

"We need an explanation," said Mrs. Schultz. "This is a very serious thing. It's a terrific jump. The cost of materials has increased only 4½ per cent and there is now a 35 to 40 per cent increase."

Mrs. Schultz at that time moved and the board approved an invitation to the engineers to appear before the supervisors next Tuesday. But during the day Jordan began to worry and finally he proposed faster action.

So the board decided that since a lot of discussion was evidently bound to be necessary and a small group might deal with it quicker, the best thing would be to have county representatives act as soon as possible while the board as a whole held off until Jan. 5.

Seaman Hurt Aboard Ship Wins Damages

A Sausalito seaman was awarded $58,000 yesterday by the U. S. District Court in San Francisco for injuries suffered in an accident aboard the SS Mariposa last year.

Hans Randrupp, 51, suffered a ruptured disc and head injuries when a lifeboat aboard the liner broke loose and he plunged 55 feet into the Pacific Ocean near Honolulu.

Next week he will return to his home at 74 Waterlee street to spend Christmas with his wife and five children. For the past year he has been hospitalized in San Francisco.

After the holidays he must return to the hospital for further treatment.

When asked what their plans were for the future, Mrs. Randrupp replied, "Trying to get my husband well."

Takes WAC Training

Recruit Janet D. Johnson, daughter of Mrs. DeFayne S. Blankenship of Marin City, has completed eight weeks of basic military training at the Women's Army Corps Center, Ft. McClellan, Ala. She is a 1958 graduate of Tamalpais High School in Mill Valley.

FINAL DRAFTS

Board To Get Novato Airport Pact Dec. 22

Final drafts of the agreement with William Q. Wright Jr. for purchase of 10 acres of Novato Airport property will come before the Marin County Board of Supervisors Dec. 22, it was decided by the board yesterday.

Wright has asked that the sale be consummated before the end of the year for tax reasons. He's to get $10,000.

County Counsel Leland H. Jordan reported that Wright desired certain changes in the original arrangements and that the airport committee had recommended revisions in priority of work to be done, putting the east-west runway first, then parking area, construction from Highway 101, access road from 101, and north-south runway.

Because of lack of county funds for construction of the access road from Highway 101, Jordan told the board, Wright has agreed to permit use to be made of the existing road for the time being.

When Marvin W. Brigham, public works director, suggested "indefinite extension of option (to use Wright's easement for building the road) till funds are available from gas tax money," Wright rose to say, "I just don't want you to go on forever."

He said other suggestions of detailed revisions are "things that will save you money."

Jordan's letter suggested safeguards for Wright to repurchase on a basis of $20,000 plus cost of improvements if the county ever decides to discontinue airport use of the property.

Supervisor William Gnoss moved and the board approved this proposal.

Prison Brutality Charges Being Probed In Florida

RAIFORD, Fla. (UPI)—State penal director H. G. Cochran, Jr., began a personal investigation today of brutality at Raiford State Prison where inmates allegedly were chained to bars or inflicted with the fire hose treatment.

Cochran talked with reporters and then went into a closed conference with prison Superintendent Dewitt Sinclair, who blamed all the trouble on Cochran's predecessor.

The investigation was precipitated by federal grand jury indictments against 14 guards. They were charged with acts of cruelty including the chaining of inmates to cell bars for as long as 10 days with little or no food.

House Without Required Setback Puzzles Board

Just what to do with a Bolinas house which has been completed, but permission to build part of it has been denied, left the Marin County Board of Supervisors in an apparently frustrated frame of mind yesterday.

After fretting over explanations by B. D. Dobbs of the planning commission staff, and indicating a reluctance to adopt proposed punitive measures, the board set the matter over for further consideration Jan. 5 on motion of Supervisor Vera L. Schultz.

The case involves a home built by Glenn L. Morning in Bolinas Beach subdivision, where 25-foot setback is required. His house, by mistake in the course of construction, is set back only 22 feet.

Dobbs outlined the sequence of events, which included a warning during construction which was ignored. The Marin County Planning Commission tried to reach a solution by changing to a 20-foot setback rule, but protests of other residents caused this plan to be abandoned. The commission then felt impelled to deny a variance.

Unless it reversed the planning group the supervisors are up against these choices, Dobbs indicated: Require that the house be moved, or order prosecution with assumption that the court would levy a fine while allowing the house to remain.

"Continuance of the 25-foot setback rule was felt necessary to protect the values of the public," Dobbs explained.

The board indicated that such a complex problem required further meditation.

Three actions were taken by the board on behalf of the Mariner Oaks 10-acre subdivision on the Tiburon Peninsula near Red Hill with Mar West street as one boundary. It adopted a resolution to amend the master plan, received the development plan, and accepted a tentative map.

The supervisors also:

1. Were visited by Charles C. Crawford's "Problems of American Democracy" class of Tamalpais High School seniors.
2. Put off for 30 days, at the request of both agricultural and construction representatives, further consideration of a county housing code.
3. Authorized a study of the traffic problems at Vendola and Las Pasada streets in Santa Venetia.
4. Delayed for one week a decision on a proposal by the County Supervisors Assn. that the board endorse the state water bond proposal on next November's ballot.
5. Signed a new mutual aid fire protection agreement with Hamilton Air Force Base.
6. Appointed Jean A. Rogers, senior stenographer clerk, administrator's office, $376 per month, and Joseph Ross, intermediate account clerk, tax collector's office, $341.
7. Cleared the way for state-paid workers in the office of the county superintendent of schools (about 20 possibly affected) to come under federal Social Security with the county acting as their agent.
8. Referred to the parks and recreation commission and the planning commission a suggestion by Donald A. Jensen, county administrator, to give 12 minor properties to local public entities and improvement clubs.
9. Approved a rezoning of Hutchinson Co. quarry property just east of Highway 101 and adjacent to the Northwestern Pacific railroad, from agricultural to light industrial, as a point for loading quarry products.

Smoke Awakens Hub City Couple

A San Anselmo couple was aroused from sleep early today by a living room fire that caused damage estimated at $500.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth L. Edes of 155 Spring Grove avenue were awakened about 4:20 a.m. by smoke issuing from a smouldering chair and rug. San Anselmo firemen were summoned to put out the blaze, which Chief Nello M. Marcucci estimated to have caused $500 damage.

The fire might have started from a lighted cigarette, said the chief.

Novato Council Aspirants Get Briefed On Planning, Law

Last night at Novato High School, the political hopefuls were given a briefing on city planning by Lawrence H. Livingston Jr., a professional planner from Sausalito.

Yesterday noon, at the regular luncheon meeting of the Novato Kiwanis Club, Dist. Atty. William O. Weissich conducted a lesson on law.

FREEWAY PLAN

In reference to the proposed freeway which, as now suggested by the state, would cut Novato in half, Livingston said the state would have the final word in the location of such a freeway, "But your city council, through your planning commission, would carry a lot of weight in the negotiations."

The planning commission would be appointed by the city council and could be dismissed by the council for sufficient cause, Livingston pointed out.

Until the city is incorporated, he reminded, all planning will come through the county planners.

CITY ORDINANCES

Speaking to the Kiwanians, Weissich said city ordinances on gambling, drunkenness and prostitution must be adopted almost immediately by the new city council since state laws do not cover such situations.

Adoption of other ordinances covering violations under California state law would also benefit a new city, Weissich said. Fines levied under city ordinances are returned by municipal courts to the city and fines imposed under state law are not, he noted.

Unless an ordinance prohibiting gambling is adopted, the city could become the site of poker parlors which are permitted under state law, the district attorney pointed out. The county ordinance prohibiting poker parlors would not apply after the city is incorporated.

Advocating establishment of a modern, trained police department, Weissich said three trained investigators from his office are available to the city when needed, but are so busy they can be used only on major crimes.

Creation of such a department backed by proper laws will both prevent and reduce crime, he said.

Vehicle code violation fines, he said, are divided between the city and the state when the arrests are made by the California Highway Patrol. The city receives half the fines, Weissich said.

When arrests are made by the city police under the state code, 84 per cent of the fine is returned to the city. In each case, the point of violation determines whether the fine is to be split with the city regardless of where the actual arrest is made.

The county sheriff is responsible for law enforcement throughout the unincorporated areas of the county. But, said Weissich, the sheriff's office was never intended to be a police department.

Incorporation of Novato would cause no changes in the judicial system, Weissich observed. But fines imposed for violation of city ordinances would be paid to the city treasury.

PUBLIC EMPLOYEES

Bargaining Right Asked By Teachers

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Thirty-five members of the AFL-CIO Teachers Union at San Francisco State College petitioned the state Legislature yesterday to grant public employees the right of collective bargaining.

The union's only California college local endorsed the measure with only two dissenting votes. The petition maintains that all men have the inherent right to strike.

It was addressed to an Assembly interim committee stuying a proposed Assembly bill which would require authorities to sign labor contracts with bona fide representatives of public employees.

The 35 union members represent an estimated 20 to 25 per cent of the college's educators and librarians.

Dr. Glenn S. Dumke, San Francisco State president, declared Monday he was opposed to collective bargaining in public higher education.

Family Of Four Feared Drowned In Salton Sea

INDIO (UP)—A partially submerged boat in which a Thermal family of four is feared to have perished during a storm was found in the Salton Sea yesterday.

During a storm Sunday the boat was buffeted by 60 m.p.h. winds and 9-foot high waves. Aboard were Clarence McClain, his wife Helen, and their sons Mike, 13, and Pat, 7.

Technical Difficulties Postpone X15 Flight

Pilot Scott Crossfield sat at the controls of the missileplane as it was carried aloft beneath the wing of a B52 bomber. While the mother ship and the X15 were climbing, Crossfield found he could receive but not transmit to the ground with his radio equipment.

He told the B52 crew he still wanted to make the drop and later said that although his fuel tank pressure was low he was prepared for the test.

When the ships were in the drop position at approximately 45,000 feet, the flight was canceled for "technical reason" some 10 seconds before launch time at 9:55 a.m.

The jet-black plane left the Edwards runway 45 minutes earlier to gather additional information before a probe is made 100 miles into space.

State To Aid Families Of Inmates

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The growing social problem of families breaking up while the father or mother is in prison will be attacked jointly by California's state and local governments.

Gov. Edmund G. Brown yesterday announced plans to pool state and local welfare resources to provide counseling and assistance for inmates and their families with the aim of keeping them together.

There are 2,500 such families with 7,000 to 10,000 children drawing 4½ million dollars a year on aid-to-needy children benefits, the state Social Welfare Department says.

The first step toward implementing the plan will be taken Friday at a meeting of the state social welfare board, Brown said.

The governor said he believes the effort will speed rehabilitation of the inmate, help keep families together, cut social welfare costs and serve as a weapon against crime and juvenile delinquency.

Defense Talk Slated

Sgt. 1/c David L. Stanley will explain the Army's role in air defense on the West Coast at a meeting of the Sausalito Lions Club, Dec. 28 at 6:45 p.m., at the Alta Mira Hotel. The topic of his talk is "Vigil in the West." Sergeant Stanley, a free-lance writer, is stationed at the Army Air Defense Command at Fort Baker.

Novato Council Aspirants Get Briefed On Planning, Law

Education is the order of the day for Novato's city council candidates.

Last night at Novato High School, the political hopefuls were given a briefing on city planning by Lawrence H. Livingston Jr., a professional planner from Sausalito.

Yesterday noon, at the regular luncheon meeting of the Novato Kiwanis Club, Dist. Atty. William O. Weissich conducted a lesson on law.

FREEWAY PLAN

In reference to the proposed freeway which, as now suggested by the state, would cut Novato in half, Livingston said the state would have the final word in the location of such a freeway, "But your city council, through your planning commission, would carry a lot of weight in the negotiations."

The planning commission would be appointed by the city council and could be dismissed by the council for sufficient cause, Livingston pointed out.

Until the city is incorporated, he reminded, all planning will come through the county planners.

CITY ORDINANCES

Speaking to the Kiwanians, Weissich said city ordinances on gambling, drunkenness and prostitution must be adopted almost immediately by the new city council since state laws do not cover such situations.

Adoption of other ordinances covering violations under California state law would also benefit a new city, Weissich said. Fines levied under city ordinances are returned by municipal courts to the city and fines imposed under state law are not, he noted.

Unless an ordinance prohibiting gambling is adopted, the city could become the site of poker parlors which are permitted under state law, the district attorney pointed out. The county ordinance prohibiting poker parlors would not apply after the city is incorporated.

Advocating establishment of a modern, trained police department, Weissich said three trained investigators from his office are available to the city when needed, but are so busy they can be used only on major crimes.

Creation of such a department backed by proper laws will both prevent and reduce crime, he said.

Vehicle code violation fines, he said, are divided between the city and the state when the arrests are made by the California Highway Patrol. The city receives half the fines, Weissich said.

When arrests are made by the city police under the state code, 84 per cent of the fine is returned to the city. In each case, the point of violation determines whether the fine is to be split with the city regardless of where the actual arrest is made.

The county sheriff is responsible for law enforcement throughout the unincorporated areas of the county. But, said Weissich, the sheriff's office was never intended to be a police department.

Incorporation of Novato would cause no changes in the judicial system, Weissich observed. But fines imposed for violation of city ordinances would be paid to the city treasury.

PUBLIC EMPLOYEES

Bargaining Right Asked By Teachers

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Thirty-five members of the AFL-CIO Teachers Union at San Francisco State College petitioned the state Legislature yesterday to grant public employees the right of collective bargaining.

The union's only California college local endorsed the measure with only two dissenting votes. The petition maintains that all men have the inherent right to strike.

It was addressed to an Assembly interim committee stuying a proposed Assembly bill which would require authorities to sign labor contracts with bona fide representatives of public employees.

The 35 union members represent an estimated 20 to 25 per cent of the college's educators and librarians.

Dr. Glenn S. Dumke, San Francisco State president, declared Monday he was opposed to collective bargaining in public higher education.

Family Of Four Feared Drowned In Salton Sea

INDIO (AP)—A partially submerged boat in which a Thermal family of four is feared to have perished during a storm was found in the Salton Sea yesterday.

During a storm Sunday the boat was buffeted by 60 m.p.h. winds and 9-foot high waves. Aboard were Clarence McClain, his wife Helen, and their sons Mike, 13, and Pat, 7.

Technical Difficulties Postpone X15 Flight

Pilot Scott Crossfield sat at the controls of the missile-plane as it was carried aloft beneath the wing of a B52 bomber. While the mother ship and the X15 were climbing, Crossfield found he could receive but not transmit to the ground with his radio equipment.

He told the B52 crew he still wanted to make the drop and later said that although his fuel tank pressure was low he was prepared for the test.

When the ships were in the drop position at approximately 45,000 feet, the flight was canceled for "technical reason" some 10 seconds before launch time at 9:55 a.m.

The jet-black plane left the Edwards runway 45 minutes earlier to gather additional information before a probe is made 100 miles into space.

State To Aid Families Of Inmates

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The growing social problem of families breaking up while the father or mother is in prison will be attacked jointly by California's state and local governments.

Gov. Edmund G. Brown yesterday announced plans to pool state and local welfare resources to provide counseling and assistance for inmates and their families with the aim of keeping them together.

There are 2,500 such families with 7,000 to 10,000 children drawing 4½ million dollars a year on aid-to-needy children benefits, the state Social Welfare Department says.

The first step toward implementing the plan will be taken Friday at a meeting of the state social welfare board, Brown said.

The governor said he believes the effort will speed rehabilitation of the inmate, help keep families together, cut social welfare costs and serve as a weapon against crime and juvenile delinquency.

Defense Talk Slated

Sgt. 1/c David L. Stanley will explain the Army's role in air defense on the West Coast at a meeting of the Sausalito Lions Club, Dec. 28 at 6:45 p.m., at the Alta Mira Hotel. The topic of his talk is "Vigil in the West." Sergeant Stanley, a freelance writer, is stationed at the Army Air Defense Command at Fort Baker.

S.F. Flag Hopes Soar—Trades 'Too Good To Be True'

By JACK STEVENSON

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Don "Blazer" Blasingame, newest of the San Francisco Giants, brings this pennant-hungry city a much needed leadoff man and infield sparkplug.

Acquisition of the second baseman from the St. Louis Cardinals yesterday in trade for infielder Daryl Spencer and outfielder Leon Wagner was the second big trade for the Giants who faded from first to third in the final week of the last National League season.

The first deal delivered pitchers Billy O'Dell and Billy Loes from Baltimore in exchange for outfielder Jackie Brandt, relief pitcher Gordon Jones and minor league catcher Roger McCardell.

After that trade, President Horace Stoneham predicted his Giants could be the strongest team in the loop next season. This latest swap strengthens his conviction.

"We started out the trading season hopeful of strengthening ourselves at second and in pitching. We've hit both targets," he said after the Blasingame deal.

Secretary Eddie Brannick added: "It's too good to be true."

When the Giants came from New York in 1958, emphasis was on youth. The rookie crop came through for a third place finish. For 1959 they needed front line pitching and acquired Sam Jones and Jack Sanford.

The 1959 pitching staff posted the lowest earned run average in the league with 3.47, but there wasn't enough depth. The "big five" of Jones, Sanford, Johnny Antonelli, Mike McCormick and Stu Miller carried the load both starting and relieving.

O'Dell and Loes, if the latter comes through, could provide needed depth for the hurling corps.

Now comes Blasingame and Manager Bill Rigney says, "He gives us something we haven't had since Eddie Stanky, a leadoff man. He is steady defensively with great speed. Now we have someone to get on base ahead of Willie Mays, Willie McCovey and Orlando Cepeda," his heavy hitters.

Blasingame doesn't have Spencer's power at the plate, but he could be the infield leader the Giants have missed since the days of Alvin Dark and Red Schoendienst.

Also Blasingame bats lefthanded, which figures to be an advantage in the new Candlestick Park where winds appear to favor the port-side swingers

He batted .289 while Spencer, a righthander, had .269.

"We gave up a fine player in Spencer, but we couldn't use him in the ways we can use Blasingame," says Rigney.

St. Louis plans to move Daryl back to his natural shortstop position and put the powerhitting Wagner, a lefthanded swinger, into right field. With the Giants, the outfielder saw duty primarily as a pinch-hitter. His fielding left much to be desired. Spencer played last season at second base, switching over from shortstop.

Rigney's chief concern now is adding some bench strength. Last year to get Sam Jones the Giants gave up Bill White and Ray Jablonski and this year the trades have taken Brandt and Wagner to put a further crimp in the bench.

"We will need to beef up the pinch hitting," Rigney declares, indicating the dealing isn't yet over.

Still it appears definite the opening day lineup will have McCovey at first, Blasingame at second, Ed Bressoud at short and Jimmy Davenport at third. Mays holds down center field as usual, with Cepeda in left and either Felipe Alou or Willie Kirkland in right.

Cincinnati Trades Temple To Indians

NEW YORK (AP) — Baseball's first inter-league trading period ended at midnight, and—as usual—it was Cleveland's Frank "Trader" Lane who got in the last word.

Just as the tower clock was striking 12 in Cincinnati, Lane and the Cincinnati Redlegs completed a major inter-league deal that sent ace second baseman Johnny Temple to Lane's Indians in exchange for pitcher Cal McLish, fiery infielder Billy Martin, and a promising young first baseman, Gordon Coleman.

Lane's deal, made after experts were saying the pennant-winning Chicago White Sox had strengthened themselves most among American League contenders, topped an old-fashioned intra-league deal that appeared to have climaxed the unprecedented three-week inter-league period.

Earlier in the day, Don "Blazer" Blasingame went West from the St. Louis Cardinals to San Francisco—giving the Giants a stronger infield, increased speed and a sound leadoff batter. To get him, the Giants gave the Cardinals infielder Daryl Spencer, who'll play for St. Louis as a shortstop, and outfielder Leon Wagner.

This one and an earlier inter-league transaction probably made the Giants the winter book favorites for the National League pennant.

Neither Los Angeles nor Milwaukee, who played off for the '59 title, figured in the 15 trades (9 of them inter-league), made since Nov. 21, the day the waiver provisions were lifted on trading across league lines.

But while the world champion Dodgers temporarily stood pat, the American League champion White Sox were active.

The White Sox added power at third base and in the outfield, getting Gene Freese, the homer-hitting infielder, from the Philadelphia Phillies, and Minnie Minoso, an RBI man with speed, from the Cleveland Indians.

To get Minoso, the White Sox had to aid the second-place Indians by relinquishing Bubba Phillips, a fine defensive third baseman who can do the job in the outfield, too.

The Blasingame deal was a blow to the Braves who have had a second base problem all but two seasons since they moved from Boston in 1953.

Red Schoendienst came from the Giants to Milwaukee in early summer 1957 and spurred the Braves to two straight pennants, but he was missed last year when sidelined with tuberculosis. He may be completely recovered this year, but he also will be 37 years old.

The Braves were bidding for Gil McDougald of the Yankees, Frank Bolling of the Detroit Tigers and Billy Martin of the Indians to fill the slot at second. They will be almost impossible to get now with waivers back on. Milwaukee also wanted Blasingame.

NO SURPRISE;
J. D. NAMED
49ERS' MVP

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—To no one's surprise, the San Francisco 49ers have named halfback J. D. Smith the team's most valuable player during the 1959 season.

The 209-pound back, who was once nearly cut after an unimpressive stint as a defensive back, found himself this season as he rushed for 1,036 yards and 11 touchdowns.

Meanwhile, team officials announced that the 49ers played before 838,000 fans in 12 league and six exhibition games in 1959. Home attendance for the six league games was set at 330,506—slightly less than the 1958 total of 339,462.

Middles On TV Tonight

CAMDEN, N. J. (AP)—Powerful Rudy Ellis hopes to continue his rapid rise into the ranks of middleweight contenders against Ace Armstrong tonight in a nationally-televised 10-round fight from Convention Hall.

The bout will be televised by ABC beginning at 7 p.m. PST.

Ellis, 22, of Chicago, belted his way into the limelight last August when he scored a fifth-round knockout over veteran Bobby Boyd. He followed with an impressive 10-round decision over Rory Calhoun for his eighth straight victory. The 10th-ranked slugger is 17-2-1.

The 27-year-old Armstrong, of Elizabeth, N. J., has scored only one knockout in 18 fights, but he was undefeated until last September when he was upset by Dick Tiger. The speedy eighth-ranked picture boxer hopes to beat Ellis to the punch. Armstrong's overall record is 16-1-1.

S.R., Marin Score Cage Victories

Marin County Athletic League basketball teams won two games and lost three yesterday in practice competition with Bay Area schools.

Scoring victories were San Rafael, 39-33 over Lowell of San Francisco, and Marin Catholic, 38-27 over Emeryville High. Losers from Marin were Redwood, 32-37 to San Mateo, Drake 34-53 to Lincoln of San Francisco, and Novato, 33-61 to Petaluma.

Terry Tevis enjoyed his finest varsity performance for San Rafael as he bucketed 20 points to spark the Bulldogs, runner-up to Redwood in last weekend's NCAL Tournament. San Rafael broke loose from a 28-28 tie starting the fourth quarter with a fine 11-point burst. Other Bulldog scorers were Randy Petrini and Bill Smartt each with six and Doug Klyce with five.

With Art Quinn tanking 10 points, Marin Catholic Wildcats led all the way in their victory at the Greenbrae gymnasium. Ron Blum and John Mullen each scored seven for the victors who had a 20-15 halftime advantage.

Redwood played at San Mateo without the services of Jeff Skinner, ankle injury, and Ernie Bray, ill, but still gave the classy hosts a run for their money. The Giants outscored San Mateo in the second half, but couldn't make up the six-point deficit they had at halftime. Rick Riede tanked 12 points and Rich Brear added 12 for the Giants.

Drake's inexperienced Pirates ran into a one-man gang from Lincoln named Bob Morcurio who paced the Mustangs with 29 points. The visitors led all the way in their easy win.

Novato enjoyed its highest score of the season to highlight its loss to Petaluma at Novato's gym. Kemper Eakle tallied 12 points and Ray Dougherty added nine for the Hornets. Ron Grayson turned in a sparkling game by snaring 18 rebounds.

Class B scores yesterday: Lowell 38, San Rafael 20; Emeryville 37, Marin Catholic 33; San Mateo 33, Redwood 11; Lincoln 23, Drake 9; Petaluma 48, Novato 22.

Clark Says Cal Conflict Not Reason

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Don Clark, who gave glory-hungry University of Southern California a glimpse of the football fame it once took for granted, resigned last night.

The university immediately hired a talented but relatively obscure assistant, John McKay, to succeed Clark.

The unexpected announcement triggered speculation—denied by Clark—that there was lingering bitterness within the school over the Mike McKeever incident.

University of California had accused McKeever, a star Trojan guard, of deliberately using his elbows to smash the face of Cal halfback Steve Bates.

Bates was skidding along on his back, out of bounds, when McKeever pounced on him. Clark defended McKeever, but Dr. Norman Topping, university president, apologized. Clark kept silent. Was he bitter?

"Everybody suspects something like that and there's nothing there," Clark said. "I have a wife and seven kids and I like to see them occasionally."

He'll leave S.C. March 1 to take an executive position with a clothing supply firm run by his brother John.

Mariners Upset Top Contra Costa Quint

By JOHN LARKIN

College of Marin Tars last night roared to their fifth victory in six games as they upset highly-touted Contra Costa College, 63-59 at San Pablo.

The Mariners blazed away from a 16-16 tie midway through the first half to a 34-27 halftime lead. They increased this margin to 12 points in the third period and then managed to hold off the fast-finishing hosts.

It was a satisfying victory for Coach Cal Riemcke's Mariners as Contra Costa earlier had trounced Vallejo, only team to beat Marin.

Kenny Anderson once again paved the way for Marin with 20 points and Ray Nickleberry, turning in his finest performance, added 19 to the Tar cause. Ken Gelatti had 8, Robbe Harvey 7, Joe Chaparro 6 and Gerry Reese 3 to round out the Marin scoring.

The Tars threaded the nets with 21 of 48 field goal attempts for 44 per cent and added 21 free throws.

The Mariners travel to Napa Friday and Saturday to defend their Golden Valley Conference Tournament championship.

Age Creeping Up On 49ers; Some Old Faces May Be Missing In '60

The body was buried only last Sunday, and here we are up to our ghoulish tricks again.

Yup. The time has come to dig up the defunct San Francisco Forty Niners of 1959 and see what we can do to help Coach "Red" Hickey rebuild for 1960. We know Red can hardly wait, so we are rushing this to press immediately.

CONNOLLY

It is no secret as to what ailed the 49ers this year. Depth. Offensive strength. Passer protection. Muscles. And one other item we always hate to bring up for obvious reasons — old age.

Lack of depth really killed what chances the Forty Niners had of copping the Western title in the National Football League this past season. When you have to go with your cripples because they are better than the substitutes, you're in a bad way. At the start of the year the 49er offense was crisp and sharp and holes were opened for all the backs to tear through.

For the first half of the season quarterback Y. A. Tittle used the forward pass strategically, relying on Joe Perry, J. D. Smith and Hugh McElhenny for the bread and butter yardage. Suddenly the holes were no longer there, and the backs could no longer swing wide and make the cut, so the running game was made secondary to the passing attack.

And then Clyde Conner and Billy Wilson, the great pass snagging ends, could no longer move out and the offense was at an end. All the 49er opponents had to do was outrush the cripples in the line and mix with the 49er backfield in a most unfriendly fashion.

AND WHEN Y. A. and John Brodie COULD get a pass away it was usually hurried and thrown into a stacked defense with one man to guard the receiver and the other to intercept.

THE BALTIMORE COLTS could afford injury to their great fullback Alan Ameche when they could come up with another great like Billy Pricer. The same was true throughout the club and it gave them the stamp of the champion. The San Francisco offense is just not good enough to give up the extra step or the first surge of blocking.

An offensive line must be able to cut a hole where it is needed, break through and block behind the line or downfield, pull out and lead an offtackle slant or end run, or be rocks of granite when called upon to prevent the defense from reaching the passer while patterns are being run downfield. The 49ers just didn't have it after the first few games.

WHICH BRINGS US to Geriatrics. And old age problems by ANY name are not too happy. The average pro footballer is about five years old in experience. Any man who reaches the ripe old age of twenty-seven is really a pappy type, like I mean he is nearly off the scene, man!

Tittle and Perry have each finished 12 years of proball. Leo Nomellini has 10, McElhenny eight, Wilson nine, Henke seven. ALL are over THIRTY years of age—young men in their prime, except for football where they are over the hill.

BIG BOB ST. CLAIR at 28 and with seven years behind him as a 49er had his poorest year. Ted Connolly, 27 and 5, started with his best year going and then ran out of gas. Every player mentioned so far was a first stringer, which meant that the younger men behind them were of lesser quality.

The 49ers carried nine rookies into their final game, and you can look for six or seven new faces next year. I have a hunch Red Hickey is already building a future power-house.

National Grid Title Trophy To Be Presented Tonight

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (UPI) — The United Press International trophy, emblematic of the national collegiate football championship, will be presented to Syracuse University tonight.

Known as the "UPI Cup," the trophy is awarded annually to the football team which is chosen the nation's best by the 35 leading coaches who comprise the United Press International rating board, whose ratings become generally accepted as the most authoritative in college football.

Syracuse's Cotton Bowl-bound Orangemen finished the season as the nation's only major undefeated and untied team, winning 10 straight games, and being rated the No. 1 team by an overwhelming margin.

The presentation ceremony will be one of the highlights of the annual banquet tendered the team and its coaches by the Varsity and Touchdown Clubs of Syracuse University. More than 800 persons, including coach Ben Schwartzwalder and the members of the team, will be in attendance.

The permanent trophy, standing nearly four feet high and featuring golden figures of football players, will be presented to Schwartzwalder by Leo H. Petersen, UPI sports editor.

Petersen also will present guard Roger Davis with the UPI's 1959 Lineman of the Year Award and a certificate in recognition of his being voted to the UPI's 1959 All-America team.

Certificates also will be presented to backs Ernie Davis and Gerhard Schwedes, who were named to the UPI second and third All-America teams, respectively.

In addition to the presentation ceremony, the banquet will serve as a send-off for the team, which will leave Friday for Houston, its Cotton Bowl training headquarters.

By JACK STEVENSON

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Don "Blazer" Blasingame, newest of the San Francisco Giants, brings this pennant-hungry city a much needed leadoff man and infield sparkplug.

Acquisition of the second baseman from the St. Louis Cardinals yesterday in trade for infielder Daryl Spencer and outfielder Leon Wagner was the second big trade for the Giants who faded from first to third in the final week of the last National League season.

The first deal delivered pitchers Billy O'Dell and Billy Loes from Baltimore in exchange for outfielder Jackie Brandt, relief pitcher Gordon Jones and minor league catcher Roger McCardell.

After that trade, President Horace Stoneham predicted his Giants could be the strongest team in the loop next season. This latest swap strengthens his conviction.

"We started out the trading season hopeful of strengthening ourselves at second and in pitching. We've hit both targets," he said after the Blasingame deal.

Secretary Eddie Brannick added: "It's too good to be true."

When the Giants came from New York in 1958, emphasis was on youth. The rookie crop came through for a third place finish. For 1959 they needed front line pitching and acquired Sam Jones and Jack Sanford.

The 1959 pitching staff posted the lowest earned run average in the league with 3.47, but there wasn't enough depth. The "big five" of Jones, Sanford, Johnny Antonelli, Mike McCormick and Stu Miller carried the load both starting and relieving.

O'Dell and Loes, if the latter comes through, could provide needed depth for the hurling corps.

Now comes Blasingame and Manager Bill Rigney says, "He gives us something we haven't had since Eddie Stanky, a leadoff man. He is steady defensively with great speed. Now we have someone to get on base ahead of Willie Mays, Willie McCovey and Orlando Cepeda," his heavy hitters.

Blasingame doesn't have Spencer's power at the plate, but he could be the infield leader the Giants have missed since the days of Alvin Dark and Red Schoendienst.

Also Blasingame bats lefthanded, which figures to be an advantage in the new Candlestick Park where winds appear to favor the port-side swingers

He batted .289 while Spencer, a righthander, had .269.

"We gave up a fine player in Spencer, but we couldn't use him in the ways we can use Blasingame," says Rigney.

St. Louis plans to move Daryl back to his natural shortstop position and put the powerhitting Wagner, a lefthanded swinger, into right field. With the Giants, the outfielder saw duty primarily as a pinch-hitter. His fielding left much to be desired. Spencer played last season at second base, switching over from shortstop.

Rigney's chief concern now is adding some bench strength. Last year to get Sam Jones the Giants gave up Bill White and Ray Jablonski and this year the trades have taken Brandt and Wagner to put a further crimp in the bench.

"We will need to beef up the pinch hitting," Rigney declares, indicating the dealing isn't yet over.

Stll it appears definite the opening day lineup will have McCovey at first, Blasingame at second, Ed Bressoud at short and Jimmy Davenport at third. Mays holds down center field as usual, with Cepeda in left and either Felipe Alou or Willie Kirkland in right.

Cincinnati Trades Temple To Indians

NEW YORK (AP) — Baseball's first inter-league trading period ended at midnight, and—as usual—it was Cleveland's Frank "Trader" Lane who got in the last word.

Just as the tower clock was striking 12 in Cincinnati, Lane and the Cincinnati Redlegs completed a major inter-league deal that sent ace second baseman Johnny Temple to Lane's Indians in exchange for pitcher Cal McLish, fiery infielder Billy Martin, and a promising young first baseman, Gordon Coleman.

Lane's deal, made after experts were saying the pennant-winning Chicago White Sox had strengthened themselves most among American League contenders, topped an old-fashioned intra-league deal that appeared to have climaxed the unprecedented three-week inter-league period.

Earlier in the day, Don "Blazer" Blasingame went West from the St. Louis Cardinals to San Francisco—giving the Giants a stronger infield, increased speed and a sound leadoff batter. To get him, the Giants gave the Cardinals infielder Daryl Spencer, who'll play for St. Louis as a shortstop, and outfielder Leon Wagner.

This one and an earlier inter-league transaction probably made the Giants the winter book favorites for the National League pennant.

Neither Los Angeles nor Milwaukee, who played off for the '59 title, figured in the 15 trades (9 of them inter-league), made since Nov. 21, the day the waiver provisions were lifted on trading across league lines.

But while the world champion Dodgers temporarily stood pat, the American League champion White Sox were active.

The White Sox added power at third base and in the outfield, getting Gene Freese, the homer-hitting infielder, from the Philadelphia Phillies, and Minnie Minoso, an RBI man with speed, from the Cleveland Indians.

To get Minoso, the White Sox had to aid the second-place Indians by relinquishing Bubba Phillips, a fine defensive third baseman who can do the job in the outfield, too.

The Blasingame deal was a blow to the Braves who have had a second base problem all but two seasons since they moved from Boston in 1953.

Red Schoendienst came from the Giants to Milwaukee in early summer 1957 and spurred the Braves to two straight pennants, but he was missed last year when sidelined with tuberculosis. He may be completely recovered this year, but he also will be 37 years old.

The Braves were bidding for Gil McDougald of the Yankees, Frank Bolling of the Detroit Tigers and Billy Martin of the Indians to fill the slot at second. They will be almost impossible to get now with waivers back on. Milwaukee also wanted Blasingame.

NO SURPRISE; J. D. NAMED 49ERS' MVP

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—To no one's surprise, the San Francisco 49ers have named halfback J. D. Smith the team's most valuable player during the 1959 season.

The 209-pound back, who was once nearly cut after an unimpressive stint as a defensive back, found himself this season as he rushed for 1,036 yards and 11 touchdowns.

Meanwhile, team officials announced that the 49ers played before 838,000 fans in 12 league and six exhibition games in 1959. Home attendance for the six league games was set at 330,506—slightly less than the 1958 total of 339,462.

Middles On TV Tonight

CAMDEN, N. J. (AP)—Powerful Rudy Ellis hopes to continue his rapid rise into the ranks of middleweight contenders against Ace Armstrong tonight in a nationally-televised 10-round fight from Convention Hall.

The bout will be televised by ABC beginning at 7 p.m. PST.

Ellis, 22, of Chicago, belted his way into the limelight last August when he scored a fifth-round knockout over veteran Bobby Boyd. He followed with an impressive 10-round decision over Rory Calhoun for his eighth straight victory. The 10th-ranked slugger is 17-2-1.

The 27-year-old Armstrong, of Elizabeth, N. J., has scored only one knockout in 18 fights, but he was undefeated until last September when he was upset by Dick Tiger. The speedy eighth-ranked picture boxer hopes to beat Ellis to the punch. Armstrong's overall record is 16-1-1.

S.R., Marin Score Cage Victories

Marin County Athletic League basketball teams won two games and lost three yesterday in practice competition with Bay Area schools.

Scoring victories were San Rafael, 39-33 over Lowell of San Francisco, and Marin Catholic, 38-27 over Emeryville High. Losers from Marin were Redwood, 32-37 to San Mateo, Drake 34-53 to Lincoln of San Francisco, and Novato, 33-61 to Petaluma.

Terry Tevis enjoyed his finest varsity performance for San Rafael as he bucketed 20 points to spark the Bulldogs, runner-up to Redwood in last weekend's NCAL Tournament. San Rafael broke loose from a 28-28 tie starting the fourth quarter with a fine 11-point burst. Other Bulldog scorers were Randy Petrini and Bill Smartt each with six and Doug Klyce with five.

With Art Quinn tanking 10 points, Marin Catholic Wildcats led all the way in their victory at the Greenbrae gymnasium. Ron Blum and John Mullen each scored seven for the victors who had a 20-15 halftime advantage.

Redwood played at San Mateo without the services of Jeff Skinner, ankle injury, and Ernie Bray, ill, but still gave the classy hosts a run for their money. The Giants outscored San Mateo in the second half, but couldn't make up the six-point deficit they had at halftime. Rick Riede tanked 12 points and Rich Brear added 12 for the Giants.

Drake's inexperienced Pirates ran into a one-man gang from Lincoln named Bob Morcurio who paced the Mustangs with 29 points. The visitors led all the way in their easy win.

Novato enjoyed its highest score of the season to highlight its loss to Petaluma at Novato's gym. Kemper Eakle tallied 12 points and Ray Dougherty added nine for the Hornets. Ron Grayson turned in a sparkling game by snaring 18 rebounds.

Class B scores yesterday: Lowell 38, San Rafael 20; Emeryville 37, Marin Catholic 33; San Mateo 33, Redwood 11; Lincoln 23, Drake 9; Petaluma 48, Novato 22.

Clark Says Cal Conflict Not Reason

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Don Clark, who gave glory-hungry University of Southern California a glimpse of the football fame it once took for granted, resigned last night.

The university immediately hired a talented but relatively obscure assistant, John McKay, to succeed Clark.

The unexpected announcement triggered speculation—denied by Clark—that there was lingering bitterness within the school over the Mike McKeever incident.

University of California had accused McKeever, a star Trojan guard, of deliberately using his elbows to smash the face of Cal halfback Steve Bates.

Bates was skidding along on his back, out of bounds, when McKeever pounced on him. Clark defended McKeever, but Dr. Norman Topping, university president, apologized. Clark kept silent. Was he bitter?

"Everybody suspects something like that and there's nothing there," Clark said. "I have a wife and seven kids and I like to see them occasionally."

He'll leave S.C. March 1 to take an executive position with a clothing supply firm run by his brother John.

Mariners Upset Top Contra Costa Quint

By JOHN LARKIN

College of Marin Tars last night roared to their fifth victory in six games as they upset highly-touted Contra Costa College, 63-59 at San Pablo.

The Mariners blazed away from a 16-16 tie midway through the first half to a 34-27 halftime lead. They increased this margin to 12 points in the third period and then managed to hold off the fast-finishing hosts.

It was a satisfying victory for Coach Cal Riemcke's Mariners as Contra Costa earlier had trounced Vallejo, only team to beat Marin.

Kenny Anderson once again paved the way for Marin with 20 points and Ray Nickleberry, turning in his finest performance, added 19 to the Tar cause. Ken Gelatti had 8, Robbe Harvey 7, Joe Chaparro 6 and Gerry Reese 3 to round out the Marin scoring.

The Tars threaded the nets with 21 of 48 field goal attempts for 44 per cent and added 21 free throws.

The Mariners travel to Napa Friday and Saturday to defend their Golden Valley Conference Tournament championship.

Age Creeping Up On 49ers; Some Old Faces May Be Missing In '60

CONNOLLY

The body was buried only last Sunday, and here we are up to our ghoulish tricks again.

Yup. The time has come to dig up the defunct San Francisco Forty Niners of 1959 and see what we can do to help Coach "Red" Hickey rebuild for 1960. We know Red can hardly wait, so we are rushing this to press immediately.

It is no secret as to what ailed the 49ers this year. Depth. Offensive strength. Passer protection. Muscles. And one other item we always hate to bring up for obvious reasons — old age.

Lack of depth really killed what chances the Forty Niners had of copping the Western title in the National Football League this past season. When you have to go with your cripples because they are better than the substitutes, you're in a bad way. At the start of the year the 49er offense was crisp and sharp and holes were opened for all the backs to tear through.

For the first half of the season quarterback Y. A. Tittle used the forward pass strategically, relying on Joe Perry, J. D. Smith and Hugh McElhenny for the bread and butter yardage. Suddenly the holes were no longer there, and the backs could no longer swing wide and make the cut, so the running game was made secondary to the passing attack.

And then Clyde Conner and Billy Wilson, the great pass snagging ends, could no longer move out and the offense was at an end. All the 49er opponents had to do was outrush the cripples in the line and mix with the 49er backfield in a most unfriendly fashion.

AND WHEN Y. A. and John Brodie COULD get a pass away it was usually hurried and thrown into a stacked defense with one man to guard the receiver and the other to intercept.

THE BALTIMORE COLTS could afford injury to their great fullback Alan Ameche when they could come up with another great like Billy Pricer. The same was true throughout the club and it gave them the stamp of the champion. The San Francisco offense is just not good enough to give up the extra step or the first surge of blocking.

An offensive line must be able to cut a hole where it is needed, break through and block behind the line or downfield, pull out and lead an offtackle slant or end run, or be rocks of granite when called upon to prevent the defense from reaching the passer while patterns are being run downfield. The 49ers just didn't have it after the first few games.

WHICH BRINGS US to Geriatrics. And old age problems by ANY name are not too happy. The average pro footballer is about five years old in experience. Any man who reaches the ripe old age of twenty-seven is really a pappy type, like I mean he is nearly off the scene, man!

Tittle and Perry have each finished 12 years of proball. Leo Nomellini has 10, McElhenny eight, Wilson nine, Henke seven. ALL are over THIRTY years of age—young men in their prime, except for football where they are over the hill.

BIG BOB ST. CLAIR at 28 and with seven years behind him as a 49er had his poorest year. Ted Connolly, 27 and 5, started with his best year going and then ran out of gas. Every player mentioned so far was a first stringer, which meant that the younger men behind them were of lesser quality.

The 49ers carried nine rookies into their final game, and you can look for six or seven new faces next year. I have a hunch Red Hickey is already building a future power-house.

National Grid Title Trophy To Be Presented Tonight

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (UPI) — The United Press International trophy, emblematic of the national collegiate football championship, will be presented to Syracuse University tonight.

Known as the "UPI Cup," the trophy is awarded annually to the football team which is chosen the nation's best by the 35 leading coaches who comprise the United Press International rating board, whose ratings become generally accepted as the most authoritative in college football.

Syracuse's Cotton Bowl-bound Orangemen finished the season as the nation's only major undefeated and untied team, winning 10 straight games, and being rated the No. 1 team by an overwhelming margin.

The presentation ceremony will be one of the highlights of the annual banquet tendered the team and its coaches by the Varsity and Touchdown Clubs of Syracuse University. More than 800 persons, including coach Ben Schwartzwalder and the members of the team, will be in attendance.

The permanent trophy, standing nearly four feet high and featuring golden figures of football players, will be presented to Schwartzwalder by Leo H. Petersen, UPI sports editor.

Petersen also will present guard Roger Davis with the UPI's 1959 Lineman of the Year Award and a certificate in recognition of his being voted to the UPI's 1959 All-America team.

Certificates also will be presented to backs Ernie Davis and Gerhard Schwedes, who were named to the UPI second and third All-America teams, respectively.

In addition to the presentation ceremony, the banquet will serve as a send-off for the team, which will leave Friday for Houston, its Cotton Bowl training headquarters.

SRMA Honors Its Footballers At Annual Banquet

Lytle was named the team's most valuable player; Norris the outstanding back; Heinz the outstanding lineman and Rolleri winner of the club's "Loyalty Award."

The following players were presented block letters: Lance Anderson, James Kruger, Rolleri, Jim Easton, Ken Goldstone, Heinz, Doug Himbert, Steve Morse, Norris, Howie Bergmark, Frank Blakemore, George Booth, Bill Freeman, Lawrence Garrett, Whit Gilman, Terry Hofmann, Peter Jackson, Fred Lakosky, Glenn Lee, Lytle, Bob Merriam, John Rolleri, Doug Silva, Fred Sperry and Fred Zatkoff.

Presiding over the banquet was Dr. E. M. Hinton, SRMA head master. Head Coach Bob Troppman of the undefeated Redwood High School team was main speaker. Others introduced included SRMA coaches Phil Roark, Larry Fulton and Ed Schulze; former coach Colin Hill; KTIM Sports Commentator Ted Mitchell and SRMA Director of Athletics Hank Mobley.

Special Pans Are Not Required To Make A Checkerboard Cake

Special pans are not required to make this spectacular cake. Your family and guests will applaud your efforts with this cake that combines two of cake mixes. The dark is made with chocolate mint, and the light portion uses the yellow. And if this cake isn't consumed at the first sitting, you will appreciate the moistness and fine home-made flavor that lingers for several days after baking.

Now to make this Checkerboard Cake . . . bake according to the package directions in 9-in. layer pans, both the chocolate and yellow mixes. When all four layers are turned onto cake racks, allow them to cool overnight

To make the checkerboard: With a coffee can, mark ring centering an each layer, mark a center ring with a 3-inch biscuit cutter and cut both layers, on markings, with a sharp knife. Bottom layer: On a foil covered cardboard, place the Yellow outside "ring,' fill with Chocolate Mint 'ring,' and with a Yellow circle. Cover with butter cream (¾ cup) and top (for second layer) with a Chocolate Mint outer 'ring,' Yellow 'ring' and the Chocolate Mint circle. Refrigerate until filling is firm (about three hours). Frost sides and top of cake with butter cream.

The two remaining layers may be filled and frosted for freezing, to use at a later date. Best results will be obtained if cake is frosted, frozen, and then boxed, wrapped and marked for freezer storage.

Gumdrop Cake Is Specialty Of Active Center Member

One of the most active members of the Marin Art and Garden Center is Mrs. Fred H. Sloat of Ross. She works with three of the Center's affiliated organizations, the Decorations Guild, the Garden Society of Marin, and the Northgate Group. Currently she is taking the place of Mrs. Hammond E. Wright, Center coordinator now on a winter cruise.

Another of Mrs. Sloat's interests is cooking, especially at this time of year. When she isn't at the Center, she is busy at home making some of her holiday specialties, such as Gumdrop Cake and Cookies.

GUMDROP CAKE

1 lb. white raisins
1 to 2 lbs. gumdrops (no black(cut up
1 cup pecans, fried in butter. (Walnuts may be used)
4 cups flour
1 tsp. cinnamon
½ tsp. cloves
½ tsp. nutmeg
½ tsp. salt
1½ cups applesauce, unsweetened (sieved)
1 cup butter or margarine
2 cups sugar
2 eggs
1 tsp. vanilla
1 tsp. soda (dissolved in 1 tbsp. hot water).

Sift dry ingredients; use part to dredge fruit. Cream butter and sugar, add eggs. Alternate with flour mix and applesauce. Stir in soda and vanilla, then ground nuts with fruit. Bake in 300 degree oven two hours for large loaf, 1 hour for smaller loaves.

GUMDROP COOKIES

1 cup shortening
1 cup white sugar
1 cup brown sugar
2 cups flour
1 tsp. soda
1 tsp. baking powder
½ tsp. salt
2 eggs (beaten)
1 cup coconut
1 cup gumdrops, chopped fine
2 cups oatmeal.

Cream shortening and sugars. Sift flour, soda, baking powder and salt, Combine with eggs, coconut, gumdrops and oatmeal. Bake in moderate oven 10 to 15 minutes.

PEAR MARMALADE

4½ cups sugar
3 cups finely diced ripe pears
1 9 oz. can crushed pineapple
1 orange, ground
½ cup Maraschino cherries
1 pkg. powdered pectin (2½ oz.)

Measure sugar in bowl. Mix pears and pineapple in a large kettle, heat to boiling, cover, and simmer five minutes. Then stir in orange, cherries and pectin. Mix well. Bring quickly to a hard boil, stirring constantly. Add sugar, bring to a full boil again, and boil one minute. Makes 2 pints.

CANDIED MINT LEAVES

Combine:

6 drops oil of peppermint and ½ cup granulated sugar.

Dip the leaves in the sugar on both sides. Place them to dry on waxed paper; or they may be dried in a very slow oven.

Bone Up On Carving For The Turkey Feast

NEW YORK (UPI)—Sir, you can be a cool cup-up when family gathers 'round for a turkey feast—if you bone up on carving.

Birds easiest to carve are rather luke warm instead of red hot. Tell your wife to let the turkey sit for 15 to 20 minutes—post oven. If carving's started sooner, juices will be lost. Besides, extremely juicy meat is harder to carve. It tends to fall apart.

The cooling off period gives the juices a chance to saturate and firm the meat.

Tell your wife it's impossible to carve gracefully a wobbly bird. Urge her to place the turkey on something that holds it firmly if she wants to give you a reasonable chance to succeed.

A spiked meat board holds the bird best. If a platter is used, suggest wedges of apple or carrot where necessary to stabilize the turkey.

Help yourself, too, by asking that the platter be decorated sparingly. Too much garnish can mean splatters, spills and slips.

Make sure long stemmed goblets and table decorations are well out of range of your elbows. That's accident prevention.

As for tools, it's almost a matter of to each his own most easily handled sharp stainless steel carving knife and fork. Help, too, are heavy duty kitchen shears or poultry shears.

Then the great task is about to begin? Suit yourself. Take the position that's the most comfortable. Very tall persons usually find it easier on the back to carve when the bird is raised on a higher table or buffet.

As you start carving, have an extra platter nearby to hold extra pieces of meat.

Now, once the scene is properly set, here's what to do:

Cut around the joint that connects leg and thigh to backbone. Disconnect the drumstick part. Put this leg and thigh on another plate and cut slices from it there. Dark meat can be cut in small chunks or in thin slices.

Cut through wing joint next. Remove wing and cut it in two pieces.

Cut long thin slices of the breast meat.

Then, go to the other side of the bird and repeat the steps in the order given.

Henry L. Shrader, an agriculture department poultry expert, offers these additional tips:

Carve the meat off parallel to the bone. Slice breast meat crosswise with a slightly sawing motion, carving only as you serve.

Shrader says the wing is the most perplexing part of a turkey.

"Leave it lay," he said, "if no one expresses interest in it."

Holiday Topping For Gingerbread

NEW YORK (UPI) — Fluffy Yule sauce makes a tasty topping for warm gingerbread. Chill ½ cup of undiluted evaporated milk in refrigerator tray about 10 minutes, or until soft ice crystals form about edges of tray.

Beat 1 egg until thick, gradually beat in ½ cup of sifted powdered sugar. Add 1 teaspoon of nutmeg and ½ teaspoon of vanilla.

Whip chilled evaporated milk in chilled bowl about 1 minute, or until stiff. Add 1 teaspoon of lemon juice and whip 1 to 2 minutes more, or until very stiff. Gently fold beaten egg and ⅓ cup of ground walnuts into whipped milk. This sauce may be made and refrigerated 1 hour in advance. Makes about 3 cups.

Initiation ceremonies for junior members of Twin Cities Unit 313, American Legon Auxiliary, were held recently at the home of senior counselor Mrs. Francis Fugate of Corte Madera.

Upon arrival each junior was presented with a corsage of veteran-made red memorial poppies which had been sprayed with artificial snow flakes.

For their workshop project Juniors completed bedside favors for all patients at the Larkspur Convalescent Hospital as well as those confined at the Marin Convalescent and Rehabilitation Hospital in Tiburon. Winter scenes of tiny glittered pine cones and snow-capped pine needles were set on small squares of white styrofoam.

A present for "Mom" was also completed by all 11 juniors. Large pine cones found in the high Sierra at Emigrant Gap by Mrs. Fugate took on a decorative air as junior hands applied gold and silver glitter and artificial spray.

Senior members of the Auxiliary assisting Mrs. Fugate in the day's program included Mesdames Bryant and Elwood Cheatwood of San Rafael. Next meeting of juniors has been designated as a "fun day."

Physiologist Says Cocktail Party Enemy Of Good, Wise Dining

The cocktail party is an enemy of good and wise dining, a leading physiologist, Dr. Ancel Keys of St. Paul, Minn., has written in his best-seller "Eat Well and Stay Well."

Dr. Keys recommends white wine and soda as a good way to cut down on alcohol intake at such gatherings.

Known internationally for his research on diet and health, the psysiologist is director of the University of Minnesota Laboratory of Physiological Hygiene. He wrote the new book with his wife, Margaret, a biochemist. Dr. Paul Dudley White, with whom Dr. Keys has worked closely, wrote the foreword.

"Alcoholic beverages, especially wine, require discussion because, if you value them in your scheme of things, you will wonder about their relationship to health and to the rest of your diet," the writer says in an article based on the best seller.

"We are not talking about alcoholism; the drunkard is an affront to himself and mankind and his health prospects are bleak. But wines, and even stronger bevarages, have a place in civilized living and eating. The problem is to keep it civilized.

"Alcohol is heavy with calories. Moreover, a drink before dinner generally stimulates the appetite. What a cocktail party does may be something else.

"The cocktail party is loudly condemned but it is an easy way to entertain and even those who label it as a social menace are seldom behindhand in accepting invitations.

"But the cocktail party is an enemy of good and wise dining. Food flavors are dulled and there is usually a tendency to select fatty foods . . . maybe this is an instinctive urge for self-protection. Experienced cocktail party habitues learn that their staying power is improved by eating fatty foods which slow the absorption of alcohol, but we doubt that this is the best way of preserving both sobriety and health.

"At the cocktail party take highballs with much soda instead of short drinks. Or, even better, take white wine and soda as a good way of controlling the alcohol intake.

"Munch plain crackers with fish or a small bit of highly flavored cheese instead of gorging on sausages and cheese dips. And resist the temptation to accompany a hilarious group afterwards to a dinenr of steak and French fries."

Dr. Keys notes that "cocktails before wine is a dangerous custom" and advises that if you are having a good wine for dinner the best apertif is Vermouth with a twist of lemon peel or a glass of dry Sherry.

Wines should be stored on the side in a cool place and stood upright half an hour or so before pouring, the author recommends, adding it should not be shaken around when poured.

"Dring it (do not sip) in gulps large enough to 'chew' and allow a fourth of a bottle er person for an ordinary dinner. For wine flavor at its purest, keep tobacco smoke away and nibble a little plain bread before you taste."

At-Home Costumes

At-home costumes put a hostess in a gay mood at holiday parties. Tapered trousers still are the rage in solid and printed velveteens. The pants come in all lengths and a variety of styles. They are teamed with camisoles, overblouses, bullfighter shirts and tunics. Trouser fabrics include damask, printed and solid-color velveteens, heavy cotton, and cotton knits. Colors are vivid—red, blue, green and purple—teamed with gold, white or apricot tops.

PLAY WILL BE GIVEN FOR CHILDREN

At the party to be given by Miss Matilda Finkelstein and Mrs. David Lippi at the latter's home on Scenic Road in Fairfax on Saturday afternoon, for the children in the neighborhood, a play "Christmas Eve with St. Francis," written by Miss Clytie Sweet, will be presented.

Miss Sweet uses in her play some of the words of the crippled children in Shriners Hospital in San Francisco in the play they wrote after she told them the story of St. Francis of Assisi. All the characters in the play are figurines and all are animals and birds with exception of the saint. The characters bring gifts to St. Francis, the lamb, his wool; the bird, his song. The play takes only a few minutes but it gives the real mesage of Christmas.

Miss Sweet says she will be happy to present the play again for other childrens' groups.

League Plans 'Snowflake' Dance Friday

Drucilla Brown, Girls' League president, and her committees, headed by Kathy Silva and Konnie Klenk, have been working on preparations for the dance since early November. They are assisted by Bruce Butte with publicity, and Jeff Olsen with decoratons.

Although most of the work has been done by Girls' League Council members, all Girls' League members were invited to assist. Miss Alice Donan, dean of girls, is faculty adviser.

Christmas Tree Legend

NEW YORK (UPI)—We can thank pagans in Northern Germany for the custom of the Christmas tree.

Its origin is traced to a time when St. Winifred went into that territory to preach Christianity. On Christmas Eve, he found people gathered around a huge oak about to offer a human sacrifice according to their rites. St. Winifred cut down th oak, and in its place a young fir appeared. He called it a miracle and sent the people home to celebrate around a fir tree brought inside to glorify God.

Toothpick Tree Easy To Make

Stick as many round toothpicks as possible in each of 16 styroform balls which measure ½ inch. (You probably will need about eight boxes of toothpicks.) Arrange seven of the balls in a circle to form the base. Add a circle of five balls, then three, then one.

Leave it to Paris. There, women, are wearing clothes to match their dogs' coats or collars. If a dog wears a leopard-skin coat, so does his mistress. Or if a pooch has a patent leather leash and collar, the woman puts on patent shoes, bag and belt.

Physiologist Says Cocktail Party Enemy Of Good, Wise Dining

The cocktail party is an enemy of good and wise dining, a leading physiologist, Dr. Ancel Keys of St. Paul, Minn., has written in his best-seller "Eat Well and Stay Well."

Dr. Keys recommends white wine and soda as a good way to cut down on alcohol intake at such gatherings.

Known internationally for his research on diet and health, the psysiologist is director of the University of Minnesota Laboratory of Physiological Hygiene. He wrote the new book with his wife, Margaret, a biochemist. Dr. Paul Dudley White, with whom Dr. Keys has worked closely, wrote the foreword.

"Alcoholic beverages, especially wine, require discussion because, if you value them in your scheme of things, you will wonder about their relationship to health and to the rest of your diet," the writer says in an article based on the best seller.

"We are not talking about alcoholism; the drunkard is an affront to himself and mankind and his health prospects are bleak. But wines, and even stronger bevarages, have a place in civilized living and eating. The problem is to keep it civilized.

"Alcohol is heavy with calories. Moreover, a drink before dinner generally stimulates the appetite. What a cocktail party does may be something else.

"The cocktail party is loudly condemned but it is an easy way to entertain and even those who label it as a social menace are seldom behindhand in accepting invitations.

"But the cocktail party is an enemy of good and wise dining. Food flavors are dulled and there is usually a tendency to select fatty foods . . . maybe this is an instinctive urge for self-protection. Experienced cocktail party habitues learn that their staying power is improved by eating fatty foods which slow the absorption of alcohol, but we doubt that this is the best way of preserving both sobriety and health.

"At the cocktail party take highballs with much soda instead of short drinks. Or, even better, take white wine and soda as a good way of controlling the alcohol intake.

"Munch plain crackers with fish or a small bit of highly flavored cheese instead of gorging on sausages and cheese dips. And resist the temptation to accompany a hilarious group afterwards to a dinenr of steak and French fries."

Dr. Keys notes that "cocktails before wine is a dangerous custom" and advises that if you are having a good wine for dinner the best apertif is Vermouth with a twist of lemon peel or a glass of dry Sherry.

Wines should be stored on the side in a cool place and stood upright half an hour or so before pouring, the author recommends, adding it should not be shaken around when poured.

"Dring it (do not sip) in gulps large enough to 'chew' and allow a fourth of a bottle er person for an ordinary dinner. For wine flavor at its purest, keep tobacco smoke away and nibble a little plain bread before you taste."

At-Home Costumes

At-home costumes put a hostess in a gay mood at holiday parties. Tapered trousers still are the rage in solid and printed velveteens. The pants come in all lengths and a variety of styles. They are teamed with camisoles, overblouses, bullfighter shirts and tunics. Trouser fabrics include damask, printed and solid-color velveteens, heavy cotton, and cotton knits. Colors are vivid—red, blue, green and purple—teamed with gold, white or apricot tops.

PLAY WILL BE GIVEN FOR CHILDREN

At the party to be given by Miss Matilda Finkelstein and Mrs. David Lippi at the latter's home on Scenic Road in Fairfax on Saturday afternoon, for the children in the neighborhood, a play "Christmas Eve with St. Francis," written by Miss Clytie Sweet, will be presented.

Miss Sweet uses in her play some of the words of the crippled children in Shriners Hospital in San Francisco in the play they wrote after she told them the story of St. Francis of Assisi. All the characters in the play are figurines and all are animals and birds with exception of the saint. The characters bring gifts to St. Francis, the lamb, his wool; the bird, his song. The play takes only a few minutes but it gives the real mesage of Christmas.

Miss Sweet says she will be happy to present the play again for other childrens' groups.

League Plans 'Snowflake' Dance Friday

Tamalpais High School's annual Christmas formal, "Snowflake Serenade," will take place Friday from 9 to 12 p.m. in the Ruby Scott auditorium.

Sponsored by the Girls' League, the dance is a "Girl-ask-boy" affair. Decor is to be lavish in pink and gold, with large cherubs and snowflakes carrying out the theme.

Drucilla Brown, Girls' League president, and her committees, headed by Kathy Silva and Konnie Klenk, have been working on preparations for the dance since early November. They are assisted by Bruce Butte with publicity, and Jeff Olsen with decoratons.

Although most of the work has been done by Girls' League Council members, all Girls' League members were invited to assist. Miss Alice Donan, dean of girls, is faculty adviser.

The dance, which had an attendance of more than 400 last year, again promises to be one of the most successful of the year, as well as the highlight of the Tamalpais Christmas season.

Yule Cupboard Will Be Feature Of Greens Sale

The "Christmas Cupboard," a popular feature of the annual Christmas Greens Sale, is to be staffed by Pixie Parents and will offer many home-made specialties including fruitcakes, cookies, nut breads, jams, jellies and nuts, etc.

Sponsored by the Decorations Guild, this year's event will be held in the attractive new building at the Marin Art and Garden Center in Ross on Saturday. The Guild's showroom will provide a holiday setting for the Christmas Cupboard, to be open from 10 to 4 o'clock.

Guild chairmen of the Greens Sale is Mrs. Gordon Zimmer; Pixie chairman of the Cupboard is Mrs. Stuart Spence. Proceeds to be donated for maintenance of the Center.

Change Of Place

The locale of the Delta Zeta Sorority Marin County Alumnae Christmas party tomorrow at 7:30 p.m. has been changed to the San Rafael home of Mrs. George R. Mallory, 31 Alta Vista Way.

Elizabeth Helm Feted At Shower In Rossman Home

Elizabeth Helm of Mill Valley, whose wedding to Thomas Steven Brown will take place on Sunday, was honored at a "kitchen-diningroom" shower last week.

Given by Mrs. Frank E. Rossman of Sausalito, many of the guests were mother-daughter combinations, including the future bride's mother, Mrs. Frank Pinckney Helm.

Others were Mrs. Raymond Hill and Mrs. Louis D. Upton; Mrs. Loren Jay, whose daughters Katherine and Elizabeth assisted the hostess; Mrs. Norton Meyer and Mrs. Stuart McIntosh; Mrs. Clifford Pehl and Janet Pehl; Mrs. Ernest M. Smith and Mrs. D. Smith Lindquist; and Mrs. William Spence and Mrs. John Camp, who will be an attendant at the wedding.

Others at the afternoon party were Mesdames Joseph S. Doron, Henry G. Douglas, Charles M. Gunn, Walter H. Washbourne, John Wellington and Miss Louise Howland.

Mrs. Washbourne, with the hostess' daughter, Mrs. Warren S. Meadowcroft, poured.

Christmas Tree Legend

NEW YORK (UPI)—We can thank pagans in Northern Germany for the custom of the Christmas tree.

Its origin is traced to a time when St. Winifred went into that territory to preach Christianity. On Christmas Eve, he found people gathered around a huge oak about to offer a human sacrifice according to their rites. St. Winifred cut down th oak, and in its place a young fir appeared. He called it a miracle and sent the people home to celebrate around a fir tree brought inside to glorify God.

Toothpick Tree Easy To Make

Stick as many round toothpicks as possible in each of 16 styroform balls which measure ½ inch. (You probably will need about eight boxes of toothpicks.) Arrange seven of the balls in a circle to form the base. Add a circle of five balls, then three, then one.

Leave It To Paris

Leave it to Paris. There, women, are wearing clothes to match their dogs' coats or collars. If a dog wears a leopard-skin coat, so does his mistress. Or if a pooch has a patent leather leash and collar, the woman puts on patent shoes, bag and belt.

BASEBALL IN MINATURE—This baseball field, with magnetized plastic players operated by magnetized wands, is the invention of a Mill Valley man and is being produced in Sausalito — with production stepped up just in time for the Christmas toy trade. It adheres strictly to realism and is no game of chance, says inventor George E. Lindman.

'MAG-POWR' GAMES

Mill Valley Man, Wife Make Money At Play

By DONALD G. DAVIS

A Mill Valley executive quit a good-paying job nearly a year ago to play baseball and football with sticks and magnets.

And now George E. Lindman and his wife, Marilyn, of 6 Glen drive, are having a difficult time keeping up with the orders for Mag-Powr Games.

The two games are Lindman's brainchildren. They are played by moving tiny magnetized players, by means of magnetized wands, over boards that resemble football and baseball fields.

There are no flashing lights, no electric cords, and virtually no buttons and knobs. There is no chance, beyond the element normally present in sports. These games are of skill.

A year ago Lindman was vice president of the George P. Hollingberry Co., a firm that sells time for radio and television stations.

But long before that he had wanted to be in business for himself, selling his toys. For years he had been developing ideas. When he was a high school student in Visalia he played football, basketball and went out for track. In the summer he dreamed up ideas for games. He never tried to get patents or manufacture them.

Then someone else would get the same idea, manufacture the games and go on to fame and fortune. Lindman squirmed.

In 1952 when he was 33 he decided he would have to do somethng about it. That was about the time the Lindmans moved to Mill Valley.

"I always had the idea for improving the football and baseball games that I saw in the stores," Lindman said at

Terra Linda CSD Board Slates Meet

The Terra Linda Community Services District board will hold a special meeting Jan. 7 at 8 p.m. to present to residents a report on a study of the future of the district, including the feasibility of annexation to San Rafael or incorporation.

John P. Namle, district president, said the meeting probably will be held in Hoffman school.

The study is being prepared by William R. Zion of Government Research Associates, Oakland, and had been scheduled for completion this week. Zion requested more time, however, to polish his report.

Namle said summaries of the report will be printed and probably distributed before the meeting.

PATROL ASKS DRIVERS TO BE CAREFUL

An appeal to Marin motorists to drive with extra care during the Christmas holidays was made today by Capt. T. F. Parnow, commander of the California Highway Patrol office in San Rafael.

The patrol will have a maximum enforcement program under way on Christmas Eve and Christmas Day, he warned, in an attempt to prevent a repeat of last year's accident toll for the two-day period.

One person died and 10 were injured on Marin County roadways during that period last year, said Parnow. He called for "safe, intelligent and sober driving to avoid becoming a 1959 Christmas statistic."

Jewish Center Slates Pre-Chanukah Sessions

For the second year, the Marin Jewish Community Center, in conjunction with Congregation Rodef Sholom, is sponsoring a workshop for adults to aid in preparation for the Jewish festival of Chanukah.

The workshop will be on at the center building, 1618 Mission avenue, San Rafael, at 8 p.m. tomorrow.

Participants will attend four sessions during the workshop, each concerned with a different aspect of the holiday.

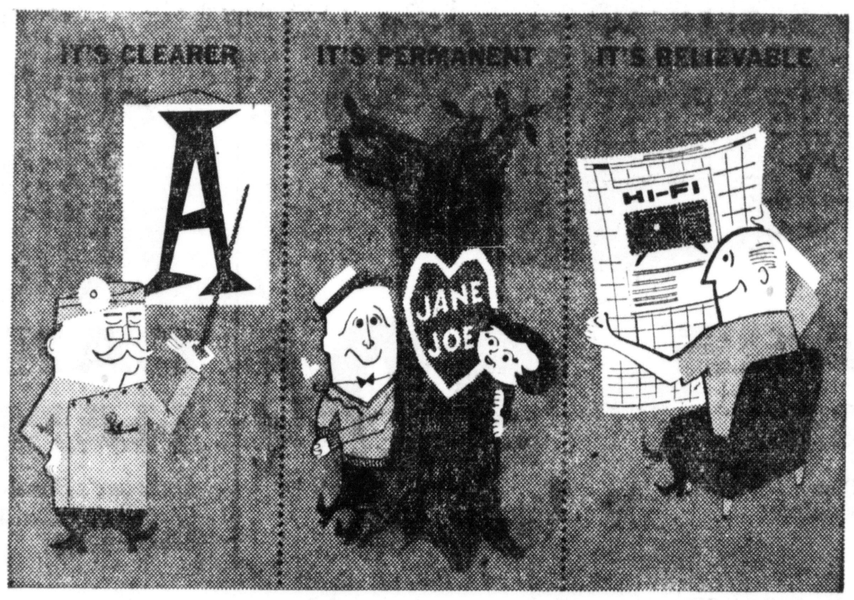
Why is the printed word so important in advertising?



ONE OF A SERIES

ANSWER: THE DAILY NEWSPAPER IS THE GREATEST ADVERTISING MEDIUM for many reasons. One of them is that it carries the power of the printed word. People believe in a message that is permanent; one that is written. They understand it better. Also, the newspaper because of its permanence lets the reader choose his own time for absorbing the message. And once put down it can always be picked up again. The message that lives is the message that is written in the newspaper.

RAGS TO RICHES?—Harold Stevenson Sr., a 69-year-old junk dealer, points out over the land, in shadow of Philadelphia's huge International Airport, shown in background, which he hopes to claim as his own. Junk Dealer Claims He Owns $1 Million Land

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Any day now a lawsuit will come to trial. Its outcome could make a junk dealer a millionaire over night.

The plaintiff is Harold Stevenson Sr., 69. He says that for 31 years he squatted on 64 acres of then worthless marshland in the Eastwick section. Because of redevelopment the value of the property now is estimated at about a million dollars.

About a year ago the Philadelphia Redevelopment Authority condemned the 64 acres. Most of the land is part of the huge Eastwick redevelopment project but parts of it are in nearby Delaware County and can be used for private development.

The tract is located about a quarter-mile across the industrial highway from International Airport and is near the new multi-million-dollar plant of the Scott Paper Co.

Stevenson's lawyer, Lawrence J. Richette, says the going price for the land in the area now is $15,000 to $20,000 an acre.

Steveson asserted his squatter's rights last June by filing suit in common pleas court to have himself declared legal owner of the marsh.

He is claiming the oldest concept in Anglo-Saxon law—that of adverse possession, which means occupancy without permission of the owner for at least 21 years.

Stevenson asserts he moved onto the property in 1928 and held it in "actual, continuous, exclusive, visible, notorious, distinct and hostile adverse possession as to all the world for a period of 21 years" and it is his. He asks the court to declare him the owner and to void all deeds and mortgages.

Elias H. Stein, the title and deed holder, denies Stevenson occupied the property for 21 years. Stein says Stevenson was a tenant or trespasser and recognized others as having a superior title to the land.

San Anselmo Sea Scouts Win Trophy

The Sea Scout ship Challenge received the A. G. Schoonmaker trophy Saturday night as the best ship for the past year in Marin County.

The trophy was presented by Commodore Jack Feller at a Sea Scout Bridge of Honor ceremony in the San Rafael Elks Club. The Challenge is sponsored by the San Anselmo Rotary Club.

Richard Hoyt, a member of the ship Tamalsea, sponsored by the American Legion of Mill Valley, was presented the commodore's award as the best all-around Sea Scout in the county.

The award, presented by David Rice of the Marin Boy Scout Council, was a knife and marlinspike.

I-J Executive Finds Europe Economy Good

"Everyone I talked to was very pleased with the economic climate of his country," Wishard A. Brown, business manager of the Independent-Journal, reported today after his return from a 10-day trip to Rome, Paris and London.

Brown was one of 125 guests on Trans World Airlines inaugural jet New York to Rome via Paris passenger flight Dec. 3. The new intercontinental version of the Boeing 707 airliner made the flight to Paris in five hours and 40 minutes, just seven minutes short of a new record.

Highlight of the trip, Brown said, was a reception the group attended at Rome's Quirinale Palace given by President Giovanni Gronchi for President Eisenhower.

"We received the full red carpet treatment. It was like something out of a movie set," Brown said of the colorful reception.

The jet stopped at Paris for refueling before going on to Rome where it arrived just one hour ahead of President Eisenhower. At the airport there was a special ceremony welcoming the new service, with flowers and wine.

Brown, six Bay Area newsmen and others on the flight were guests of TWA for two and one-half days in Rome. After sightseeing and entertainment there, the group left for three days of sightseeing in Paris.

He flew back Saturday, landing at Newark because of bad weather around New York.

In all three cities Brown said he was impressed with the healthy look of the economy. People were well dressed and there were lots of cars, he observed. He found the "man on the street" very friendly and courteous to visitors.

GAMES

his plant and office in the Industrial Center Building in Sausalito.

"I wanted to develop games that a person could actually control."

Lindman looked for capital, but toy people wanted to buy him out. He decided to stick it out alone.

Then the U.S. Patent Office notified him that an English firm, Soccerette, Ltd., of Newmarket, had applied for a patent using the same principle as Lindman's.

An interference suit was declared, but before the two parties went to court they settled their differences with a merger. Lindman and his wife own half the company and have exclusive rights to deal in the United States. The English firm owns half of Mag-Powr and sells soccer games in Europe.

Last February, Lindman flew to England to wind up arrangements and left his job. A month later the Lindmans presumptuously decided to display their wares at a big New York toy show. They had little better than working models with them, and with some of the little players only just developed.

The games were a hit.

They were so well liked by a competitor, Lindman said, that the opposing firm sent around two gruff-voiced thugs at the end of the day. They told the Lindmans to get out of business.

Mrs. Lindman nearly fainted. Such goings-on in the toy trade! Later they took the whole thing as a compliment. If someone wanted to get them out of business, Mag-Powr must have something, Lindman reasoned.

A few months ago Lindman set up shop in Sausalito. At first he used many parts manufactured in England; now 90 per cent of the manufacturing is jobbed out around the Bay Area—much of it in Marin—and the games are assembled in Sausalito. There is also some manufacturing at the Sausalito plant, and the packaging and mailing is handled there.

Lindman originally envisioned the games as perfect for fathers and their teen-age sons. But anyone who knows the rules can play, he asserts. And that includes girls. The Lindsmans have two daughters, Diana, 16, a student at Tamalpais High School, and Georgia, 8, a pupil at Mill Valley's Park School.

The football games consist of the playing field with a red team and a yellow one. Each player contains a tiny magnet. Opposing players play by moving magnetized wands under the board to move their men. The football players are made of a special life-like plastic that allows them to block and tackle realistically.

The standard size is 20-by-30 inches and has a grasslike field. Each set of wands moves only one team of players. Kicking and passing is done by a "time-out" method in which a tiny magnetized ball is placed at a player's foot or hand. The plastic arm or leg is drawn back, and sends the ball sailing through the air.

In the baseball game the two players change sides on the board as the opposing teams come to bat. A stationary batter is operated by a spring. The other team's players are operated by two magnetized wands that send players slogging around bases. The fielders are operated by one wand; the pitcher and catcher, by the other.

"The games can be played according to professional or collegiate rules," Lindman said. "We try to adhere to realism."

In the baseball game, there is a tiny gutter at the edge of the board. That means a home run.

From toy shows the Lindmans have received thousands of orders. The games are now stocked at large department stores throughout the country. And they are on sale at retail toy outlets in Marin. Prices range from about $10 for a junior-sized football field to about $25 for a deluxe model.

Why the name Mag-Powr? Why not Batter Up, or Play Ball or Wham?

"When I asked the name of the game they have at home they always say, 'It's the one with the electric motor or the flashing lights,' but they never know the name," Lindman explained. "I wanted a name that described pretty much what the game did."

So Lindman hopes that when people say, "the game with the magnetic power" they will think Mag-Powr.

BASEBALL IN MINATURE—This baseball field, with magnetized plastic players operated by magnetized wands, is the invention of a Mill Valley man and is being produced in Sausalito — with production stepped up just in time for the Christmas toy trade. It adheres strictly to realism and is no game of chance, says inventor George E. Lindman.

'MAG-POWR' GAMES

By DONALD G. DAVIS

A Mill Valley executive quit a good-paying job nearly a year ago to play baseball and football with sticks and magnets.

And now George E. Lindman and his wife, Marilyn, of 6 Glen drive, are having a difficult time keeping up with the orders for Mag-Powr Games.

The two games are Lindman's brainchildren. They are played by moving tiny magnetized players, by means of magnetized wands, over boards that resemble football and baseball fields.

There are no flashing lights, no electric cords, and virtually no buttons and knobs. There is no chance, beyond the element normally present in sports. These games are of skill.

A year ago Lindman was vice president of the George P. Hollingberry Co., a firm that sells time for radio and television stations.

But long before that he had wanted to be in business for himself, selling his toys. For years he had been developing ideas. When he was a high school student in Visalia he played football, basketball and went out for track. In the summer he dreamed up ideas for games. He never tried to get patents or manufacture them.

Then someone else would get the same idea, manufacture the games and go on to fame and fortune. Lindman squirmed.

In 1952 when he was 33 he decided he would have to do somethng about it. That was about the time the Lindmans moved to Mill Valley.

"I always had the idea for improving the football and baseball games that I saw in the stores," Lindman said at

Terra Linda CSD Board Slates Meet

The Terra Linda Community Services District board will hold a special meeting Jan. 7 at 8 p.m. to present to residents a report on a study of the future of the district, including the feasibility of annexation to San Rafael or incorporation.

John P. Namle, district president, said the meeting probably will be held in Hoffman school.

The study is being prepared by William R. Zion of Government Research Associates, Oakland, and had been scheduled for completion this week. Zion requested more time, however, to polish his report.

Namle said summaries of the report will be printed and probably distributed before the meeting.

PATROL ASKS DRIVERS TO BE CAREFUL

An appeal to Marin motorists to drive with extra care during the Christmas holidays was made today by Capt. T. F. Parnow, commander of the California Highway Patrol office in San Rafael.

The patrol will have a maximum enforcement program under way on Christmas Eve and Christmas Day, he warned, in an attempt to prevent a repeat of last year's accident toll for the two-day period.

One person died and 10 were injured on Marin County roadways during that period last year, said Parnow. He called for "safe, intelligent and sober driving to avoid becoming a 1959 Christmas statistic."

Jewish Center Slates Pre-Chanukah Sessions

For the second year, the Marin Jewish Community Center, in conjunction with Congregation Rodef Sholom, is sponsoring a workshop for adults to aid in preparation for the Jewish festival of Chanukah.

The workshop will be on at the center building, 1618 Mission avenue, San Rafael, at 8 p.m. tomorrow.

Participants will attend four sessions during the workshop, each concerned with a different aspect of the holiday.

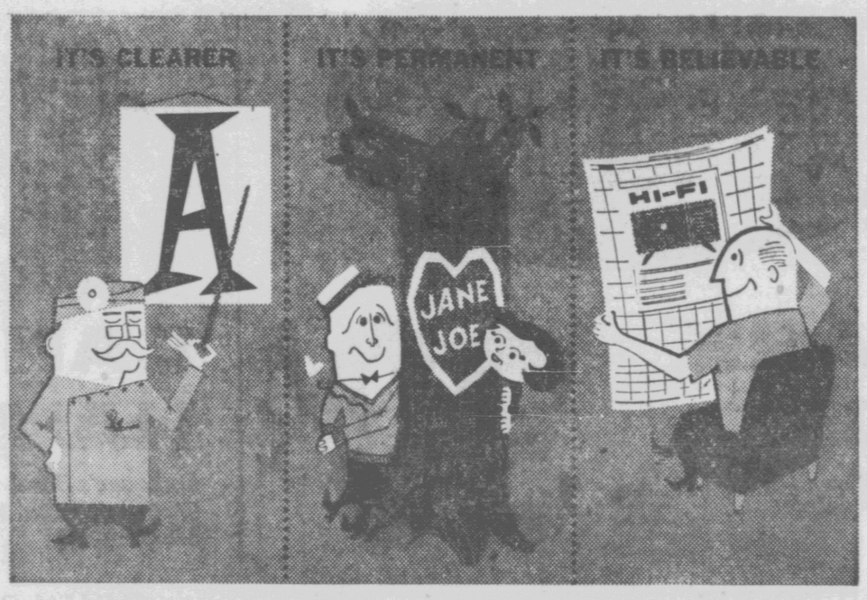
Why is the printed word so important in advertising?



ONE OF A SERIES

ANSWER: THE DAILY NEWSPAPER IS THE GREATEST ADVERTISING MEDIUM for many reasons. One of them is that it carries the power of the printed word. People believe in a message that is permanent; one that is written. They understand it better. Also, the newspaper because of its permanence lets the reader choose his own time for absorbing the message. And once put down it can always be picked up again. The message that lives is the message that is written in the newspaper.

Junk Dealer Claims He Owns $1 Million Land

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Any day now a lawsuit will come to trial. Its outcome could make a junk dealer a millionaire over night.

The plaintiff is Harold Stevenson Sr., 69. He says that for 31 years he squatted on 64 acres of then worthless marshland in the Eastwick section. Because of redevelopment the value of the property now is estimated at about a million dollars.

About a year ago the Philadelphia Redevelopment Authority condemned the 64 acres. Most of the land is part of the huge Eastwick redevelopment project but parts of it are in nearby Delaware County and can be used for private development.

The tract is located about a quarter-mile across the industrial highway from International Airport and is near the new multi-million-dollar plant of the Scott Paper Co.

Stevenson's lawyer, Lawrence J. Richette, says the going price for the land in the area now is $15,000 to $20,000 an acre.

Steveson asserted his squatter's rights last June by filing suit in common pleas court to have himself declared legal owner of the marsh.

He is claiming the oldest concept in Anglo-Saxon law—that of adverse possession, which means occupancy without permission of the owner for at least 21 years.

Stevenson asserts he moved onto the property in 1928 and held it in "actual, continuous, exclusive, visible, notorious, distinct and hostile adverse possession as to all the world for a period of 21 years" and it is his. He asks the court to declare him the owner and to void all deeds and mortgages.

Elias H. Stein, the title and deed holder, denies Stevenson occupied the property for 21 years. Stein says Stevenson was a tenant or trespasser and recognized others as having a superior title to the land.

San Anselmo Sea Scouts Win Trophy

The Sea Scout ship Challenge received the A. G. Schoonmaker trophy Saturday night as the best ship for the past year in Marin County.

The trophy was presented by Commodore Jack Feller at a Sea Scout Bridge of Honor ceremony in the San Rafael Elks Club. The Challenge is sponsored by the San Anselmo Rotary Club.

Richard Hoyt, a member of the ship Tamalsea, sponsored by the American Legion of Mill Valley, was presented the commodore's award as the best all-around Sea Scout in the county.

The award, presented by David Rice of the Marin Boy Scout Council, was a knife and marlinspike.

I-J Executive Finds Europe Economy Good

"Everyone I talked to was very pleased with the economic climate of his country," Wishard A. Brown, business manager of the Independent-Journal, reported today after his return from a 10-day trip to Rome, Paris and London.

Brown was one of 125 guests on Trans World Airlines inaugural jet New York to Rome via Paris passenger flight Dec. 3. The new intercontinental version of the Boeing 707 airliner made the flight to Paris in five hours and 40 minutes, just seven minutes short of a new record.

Highlight of the trip, Brown said, was a reception the group attended at Rome's Quirinale Palace given by President Giovanni Gronchi for President Eisenhower.

"We received the full red carpet treatment. It was like something out of a movie set," Brown said of the colorful reception.

The jet stopped at Paris for refueling before going on to Rome where it arrived just one hour ahead of President Eisenhower. At the airport there was a special ceremony welcoming the new service, with flowers and wine.

Brown, six Bay Area newsmen and others on the flight were guests of TWA for two and one-half days in Rome. After sightseeing and entertainment there, the group left for three days of sightseeing in Paris.

He flew back Saturday, landing at Newark because of bad weather around New York.

In all three cities Brown said he was impressed with the healthy look of the economy. People were well dressed and there were lots of cars, he observed. He found the "man on the street" very friendly and courteous to visitors.

his plant and office in the Industrial Center Building in Sausalito.

"I wanted to develop games that a person could actually control."

Lindman looked for capital, but toy people wanted to buy him out. He decided to stick it out alone.

Then the U.S. Patent Office notified him that an English firm, Soccerette, Ltd., of Newmarket, had applied for a patent using the same principle as Lindman's.

An interference suit was declared, but before the two parties went to court they settled their differences with a merger. Lindman and his wife own half the company and have exclusive rights to deal in the United States. The English firm owns half of Mag-Powr and sells soccer games in Europe.

Last February, Lindman flew to England to wind up arrangements and left his job. A month later the Lindmans presumptuously decided to display their wares at a big New York toy show. They had little better than working models with them, and with some of the little players only just developed.

The games were a hit.

They were so well liked by a competitor, Lindman said, that the opposing firm sent around two gruff-voiced thugs at the end of the day. They told the Lindmans to get out of business.

Mrs. Lindman nearly fainted. Such goings-on in the toy trade! Later they took the whole thing as a compliment. If someone wanted to get them out of business, Mag-Powr must have something, Lindman reasoned.

A few months ago Lindman set up shop in Sausalito. At first he used many parts manufactured in England; now 90 per cent of the manufacturing is jobbed out around the Bay Area—much of it in Marin—and the games are assembled in Sausalito. There is also some manufacturing at the Sausalito plant, and the packaging and mailing is handled there.

Lindman originally envisioned the games as perfect for fathers and their teen-age sons. But anyone who knows the rules can play, he asserts. And that includes girls. The Lindsmans have two daughters, Diana, 16, a student at Tamalpais High School, and Georgia, 8, a pupil at Mill Valley's Park School.

The football games consist of the playing field with a red team and a yellow one. Each player contains a tiny magnet. Opposing players play by moving magnetized wands under the board to move their men. The football players are made of a special life-like plastic that allows them to block and tackle realistically.

The standard size is 20-by-30 inches and has a grasslike field. Each set of wands moves only one team of players. Kicking and passing is done by a "time-out" method in which a tiny magnetized ball is placed at a player's foot or hand. The plastic arm or leg is drawn back, and sends the ball sailing through the air.

In the baseball game the two players change sides on the board as the opposing teams come to bat. A stationary batter is operated by a spring. The other team's players are operated by two magnetized wands that send players slogging around bases. The fielders are operated by one wand; the pitcher and catcher, by the other.

"The games can be played according to professional or collegiate rules," Lindman said. "We try to adhere to realism."

In the baseball game, there is a tiny gutter at the edge of the board. That means a home run.

From toy shows the Lindmans have received thousands of orders. The games are now stocked at large department stores throughout the country. And they are on sale at retail toy outlets in Marin. Prices range from about $10 for a junior-sized football field to about $25 for a deluxe model.

Why the name Mag-Powr? Why not Batter Up, or Play Ball or Wham?

"When I asked the name of the game they have at home they always say, 'It's the one with the electric motor or the flashing lights,' but they never know the name," Lindman explained. "I wanted a name that described pretty much what the game did."

So Lindman hopes that when people say, "the game with the magnetic power" they will think Mag-Powr.

YEAH, BUT WHICH WAY?

It may be a one-way street, but which way is the problem for Boston motorist Charles Doherty. Police concluded a prankster turned one of the signs around.

Mail Goes Through, In Varied Vehicles

WASHINGTON (AP)—The mail will go through this Christmas as always, but in a few cases it will take horses, boats, toboggans, skis and even a dogsled to do it.

That's the way it still has to be done in some of the remote nooks and crannies of the 50 states. The Post Office conceded that today, perhaps a little proudly, after looking over the locomotion methods of some of its 10,000 star route carriers.

The star route carriers transport mail under private contract with the Post Office. Most of them use trucks, but sometimes they have to use ingenuity to get themselves from one place to another.

Carrier Eulice H. Thomas has a route between Crisfield, Md. and Tangier Island, Va., in Chesapeake Bay. He uses a small boat. So does George Grosvenor of Leland, Mich., who delivers to two northern Lake Michigan islands from the mainland.

A horse is still the handiest way to get from Sumerco to Sod, W. Va. Daner F. Brogan, as he has for many a year, will employ hayburn transportation over the rough, roadless route.

But another West Virginia star router, J. B. Vaughan, has given up his horse after 17 years. He now drives a truck between Chloe and Elmira.

If snows are deep this year between Elko, Nev., and the Bob Prunty ranch, carrier Claude E. Gerber will drop the Christmas mail from a small plane.

In Alaska, Chester Noonwook presides over the last dogsled route in these United States. His 10 huskies carry the mail on St. Lawrence Island in the Bering Sea. In summer months he employs a skin-covered boat known in that region as an umiak.

The star route carriers have played their vigorous, backwoods role for the Post Office for more than a century. Their name stems from early days when their contracts provided for "celerity, certainty and security" of the mails.

Postal clerks got tired of writing these three words over and over, and took to substituting three asterisks or stars.

It wasn't long before they were called star routes, as they are to this day.

S.F. Shipyard Starts Work On Big Liner

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Building started today on the 563-foot freight and passenger ship President Lincoln, a 16-million-dollar cargoliner which will fly the house flag of American President Lines.

A ceremony to mark the laying of the keel was set for this afternoon at Bethlehem-Pacific Shipyard. Launching is set for February, 1961.

The keel for a sister-ship, the President Roosevelt, will be laid in January. The launching date is May, 1961.

The vessels will have a sustained cruising speed of 20 knots. With accommodations for 12 passengers, each will have an officer and crew complement of 60.

The contract provides that the government will pay the difference in cost of constructing the ships in a representative foreign shipyard compared to an American yard.

The new cargoliners will have a semi-raked prow and a cruiser stern. There will be seven holds, four forward and three aft of the machinery.

UPI Votes Khrushchev Visit Top '59 Story

NEW YORK (UPI) — Russian Premier Nikita Khrushchev's visit to the United States was the biggest news story of 1959.

That is the opinion of editors of United Press International client newspapers and UPI editors, who balloted in a nationwide poll.

The top 10 stories of the year:

1. Khrushchev tours United States; agrees with Eisenhower to negotiate further on Berlin without a deadline.

2. Soviet Union announces it has hit moon with rocket; sends second rocket around moon and takes pictures of other side.

3. Strike by United Steelworkers of America closes down steel and allied industries; 500,000 return to work after Eisenhower invokes Taft-Hartley Law.

5. Congressional subcommittee investigates rigging of television quiz shows; Charles Van Doren and other witnesses admit they got answers to questions in advance.

6. Eisenhower tours Europe, Mideast and Asia; Nixon visits Soviet Union.

7. John Foster Dulles dies, is replaced by Christian A. Herter as U. S. secretary of state.

8. Communist Chinese troops move into Tibet, forcing Dalai Lama to flee to India; Red Chinese troops also violate Indian border; Laos charges invasion from Communist North Viet Nam.

10. Louisiana Gov. Earl Long put forcibly into mental institution; frees self at dramatic court session.

Hawaiian statehood nearly made the list. The voters also rated highly the Senate subcommittee investigation of labor racketeering. The monkeys Able and Baker and their 300-mile-high space flight drew many votes.

Plane Crash Death Brings Big Lawsuit

A San Francisco couple, whose 23-year-old son died in a two-plane crash over Richardson Bay last year, filed suit yesterday in Marin Superior Court for $150,000 damages.

Morgan J. Erlick Jr., who was taking flight training at Commodore Aviation in Sausalito on Oct. 17, 1958, was one of three who died when two training planes collided and plunged into the bay. The other two were Eric Raison, 27, an instructor in the same plane with Erlick, and Douglas Gladstone, 27, San Francisco executive who was piloting another plane on a training flight.

Erlick's parents, Morgan J. and Jane Erlick, filed the suit through San Francisco attorney John J. Healy. They charge negligence and carelessness on the part of Commodore Aviation, its president Robert Law, and several John Does.

Hamilton Woman Injured By Car

A/2c Josephina A. Yavarette, 28, of the 1902nd Airways and Air Communication Squadron, suffered fractures of the right leg and pelvis when struck by a car in front of the NCO Club at Hamilton Air Force Base about 8 o'clock last night.

"Suddenly I felt a bump," said Mrs. Thomasina Darlene Rutledge, 23, of Petaluma, driver of the car, in telling the story to Jack Edwards of the California Highway Patrol, called in by Air Police.

"I stopped as soon as I could. I didn't see her prior to the bump."

The victim was taken to the 78th Air Force Hospital for emergency aid, then transferred to Letterman Army Hospital in San Francisco.

Income Tax Rapped

CHICAGO (UPI)—Delegates to the annual convention of the American Farm Bureau Federation voted unanimously to approve a proposal to repeal the individual federal income tax.

The proposal, sponsored by the Wyoming delegation, now goes to the organization's resolutions committee as an amendment to its recommendations.

Marinite Promoted By Telephone Firm

D. E. Matteson of San Rafael has been named division commercial superintendent, San Francisco, for Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Co., thereby leaving the job of directory superintendent.

Matteson has been with Pacific Telephone since 1946. He started his career in San Jose, served as traffic staff assistant in San Rafael between 1948 and 1950 and then, following a tour of military service in Korea, went to the traffic department headquarters engineering office in San Francisco.

JUST IGNORE ANTLERS

To Find Out Deer's Age, Take A Look At Its Teeth

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Checking a deer's antlers is no way to find out its age, says the state Fish and Game Department.

Probably the only accurate way to tell the age of a deer is by checking the animal's teeth.

That's just what the department is doing, in its research into age and growth patterns in the state's deer herds.

Hunters who didn't want to mount their deers' heads as trophies were asked at department checking stations to turn over the jawbones of bucks, so the department can study them.

In studying jawbones for aging data there are certain key teeth that can be checked to determine accurately whether the animal is one two, three or four years old.

But for any deer four years or older, it's almost impossible to judge age with much accuracy, at least by just looking at teeth.

At that age, some deer's teeth begin to show more than others. And there are other deer variations that make it impractical to adopt a uniform age measurement.

PERFECT CHRISTMAS PRESENT FOR WALLABY—A NEW POUCH

NEW YORK (AP)—For a shy, soft-eyed little marsupial it's going to be a pretty good Christmas after all.

The little baby wallaby, which is a kind of midget kangaroo, has the second best present in the world — a new pouch.

Mrs. Davis' son is a curator at the zoo.

Driver Training Switch Opposed

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — State Motor Vehicle Director Robert McCarthy has come out in opposition to proposals to remove driver training programs from the public schools.

A subcommittee of the Citizens' Advisory Commission on Public Education suggested last week that the Department of Motor Vehicles take over driver training and education.

But McCarthy claimed yesterday that "the very terms 'education and training' imply that the supervision of trained teachers and professional educators is needed."

The Laboratory of Ornithology at Cornell University has been recording the songs of wild birds for nearly 30 years.

Board Approves Paying 1st Recall Vote Bills

Payment of first bills for the Tiburon Fire Protection District's Dec. 8 recall election were authorized for payment yesterday by the Marin County Board of Supervisors.

The county will pay the bills, then be reimbursed by the first district.

The election was on recall of commissioner Fred Mantegani, appointed by the supervisors. Mantegani won handily, more than two-thirds of the votes cast being against his recall.

Yesterday's action authorized payment of the five election officers at a total of $81. Estimates have been made the total cost of the election will be $600 to $800.

"The fire commission itself estimated the cost would be 40 cents for each eligible voter in the district," declared Supervisor Vera L. Schultz. Only about one third of them voted.

"They'll have to tighten up their budget a bit to pay for it," noted Deputy Auditor Michael Mitchell.

8 New Members Join Soil Program

Eight new cooperating members were accepted by the Marin County Soil Conservation District at a board meeting yesterday at Sonoma-Marin Creamery in Point Reyes Station.

Cooperating members are persons who wish to have the District at a board meeting Monday at Sonoma-Marin Creamery at Point Reyes Station.

Protest of the proposed Pt. Reyes National Seashore Recreational Area was discussed by directors but no specific action was taken, said president Waldo Giacomini. All board members were present.

Mail Goes Through, In Varied Vehicles

WASHINGTON (AP)—The mail will go through this Christmas as always, but in a few cases it will take horses, boats, tobogganes, skis and even a dogsled to do it.

That's the way it still has to be done in some of the remote nooks and crannies of the 50 states. The Post Office conceded that today, perhaps a little proudly, after looking over the locomotion methods of some of its 10,000 star route carriers.

The star route carriers transport mail under private contract with the Post Office. Most of them use trucks, but sometimes they have to use ingenuity to get themselves from one place to another.

Carrier Eulice H. Thomas has a route between Crisfield, Md. and Tangier Island, Va., in Chesapeake Bay. He uses a small boat. So does George Grosvenor of Leland, Mich., who delivers to two northern Lake Michigan islands from the mainland.

A horse is still the handiest way to get from Sumerco to Sod, W. Va. Daner F. Brogan, as he has for many a year, will employ hayburn transportation over the rough, roadless route.

But another West Virginia star router, J. B. Vaughan, has given up his horse after 17 years. He now drives a truck between Chloe and Elmira.

If snows are deep this year between Elko, Nev., and the Bob Prunty ranch, carrier Claude E. Gerber will drop the Christmas mail from a small plane.

In Alaska, Chester Noonwook presides over the last dogsled route in these United States. His 10 huskies carry the mail on St. Lawrence Island in the Bering Sea. In summer months he employs a skin-covered boat known in that region as an umiak.

The star route carriers have played their vigorous, backwoods role for the Post Office for more than a century. Their name stems from early days when their contracts provided for "celerity, certainty and security" of the mails.

Postal clerks got tired of writing these three words over and over, and took to substituting three asterisks or stars.

It wasn't long before they were called star routes, as they are to this day.

PERFECT CHRISTMAS PRESENT FOR WALLABY—A NEW POUCH

The little baby wallaby, which is a kind of midget kangaroo, has the second best present in the world — a new pouch.

The best present, of course, would have been her mother's pouch, because like all marsupials, that's where baby wallabies spend their early age.

Mrs. Davis' son is a curator at the zoo.

Driver Training Switch Opposed

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — State Motor Vehicle Director Robert McCarthy has come out in opposition to proposals to remove driver training programs from the public schools.

A subcommittee of the Citizens' Advisory Commission on Public Education suggested last week that the Department of Motor Vehicles take over driver training and education.

But McCarthy claimed yesterday that "the very terms 'education and training' imply that the supervision of trained teachers and professional educators is needed."

The Laboratory of Ornithology at Cornell University has been recording the songs of wild birds for nearly 30 years.

Board Approves Paying 1st Recall Vote Bills

Payment of first bills for the Tiburon Fire Protection District's Dec. 8 recall election were authorized for payment yesterday by the Marin County Board of Supervisors.

The county will pay the bills, then be reimbursed by the first district.

The election was on recall of commissioner Fred Mantegani, appointed by the supervisors. Mantegani won handily, more than two-thirds of the votes cast being against his recall.

Yesterday's action authorized payment of the five election officers at a total of $81. Estimates have been made the total cost of the election will be $600 to $800.

"The fire commission itself estimated the cost would be 40 cents for each eligible voter in the district," declared Supervisor Vera L. Schultz. Only about one third of them voted.

"They'll have to tighten up their budget a bit to pay for it," noted Deputy Auditor Michael Mitchell.

UPI Votes Khrushchev Visit Top '59 Story

NEW YORK (UPI) — Russian Premier Nikita Khrushchev's visit to the United States was the biggest news story of 1959.

That is the opinion of editors of United Press International client newspapers and UPI editors, who balloted in a nationwide poll.

The top 10 stories of the year:

1. Khrushchev tours United States; agrees with Eisenhower to negotiate further on Berlin without a deadline.

2. Soviet Union announces it has hit moon with rocket; sends second rocket around moon and takes pictures of other side.

3. Strike by United Steelworkers of America closes down steel and allied industries; 500,000 return to work after Eisenhower invokes Taft-Hartley Law.

5. Congressional subcommittee investigates rigging of television quiz shows; Charles Van Doren and other witnesses admit they got answers to questions in advance.

6. Eisenhower tours Europe, Mideast and Asia; Nixon visits Soviet Union.

7. John Foster Dulles dies, is replaced by Christian A. Herter as U. S. secretary of state.

8. Communist Chinese troops move into Tibet, forcing Dalai Lama to flee to India; Red Chinese troops also violate Indian border; Laos charges invasion from Communist North Viet Nam.

10. Louisiana Gov. Earl Long put forcibly into mental institution; frees self at dramatic court session.

Hawaiian statehood nearly made the list. The voters also rated highly the Senate subcommittee investigation of labor racketeering. The monkeys Able and Baker and their 300-mile-high space flight drew many votes.

S.F. Shipyard Starts Work On Big Liner

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Building started today on the 563-foot freight and passenger ship President Lincoln, a 16-million-dollar cargoliner which will fly the house flag of American President Lines.

A ceremony to mark the laying of the keel was set for this afternoon at Bethlehem-Pacific Shipyard. Launching is set for February, 1961.

The keel for a sister-ship, the President Roosevelt, will be laid in January. The launching date is May, 1961.

The vessels will have a sustained cruising speed of 20 knots. With accommodations for 12 passengers, each will have an officer and crew complement of 60.

The contract provides that the government will pay the difference in cost of constructing the ships in a representative foreign shipyard compared to an American yard.

The new cargoliners will have a semi-raked prow and a cruiser stern. There will be seven holds, four forward and three aft of the machinery.

Plane Crash Death Brings Big Lawsuit

A San Francisco couple, whose 23-year-old son died in a two-plane crash over Richardson Bay last year, filed suit yesterday in Marin Superior Court for $150,000 damages.

Morgan J. Erlick Jr., who was taking flight training at Commodore Aviation in Sausalito on Oct. 17, 1958, was one of three who died when two training planes collided and plunged into the bay. The other two were Eric Raison, 27, an instructor in the same plane with Erlick, and Douglas Gladstone, 27, San Francisco executive who was piloting another plane on a training flight.

Erlick's parents, Morgan J. and Jane Erlick, filed the suit through San Francisco attorney John J. Healy. They charge negligence and carelessness on the part of Commodore Aviation, its president Robert Law, and several John Does.

Hamilton Woman Injured By Car

A/2c Josephina A. Yavarette, 28, of the 1902nd Airways and Air Communication Squadron, suffered fractures of the right leg and pelvis when struck by a car in front of the NCO Club at Hamilton Air Force Base about 8 o'clock last night.

"Suddenly I felt a bump," said Mrs. Thomasina Darlene Rutledge, 23, of Petaluma, driver of the car, in telling the story to Jack Edwards of the California Highway Patrol, called in by Air Police.

"I stopped as soon as I could. I didn't see her prior to the bump."

The victim was taken to the 78th Air Force Hospital for emergency aid, then transferred to Letterman Army Hospital in San Francisco.

Income Tax Rapped

CHICAGO (UPI)—Delegates to the annual convention of the American Farm Bureau Federation voted unanimously to approve a proposal to repeal the individual federal income tax.

The proposal, sponsored by the Wyoming delegation, now goes to the organization's resolutions committee as an amendment to its recommendations.

Marinite Promoted By Telephone Firm

D. E. Matteson of San Rafael has been named division commercial superintendent, San Francisco, for Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Co., thereby leaving the job of directory superintendent.

Matteson has been with Pacific Telephone since 1946. He started his career in San Jose, served as traffic staff assistant in San Rafael between 1948 and 1950 and then, following a tour of military service in Korea, went to the traffic department headquarters engineering office in San Francisco.

JUST IGNORE ANTLERS

To Find Out Deer's Age, Take A Look At Its Teeth

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Checking a deer's antlers is no way to find out its age, says the state Fish and Game Department.

Probably the only accurate way to tell the age of a deer is by checking the animal's teeth.

That's just what the department is doing, in its research into age and growth patterns in the state's deer herds.

Hunters who didn't want to mount their deers' heads as trophies were asked at department checking stations to turn over the jawbones of bucks, so the department can study them.

Director William Warne says he's getting excellent cooperation in the program, which will provide scientific material in addition to the aging and growth data.

The jawbones can also be used to chart the effects of radioactivity, for instance.

In studying jawbones for aging data there are certain key teeth that can be checked to determine accurately whether the animal is one two, three or four years old.

But for any deer four years or older, it's almost impossible to judge age with much accuracy, at least by just looking at teeth.

At that age, some deer's teeth begin to show more than others. And there are other deer variations that make it impractical to adopt a uniform age measurement.

Childless Couples' Questions About Adopting Baby Answered

"We want to adopt a baby, but we have some questions," writes a young wife. "The doctor tells me I may never have a child of my own. We wonder if our parents and friends would accept an adopted child. Are babies easy to get? Do adopted children have special problems?"

If you are normal you will not resent an adopted child. He'll quickly win his way into your hearts. You'll love him as much as you would your own son. So will your parents and friends.

Babies are hard to adopt. That's why there is a black market in babies. They are bought and sold in every large city.

Make an application at a licensed adoption agency. Expect to wait for some time. Be a good sport about the interviews you'll undergo. Answer all the questions honestly. The folks in the agency must learn a lot about you to make their decisions.

If you get a baby, tell everybody he is adopted. When he gets old enough to understand, tell him too. Stress how much you wanted him. Tell how you got him because you loved him.

You'll have your troubles, of course. All parents do. But yours need be no worse than they would have been raising your own child. After you get well launched with your first adopted child, ask for a second. The adoption agencies may help you get another.

Q. "Our son is almost 3. Suddenly he has become disobedient. He actually rebels against us. Formerly he was perfect. What is wrong?"

A.J.C.

(A) Probably nothing. Most children become difficult at his age. Be sure to talk with your baby's doctor about it.

Wrong Numbers Plague Argentine Callers; Old Phone Book Blamed

By JAMES R. WHELAN

BUENOS AIRES (UPI)—"Sorry, wrong number" is a familiar refrain in Argentina.

No wonder. The "current" Greater Buenos Aires telephone book, which lists half of all the telephones in the country, is three years old.

Then again, for a lot of people, even a wrong number would be a luxury. They can't even get a telephone.

According to the State Telecommunications Enterprise, there are 454,000 applications pending for telephones in Argentina. Which is to say 454,000 people have bothered to apply for one. Uncounted thousands more don't even bother.

The telephone book situation is being remedied. The telephone people are now in the process—a painfully slow one—of getting out a new telephone directory. So far, the new books have reached the hands of some suburban subscribers, although they still are non-existent downtown.

Not that it makes a great deal of difference. Because of the nightmare involved in getting a new telephone, many people keep telephones listed in their names long after they have moved out of a house or apartment and rented it to someone else.

The job of filling the orders for new telephones is an infinitely tougher one. The figure of 454,000 requests represents nearly half of all the telephones in the country.

Argentina entered the telephone age relatively early when the Union Telephone Company of the Rio de la Plata was formed in London in 1886, just 10 years after Alexander Graham Bell invented the telephone.

Though the British entrepreneurs were walking something of a tightrope (the government never got around to giving them a formal concession), the telephone business prospered, though not spectacularly.

In 1929, the British sold out to the U.S.-run International Telephone and Telegraph Corporation, which ran the system until 1946, expanding the number of lines from 195,000 to 519,000. That eyar an Argentine Mixed Telephone Enterprise was formed, an ill-fated adventure that saw experienced hands replaced by amateurs and which was climaxed two years later by the jailing of the company president for financial irregularities.

Telephones of the State was formed in 1948 in the era of ex-dictator Juan D. Peron when nationalism was in the saddle.

In the words of La Razon, the city's biggest afternoon newspaper, "the government of the tyrant acquired in 1946 an enterprise technically and commercially well organized and equipped in large measure with a modern plant, and what is more, with plans and financial resources to satisfy future needs . . . (but) the lack of the organizing ability of the personnell named started the undoing of the enterprise."

Now the enterprise is trying to make a comeback, but plans still run well ahead of accomplishments. Waits of 10 years for a telephone are not uncommon and having a telephone in a house or apartment hikes the renting value of the property considerably.

Between 1955 and 1958, the telephone administration planned to add 217,000 new lines. It actually put in 59,000.

Now work is underway on 57 new telephone buildings, including a 22-story main office here. Direct service recently was inaugurated to Comodoro Rivadavia, center of the new Patagonia oil boom, but large parts of the country still lack service.

Telephones of the State says it can do the job. The half million people already in line and the half million ready to join them will be watching anxiously to see how performance measures up to promises.

ONCE HOUSED BAKERY

Some Little-Known Facts About Our Capitol Building

WASHINGTON (AP)—Is there a snuff box under the desk used by the speaker of the House of Representatives? No. But the desk houses one of the world's smallest elevators.

Or that a bakery, equipped to provide bread for up to 3,000 soldiers, once flourished in the maze of tunnels that honeycomb the Capitol basement?

Here's what one Capitol employee had to say about the early air conditioning: "There were some great engineers back in those days. Well, they built some stone stacks. You can still see them on the Capitol grounds. They ran pipes from the stacks down under the building where steam-powered blowers sucked air in from outside and across a chamber filled with ice. From there, another blower forced the cold air into other pipes that led to various rooms in the Capitol and it came out through registers. Some still are in use."

According to this historian, that early-day air conditioning system could keep the Capitol temperature at an even 70 degrees, even during the most blistering July day.

Another gave this account of the early bread ovens: "Did you know Union troops were quartered in the Capitol rotunda during the Civil War? At one time as many as 2,500 took their meals there. Sometime during the war from six to eight bread ovens could turn out bread for 3,000 men a day."

What about that desk elevator? Very simple.

When the House chamber was remodeled in 1950, House officials decided that since speakers often have to read from heavy documents, some provision should be made for both tall and short speakers.

So, a 22 by 36-inch section of the speaker's desk was put on an elevator mechanism. By a touch of a button he can raise that section as high as 18 inches above the rest of the desk. Another flick returns it flush with the desk.

However, since both Democrat Sam Rayburn of Texas and Republican Joseph W. Martin Jr. of Massachusetts—the only men to serve as speaker since 1950—are both short, as far as is known the elevator has never been used.

THE PARENTS' CORNER

Childless Couples' Questions About Adopting Baby Answered

"We want to adopt a baby, but we have some questions," writes a young wife. "The doctor tells me I may never have a child of my own. We wonder if our parents and friends would accept an adopted child. Are babies easy to get? Do adopted children have special problems?"

If you are normal you will not resent an adopted child. He'll quickly win his way into your hearts. You'll love him as much as you would your own son. So will your parents and friends.

Babies are hard to adopt. That's why there is a black market in babies. They are bought and sold in every large city.

Make an application at a licensed adoption agency. Expect to wait for some time. Be a good sport about the interviews you'll undergo. Answer all the questions honestly. The folks in the agency must learn a lot about you to make their decisions.

If you get a baby, tell everybody he is adopted. When he gets old enough to understand, tell him too. Stress how much you wanted him. Tell how you got him because you loved him.

You'll have your troubles, of course. All parents do. But yours need be no worse than they would have been raising your own child. After you get well launched with your first adopted child, ask for a second. The adoption agencies may help you get another.

READER'S FORUM

Q. "Our son is almost 3. Suddenly he has become disobedient. He actually rebels against us. Formerly he was perfect. What is wrong?"

A.J.C.

(A) Probably nothing. Most children become difficult at his age. Be sure to talk with your baby's doctor about it.

Wrong Numbers Plague Argentine Callers; Old Phone Book Blamed

By JAMES R. WHELAN

BUENOS AIRES (UPI)—"Sorry, wrong number" is a familiar refrain in Argentina.

No wonder. The "current" Greater Buenos Aires telephone book, which lists half of all the telephones in the country, is three years old.

Then again, for a lot of people, even a wrong number would be a luxury. They can't even get a telephone.

According to the State Telecommunications Enterprise, there are 454,000 applications pending for telephones in Argentina. Which is to say 454,000 people have bothered to apply for one. Uncounted thousands more don't even bother.

The telephone book situation is being remedied. The telephone people are now in the process—a painfully slow one—of getting out a new telephone directory. So far, the new books have reached the hands of some suburban subscribers, although they still are non-existent downtown.

Not that it makes a great deal of difference. Because of the nightmare involved in getting a new telephone, many people keep telephones listed in their names long after they have moved out of a house or apartment and rented it to someone else.

The job of filling the orders for new telephones is an infinitely tougher one. The figure of 454,000 requests represents nearly half of all the telephones in the country.

Argentina entered the telephone age relatively early when the Union Telephone Company of the Rio de la Plata was formed in London in 1886, just 10 years after Alexander Graham Bell invented the telephone.

Though the British entrepreneurs were walking something of a tightrope (the government never got around to giving them a formal concession), the telephone business prospered, though not spectacularly.

In 1929, the British sold out to the U.S.-run International Telephone and Telegraph Corporation, which ran the system until 1946, expanding the number of lines from 195,000 to 519,000. That eyar an Argentine Mixed Telephone Enterprise was formed, an ill-fated adventure that saw experienced hands replaced by amateurs and which was climaxed two years later by the jailing of the company president for financial irregularities.

Telephones of the State was formed in 1948 in the era of ex-dictator Juan D. Peron when nationalism was in the saddle.

In the words of La Razon, the city's biggest afternoon newspaper, "the government of the tyrant acquired in 1946 an enterprise technically and commercially well organized and equipped in large measure with a modern plant, and what is more, with plans and financial resources to satisfy future needs . . . (but) the lack of the organizing ability of the personnell named started the undoing of the enterprise."

Now the enterprise is trying to make a comeback, but plans still run well ahead of accomplishments. Waits of 10 years for a telephone are not uncommon and having a telephone in a house or apartment hikes the renting value of the property considerably.

Between 1955 and 1958, the telephone administration planned to add 217,000 new lines. It actually put in 59,000.

Now work is underway on 57 new telephone buildings, including a 22-story main office here. Direct service recently was inaugurated to Comodoro Rivadavia, center of the new Patagonia oil boom, but large parts of the country still lack service.

Telephones of the State says it can do the job. The half million people already in line and the half million ready to join them will be watching anxiously to see how performance measures up to promises.

ONCE HOUSED BAKERY

Some Little-Known Facts About Our Capitol Building

WASHINGTON (AP)—Is there a snuff box under the desk used by the speaker of the House of Representatives? No. But the desk houses one of the world's smallest elevators.

And did you know the U.S. Capitol building got its first air conditioning system exactly 100 years ago? It worked, too.

Or that a bakery, equipped to provide bread for up to 3,000 soldiers, once flourished in the maze of tunnels that honeycomb the Capitol basement?

Here's what one Capitol employee had to say about the early air conditioning: "There were some great engineers back in those days. Well, they built some stone stacks. You can still see them on the Capitol grounds. They ran pipes from the stacks down under the building where steam-powered blowers sucked air in from outside and across a chamber filled with ice. From there, another blower forced the cold air into other pipes that led to various rooms in the Capitol and it came out through registers. Some still are in use."

According to this historian, that early-day air conditioning system could keep the Capitol temperature at an even 70 degrees, even during the most blistering July day.

Another gave this account of the early bread ovens: "Did you know Union troops were quartered in the Capitol rotunda during the Civil War? At one time as many as 2,500 took their meals there. Sometime during the war from six to eight bread ovens could turn out bread for 3,000 men a day."

What about that desk elevator? Very simple.

When the House chamber was remodeled in 1950, House officials decided that since speakers often have to read from heavy documents, some provision should be made for both tall and short speakers.

So, a 22 by 36-inch section of the speaker's desk was put on an elevator mechanism. By a touch of a button he can raise that section as high as 18 inches above the rest of the desk. Another flick returns it flush with the desk.

However, since both Democrat Sam Rayburn of Texas and Republican Joseph W. Martin Jr. of Massachusetts—the only men to serve as speaker since 1950—are both short, as far as is known the elevator has never been used.

Jewish Center Taking Vacation Registrations

During the first week of vacation, the program will include a boat ride around the bay, next Tuesday, and a celebration of United Nations Day at the center on Dec. 23. The second week will feature a swim program at the San Francisco Jewish Center, Dec. 28, a marionette show Dec. 29, and a New Year party, Dec. 30. Children between the ages of 6 and 12 are eligible.

Yule Decorations Judging Monday

Judging of Christmas decorations at homes in San Rafael's Bret Harte area will be conducted from 8 to 10 p.m. Monday, according to Wallace Marshall, president of the sponsoring Bret Harte Civic Assn. James Patrick is contest chairman.

No formal entry is required for participation, Marshall said. Winner of the area's 10th such event will receive $25 and a silver cigarette urn and tray, as well as possession of a revolving trophy for one year.

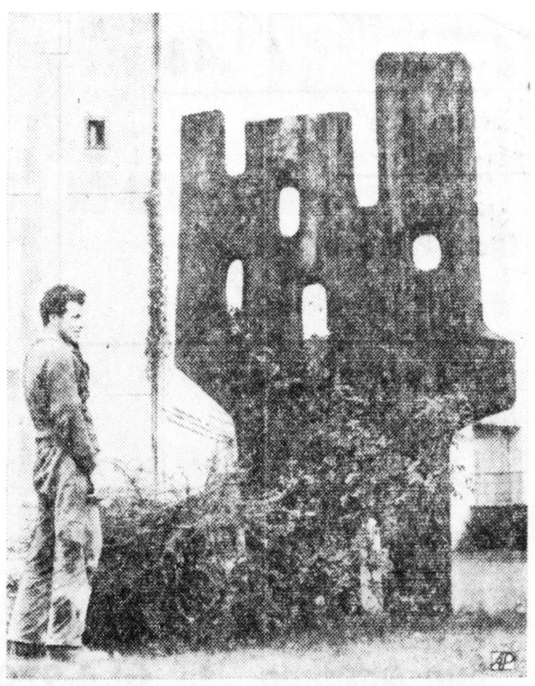
Other prizes include $15 for second place winner, $10 for third and merchandise prizes donated by area merchants for those winning honorable mention.

Supervisors Check Responsibility For Patients' Safety

Who is responsible for the "ultimate safety" of the patients at the county hospital and farm in Lucas Valley in case of fire or disaster?

That was a question asked the Marin County Board of Supervisors yesterday by the Marin Safety Commission. The Supervisors didn't know the answer so they decided to find out. They appointed a committee headed by farm superintendent Lloyd De La Montanya and including Fire Chief Charles Reilley and administrator Donald A. Jensen.

The board instructed the committee to act immediately and bring back a "realistic plan" for evacuating the hospital in case of disaster.



PUZZLING ART

Visitor to Paris museum views tableau of tiny lead soldiers, part of 4,000 such figures on display. Setting depicts the last charge of the French cuirassiers for the Emperor Napoleon at the decisive battle of Waterloo in 1815.

Warning Given On Yule Decoration Fire Hazard

Citing the fact that 26 persons, including 16 children, died last year during the Christmas season as the result of home fires involving Christmas trees, Cavallero offered several suggestions to help assure a fire-free Christmas.

Select a small, fresh tree, Cavallero said, which should be left outdoors in a pail of water until it is ready to use. Cutting the butt of the tree on an angle and placing in water or a container of sand will help keep the tree fresh after it is taken indoors.

Other suggestions:

1. Keep tree clear of hot spots such as wall heaters, fireplaces, television sets or other heating appliances.

2. Make sure the tree is away from doors.

3. When extreme dryness sets in, remove tree at once.

4. Use only approved tree lights bearing the Underwriters Laboratories label and never use candles or open flames.

5. Never run an electric train around base of tree and make sure the on-off switch is a safe distance from the tree itself.

6. Remove and dispose of all Christmas wrappings as soon as possible.

7. Never leave tree lights burning when everyone has retired or no one is at home.

8. Do not use gauze, cotton batting or paper ornaments for decorations.

Cotton and gauze may be made flameproof, however, by dipping in a gallon of water mixed with nine ounces of borax and four ounces of boric acid.

$5,035 Bid Accepted For School Land

The West Marin School District board has accepted the $5,035 bid of Point Reyes Station rancher Waldo Giacomini and his wife for purchase of the old Black School property in Point Reyes Station. It was the only bid received.

The half-acre property is commercially zoned. When the school was torn down about six years ago, the fire station was built on one-half of the original school property. The school board retained title to the other half. It decided to sell the land to help pay for a new building program.

The board set the minimum acceptable bid for the property at $5,000.

Supt. George Stratton was given a three-year contract by the board. Stratton was given a one-year contract last year.

An informal joint meeting was held after the board's regular session Monday night with trustees and the superintendent of the Tomales Joint Union School District. The high school district's February tax election and the high school curriculum were discussed.

Drive Opens To Finance Mercy Vessel

NEW YORK (UPI) —A nationwide campaign was opened today to finance the fitting and operation of the medical ship Hope, a non-governmental people-to-people project to carry American medical knowledge to other nations.

The mothballed Navy hospital ship Consolation will be turned over at the San Francisco Navy Yard to the sponsoring organization, Health Opportunities for People Everywhere, it was announced.

The ship, to be staffed by 15 doctors, 20 nurses, two dentists and 20 auxiliary personnel, with an additional rotating for of 35 physicians, will be primarily a teaching hospital, dealing with the medical personnel of the nation visited, and going only where it is invited. Requests for visits have been received from Indonesia, Vietnam and Pakistan.

HEART WASN'T IN CARDS, SO HE STOPPED IT

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI) — Ohio Gov. Michael V. Disalle is one man who has trimmed his Christmas card list to the bone—he doesn't send any cards at all.

In fact, he hasn't sent any for 20 years.

"I came to the conclusion that some of the people who sent me cards didn't mean the greetings at all and I know I didn't mean it when I sent some cards, so to keep things truly in the spirit of Christmas, I just decided not to send out any more," he said.

Long Overdue

TIFFIN, Ohio (AP) — A key from the Hotel Morcher was mailed back recently, but postmaster Paul B. Parker isn't sure where to deliver it or how to collect postage due.

Firemen In Novato Nominate Officers

The annual election will be held at the next meeting of the association on Dec. 28. Installation of officers will be at a dinner at Rickey's Rancho Rafael on Jan. 9.

The volunteers also have completed arrangements for their Christmas party, scheduled for Saturday at the main firehouse on Grant avenue. Santa Claus will be on hand from 9:30 a.m. until 4 p.m. to hear requests from Novato's youngsters.

Barnaby Rudge VI, an attraction at the National Zoo in Washington, is believed to be the first striped hyena cub to be born in a zoo.

Original Director Of 'Blue Angel' Sues For Million

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Austria-born film director Josef von Sternberg has sued 20th Century-Fox Studios for one million dollars in damages he claimed was due him from the filming of "The Blue Angel."

Von Sternbergs' suit charged the modern version of the film he had made 30 years ago in Germany was a travesty.

The original film took Marlene Dietrich to stardom.

The suit said the new version was an inferior motion picture and the subject of constant unfavorable criticism by the public, press and theatrical and entertainment industries.

Finishes Army Course

Army Sp/5 Walter E. Goddard, 29, whose wife, Alyse, and parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis B. Goddard, live at 821 Dorther street, Mill Valley, has completed the nine-week equipment maintenance course at the Engineer School, Ft. Belvoir, Va.

Sausalito Restaurant Will Reopen Jan. 2

The two-story building has been moved to its new deck, two feet higher than the old foundation, onto concrete pilings driven 80 feet down.

The move was accomplished in one hour and 40 minutes by J. and T. Sullivan of San Francisco, so gently that they "didn't even break a glass," George P. Gutekunst, one of the Ondine owners, reported today.

Relocation of the restaurant was necessitated by Sausalito's plans to widen Bridgeway.

Gutekunst said a "casual" type restaurant will be opened next April on the first floor with a terraced outdoor dining deck. There will be floats for yachts to tie up at the deck.

Fred Martinez and Gutekunst have been co-owners of the restaurant. Addition of a third partner was announced today by Gutekunst. He is Alfred Roblin, chef at the eatery.

Greenbrae Couple Sails On 7-Week Shipboard Cruise

Mr. and Mrs. Niels Schultz Sr. of Greenbrae have sailed aboard the SS Rotterdam for a seven-week cruise stopping at South American ports, the West Indies and Virgin Islands.

The couple will spend Christmas in the Juan Fernandez Islands and New Year's Day at Puerto Montt, Chile.

Schultz is planning on inspecting new buildings in search of ideas for his construction projects. Along with his sons, Niels Jr. and Alvin, the elder Schultz developed the Greenbrae subdivision.

The developer has spent his life in the construction field. He was one of the original developers of San Francisco's Marina district. A later project was the peninsula community of Millbrae.

This summer Schultz and his wife spent two months in Europe on a combined business-pleasure trip.

The couple will return to Marin early in February

Army Announces Holiday Program

"Operation Holiday," a plan to enable men and women enlisting or re-enlisting in the Army during the remainder of December to be granted advanced leave and thus avoid having to travel or report for duty during the holiday season, has been announced by the U. S. Army.

Under this plan an enlisting man or woman will begin earning pay and other benefits immediately but will not have to report for official duty until after Jan. 1.

Yule Decorations Judging Monday

Judging of Christmas decorations at homes in San Rafael's Bret Harte area will be conducted from 8 to 10 p.m. Monday, according to Wallace Marshall, president of the sponsoring Bret Harte Civic Assn. James Patrick is contest chairman.

No formal entry is required for participation, Marshall said. Winner of the area's 10th such event will receive $25 and a silver cigarette urn and tray, as well as possession of a revolving trophy for one year.

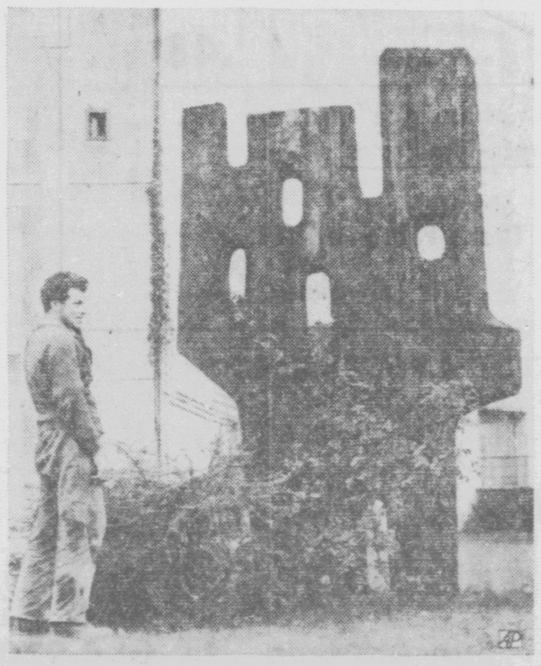
Other prizes include $15 for second place winner, $10 for third and merchandise prizes donated by area merchants for those winning honorable mention.

Supervisors Check Responsibility For Patients' Safety

Who is responsible for the "ultimate safety" of the patients at the county hospital and farm in Lucas Valley in case of fire or disaster?

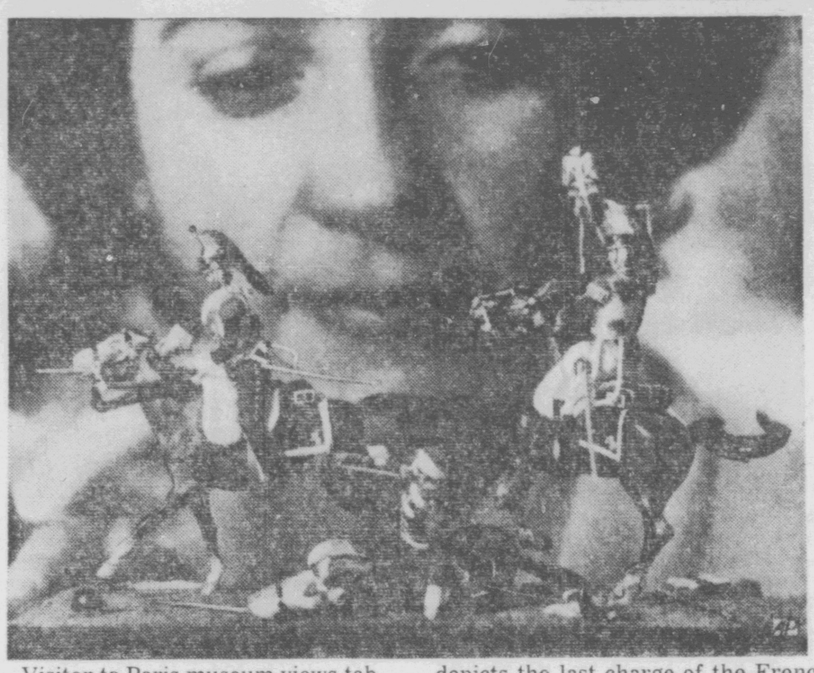
That was a question asked the Marin County Board of Supervisors yesterday by the Marin Safety Commission. The Supervisors didn't know the answer so they decided to find out. They appointed a committee headed by farm superintendent Lloyd De La Montanya and including Fire Chief Charles Reilley and administrator Donald A. Jensen.

The board instructed the committee to act immediately and bring back a "realistic plan" for evacuating the hospital in case of disaster.



PUZZLING ART

A workman views modern sculpture set up in Stuttgart, Germany, street. Passersby call the work by Herbert Hajek the "cheese monument."



Visitor to Paris museum views tableau of tiny lead soldiers, part of 4,000 such figures on display. Setting depicts the last charge of the French cuirassiers for the Emperor Napoleon at the decisive battle of Waterloo in 1815.

Warning Given On Yule Decoration Fire Hazard

Citing the fact that 26 persons, including 16 children, died last year during the Christmas season as the result of home fires involving Christmas trees, Cavallero offered several suggestions to help assure a fire-free Christmas.

Select a small, fresh tree, Cavallero said, which should be left outdoors in a pail of water until it is ready to use. Cutting the butt of the tree on an angle and placing in water or a container of sand will help keep the tree fresh after it is taken indoors.

Other suggestions:

1. Keep tree clear of hot spots such as wall heaters, fireplaces, television sets or other heating appliances.

2. Make sure the tree is away from doors.

3. When extreme dryness sets in, remove tree at once.

4. Use only approved tree lights bearing the Underwriters Laboratories label and never use candles or open flames.

5. Never run an electric train around base of tree and make sure the on-off switch is a safe distance from the tree itself.

6. Remove and dispose of all Christmas wrappings as soon as possible.

7. Never leave tree lights burning when everyone has retired or no one is at home.

8. Do not use gauze, cotton batting or paper ornaments for decorations.

Cotton and gauze may be made flameproof, however, by dipping in a gallon of water mixed with nine ounces of borax and four ounces of boric acid.

$5,035 Bid Accepted For School Land

The West Marin School District board has accepted the $5,035 bid of Point Reyes Station rancher Waldo Giacomini and his wife for purchase of the old Black School property in Point Reyes Station. It was the only bid received.

The half-acre property is commercially zoned. When the school was torn down about six years ago, the fire station was built on one-half of the original school property. The school board retained title to the other half. It decided to sell the land to help pay for a new building program.

The board set the minimum acceptable bid for the property at $5,035.

Supt. George Stratton was given a three-year contract by the board. Stratton was given a one-year contract last year.

An informal joint meeting was held after the board's regular session Monday night with trustees and the superintendent of the Tomales Joint Union School District. The high school district's February tax election and the high school curriculum were discussed.

Sausalito Restaurant Will Reopen Jan. 2

The two-story building has been moved to its new deck, two feet higher than the old foundation, onto concrete pilings driven 80 feet down.

The move was accomplished in one hour and 40 minutes by J. and T. Sullivan of San Francisco, so gently that they "didn't even break a glass," George P. Gutekunst, one of the Ondine owners, reported today.

Relocation of the restaurant was necessitated by Sausalito's plans to widen Bridgeway.

Gutekunst said a "casual" type restaurant will be opened next April on the first floor with a terraced outdoor dining deck. There will be floats for yachts to tie up at the deck.

Fred Martinez and Gutekunst have been co-owners of the restaurant. Addition of a third partner was announced today by Gutekunst. He is Alfred Roblin, chef at the eatery.

Greenbrae Couple Sails On 7-Week Shipboard Cruise

Mr. and Mrs. Niels Schultz Sr. of Greenbrae have sailed aboard the SS Rotterdam for a seven-week cruise stopping at South American ports, the West Indies and Virgin Islands.

The couple will spend Christmas in the Juan Fernandez Islands and New Year's Day at Puerto Montt, Chile.

Schultz is planning on inspecting new buildings in search of ideas for his construction projects. Along with his sons, Niels Jr. and Alvin, the elder Schultz developed the Greenbrae subdivision.

The developer has spent his life in the construction field. He was one of the original developers of San Francisco's Marina district. A later project was the peninsula community of Millbrae.

This summer Schultz and his wife spent two months in Europe on a combined business-pleasure trip.

The couple will return to Marin early in February

Under this plan an enlisting man or woman will begin earning pay and other benefits immediately but will not have to report for official duty until after Jan. 1.

Drive Opens To Finance Mercy Vessel

NEW YORK (UPI)—A nationwide campaign was opened today to finance the fitting and operation of the medical ship Hope, a non-governmental people-to-people project to carry American medical knowledge to other nations.

The mothballed Navy hospital ship Consolation will be turned over at the San Francisco Navy Yard to the sponsoring organization, Health Opportunities for People Everywhere, it was announced.

The ship, to be staffed by 15 doctors, 20 nurses, two dentists and 20 auxiliary personnel, with an additional rotating for of 35 physicians, will be primarily a teaching hospital, dealing with the medical personnel of the nation visited, and going only where it is invited. Requests for visits have been received from Indonesia, Vietnam and Pakistan.

HEART WASN'T IN CARDS, SO HE STOPPED IT

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI)—Ohio Gov. Michael V. Disalle is one man who has trimmed his Christmas card list to the bone—he doesn't send any cards at all.

In fact, he hasn't sent any for 20 years.

"I came to the conclusion that some of the people who sent me cards didn't mean the greetings at all and I know I didn't mean it when I sent some cards, so to keep things truly in the spirit of Christmas, I just decided not to send out any more," he said.

Long Overdue

TIFFIN, Ohio (AP)—A key from the Hotel Morcher was mailed back recently, but postmaster Paul B. Parker isn't sure where to deliver it or how to collect postage due.

Original Director Of 'Blue Angel' Sues For Million

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Austria-born film director Josef von Sternberg has sued 20th Century-Fox Studios for one million dollars in damages he claimed was due him from the filming of "The Blue Angel."

Von Sternbergs' suit charged the modern version of the film he had made 30 years ago in Germany was a travesty.

The original film took Marlene Dietrich to stardom.

The suit said the new version was an inferior motion picture and the subject of constant unfavorable criticism by the public, press and theatrical and entertainment industries.
